Pacific War Claims Spotlight For Week; Europe Awaits Onset

Interpretation By GLENN BABB
(Wide World War Analyst

While the great forces besieging and defending Hitler's European fortress remained poised last week for the first onset of the Allies' 1943 offensive the war in the Pacific claimed the spotlight. Against the European end of the Axis the United Nations waged the war of the air and the war of nerves but against the Asiatic end they loosed a formidable combination of air, land and sea power.

But while these forces were in actual close-quarter contact with the enemy holding Japan's outermost defenses it was strongly indicated that this, like the continued air assault on Europe, was merely a preparatory phase for far larger undertakings.

In Europe the Axis lands, especially Italy, lived from day to day under the shadow of imminent invasion. They knew that it might come at any moment and the Allies did nothing to lessen their anxieties. Axis propaganda insisted throughout the week that the American-British attack was coming on Saturday. When it did—and there never had been any Allied suggestion that it would—Doctor Goebbels tried to comfort his people with the idea that the Allied timetable had gone away.

Friday the Japanese navy had its try. A small cruiser and destroyer force tried to bombard Rendova but American surface vessels quickly put it to flight. One of the main purposes of the offensive was to compel the Japanese fleet to come out and fight and it was an American hope that this skirmish would prove the prelude to something much bigger.

WILL NAME SHIP GEORGE M. COHAN

Cantor To Sing 'Over There' And 'It's A Grand Old Flag'

BALTIMORE, July 3.—(AP)—The kid who was born on the Fourth of July and lived to quicken the pulse of a nation at war with the stirring marching song "Over There" is dead, but the name of George M. Cohan will make another contribution to World War II—tagged to a Liberty ship.

They'll launch one of the 10,500-tonners tomorrow to the time of one of his famed "Flag-Wavers"—"Yankee Doodle Dandy."

On hand to do the job right will be his life-long friends, Eddie Cantor, Ida Cantor, his wife, and at least one of "the girls." Eddie won't sing "Yankee Doodle Dandy," because that's reserved for the military band which will play it as the cargo vessel begins moving down the ways at the Bethlehem-Fairfield shipyards.

However, Cantor will lead the thousands of shipyard workers who will hear forging of new links in the "bridge of ships" long enough [illegible] tribute to Cohan in the singing of "Over There," and "It's A Grand Old Flag."

Cohan was born in Providence, R. I., July 4, 1878, and died last November [illegible] song-and-dance man, song writer, super-patriot that made his name an American tradition.

He received the congressional medal —highest award his country [illegible] bestow—for his "Over There."

[illegible] once called him "a great guy and great American" and added that there'll never be another like him.

That's why the comedian is coming to [illegible] to help see there'll be no lack of fervent waving of "the grand old flag" during the big moment of the launching of the George M. Cohan.

The public will not be admitted to the ceremony at the shipyard, but Cantor, Ida, and Marjorie will tell them about it at a bond rally at Druid Hill Park later.

The George M. Cohan is the 161st Liberty ship to be readied for launching at Bethlehem-Fairfield. It was constructed in [illegible] days.

[illegible]W DISPUTE IS UP TO ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, July 3—(AP)—A new administrative dispute was dumped on the White House doorstep today when [illegible] Sharfman, chairman of the railroad emergency board, turned down Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson's request that the board reconsider its recommendation for an 8 cents an hour wage increase for non-operating railway employes.

Sharfman told Vinson in a letter that he was without authority to reconvene the board. At a press conference, he added that the stabilization director "is trying to tell us how to settle the dispute and we are the only ones having that authority."

The board, Sharfman said, had recommended to the president what it deemed to be a fair and reasonable settlement, and there was no point in reconsidering it.

FURY OF ATTACK ON ITALY GROWS

New Peak Reached In Bombing Bases In Sicily And Sardinia

TONS OF HIGH EXPLOSIVES RAIN ON BATTERED CITIES

By Noland Borgaard

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 3.—(AP)—The Allied assault on Italy's military air fields rose to a new peak of fury yesterday when heavy and medium bombers from North Africa and the Middle East swung across by daylight to pulverize four important bases on Sicily and the Italian mainland.

Only a few hours earlier heavy British night bombers had poured scores of tons of high explosives and fire bombs on the battered cities of Palermo and Catania, Sicily, and Cagliari, on Sardinia.

The attack on Palermo was termed "heavy and successful," with two-ton blockbusters heading the destruction.

In what a United States communique described as "a sudden intensification of the attack," nearly 100 four-engined Liberators of the Middle East command swarmed over the "heel" of Italy to drop more than 400,000 pounds of bombs on Axis airdromes of Lecce, Grottaglie and San Pancrazio—all within the aerial defense zone protecting the big Italian naval base at Taranto.

It was the biggest offensive action yet staged by Liberators of the Cairo command. Three were lost as clouds of German and Italian fighters rose to defend their home fields, but 12 Axis planes were destroyed, paying the penalty for getting within range of the Liberators' machine-guns.

Dispersal areas at all three airdromes were blanketed with fragmentation bombs, direct hits were scored on hangars and runways and bursts were seen throughout the target areas, a communique said. At Lecce bursts of smoke covered the field, indicating hits on grounded aircraft and at least two were destroyed at Grottaglie, the announcement said. It was American precision bombing at its best.

Grottaglie is 10 miles northeast of Taranto, San Pancrazio is 28 miles east of the naval base and Lecce is 42 miles to the east. Axis fighters trying to protect the bases resorted to attempts at bombing the American raiders from above, but there was no indication they were any more successful than in previous attempts.

LESS FUEL FOR MID-WEST ASKED

Senate Committee Advises Tightening Gasoline Restrictions

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Tightened restrictions on gasoline use in the mid-west—so that some of its motor fuel may be sent to the east—were recommended today by a senate committee which also urged broader authority over all oil problems for Secretary Ickes.

The committee, headed by Senator Maloney, Democrat, Connecticut, and appointed to investigate gasoline and fuel oil shortages, said the outlook for relief was not good.

"We must plan for the worst and hope for the best," it said.

A recommendation for greater powers for Ickes also came from a subcommittee of the house interstate commerce committee. The group, headed by Representative Lea, Democrat, California, urged, too, an increase in the price of crude oil. It noted that Ickes recommended an increase of 35 cents a barrel, but was turned down by the office of price administration.

The senate committee suggested

SHREVEPORT SOLDIER IS FATALLY INJURED

SHREVEPORT, La., July 3.—(AP)—From injuries received in an accident in the California maneuver area, Staff Sergeant Huey Spence, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Spence, this city, and the husband of the former Miss Marie Lafitte, died Thursday.

Sergeant Spence was stationed at Camp Haan, Calif., with the coastal artillery unit. He was a member of the 204th coast artillery (A.A.) of Shreveport which mobilized in January, 1940.

He attended Fair Park High school, and was assistant golf professional at the Shreveport Country club before taking the position of pro at the Municipal Golf course.

Sergeant Spence is survived by a daughter, Ada, and one brother, Fulton Spence, also of Shreveport, a well known young golfer, as well as his widow and parents.

The body was sent from California and funeral arrangements are being made.

PICTURE BETTER IN COAL FIELDS

About 1,000 Miners Still Are Idle In Several States

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—(AP)—A picture of continuing improvement was reflected today throughout the coal fields although in western Pennsylvania two new outbreaks left 1,100 more diggers idle and shut down a big captive pit of the Republic Steel corporation.

Report disclosed that about 100,000 miners still were idle in Pennsylvania, Alabama, Virginia and Tennessee but on the strength of back-to-work votes by a number of local union units today—and a strong return sentiment in Pennsylvania's anthracite fields—United Mine Workers officials expressed belief this figure would be cut sharply Monday.

Earlier the U. M. W. leadership had admonished all members to return to work because "there is nothing to be gained" by continued striking and "the war cannot be won without an adequate supply of coal."

The biggest back-to-work developments came in the big producing state of Pennsylvania, although considerable improvement was noted in Alabama, where 9,000 of 24,000 miners worked today, including 40 per cent in captive shafts which supply coal for industrial plants.

In Tennessee, there were no idle mines in the Knoxville area, where 7,500 men are employed. In the Chattanooga area, only 175 were idle, while 1,725 were working.

Seven locals comprising 5,075 workers voted today to return Monday in the troublesome U. M. W. District 2 of central Pennsylvania, where yesterday only 10,600 of 45,60 worked.

In District 5 of western Pennsylvania, U. M. W. President John P. Busarello said 1,400 men at the Vesta No. 5 mine of the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation also voted, by secret ballot, to return. Another J. and L. pit, Vesta No. 4, employing 1,600 men, took similar action yesterday.

A score of locals called meetings for late today in the anthracite fields of eastern Pennsylvania, where local U. M. W. leaders said back-to-work sentiment strengthened after district leaders made detailed explanations of the status of contract negotiations and gave assurances that any wage increases granted will be retroactive. Secretary Ickes' assurance that miners would get time-and-a-half pay for any work on Monday—observed as the July 4 holiday—contributed to the change in sentiment, local presidents said. Of the region's 83,000 workers, 41,000 have been idle.

NEW ORLEANS SUIT ASKS $4,178,954.29

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—Max N. Kohler of Bay St. Louis, Miss., a stockholder in the Crescent City Laundries, Inc., of New Orleans, filed suit in federal district court here yesterday against 24 persons and concerns asking $4,178,954.29.

Kohler charged that the money was lost by the laundry concern over more than a decade by alleged irregular operations of the company's business.

His petition said most of the losses resulted from stock deals with various laundries and cleaning concerns, and alleged that certain individuals received part of the stock which should have gone to the Crescent City corporation.

Kohler asked the court to declare a judgment for the stockholders in the amount asked, or appoint a receiver to study the charges and prosecute the claims.

Firms named in the suit include the Standard Fruit and Steamship company, the Standard Fruit and Steamship corporation, Weil and Company, Inc., all of New Orleans, the American National Life Insurance company of Galveston, Tex., Dallas Rupe and company, Dallas, Tex., and Allen and company of New York. Officers and directors of the Crescent City concern also were named as defendants.

GOEBBELS TRIES INVASION JOKES

Unable To Conceal Misgivings In Nazi Europe As Date Passes

REICHSMARSHAL GOERING REPORTED SERIOUSLY ILL

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—Ponderous attempts at levity by Paul Joseph Goebbels' propaganda machine today could not quite conceal the misgivings within Nazi Europe as the second date set by the Germans for an Allied invasion passed with scarcely more than the usual flow of reports from belligerent and neutral capitals.

Stories of spreading uneasiness within Hitler's fortress kept coming. Stockholm newspaper reports asserted that Reichsmarshal Hermen Goering was "very ill," having suffered a "nervous breakdown with serious heart trouble after taking a cure."

The reports said two specialists and Goering's wife were at his side almost uninterruptedly and that only intimates were permitted to see the air chief.

Obviously inspired by Goebbels, the Paris radio put on during the day a heavy-footed "humorous" program ridiculing Allied plans for an attack on Europe. The date of July 3 for the Allied push was set arbitrarily by Goebbels after his previous guess of June 22 had not borne fruit.

Starting at 7 a.m. and breaking into the program at intervals until early afternoon, voices from "somewhere in France" kept listeners advised of the invasion situation. It was designed to be extremely funny. Examples:

8 a.m.—"The British and Americans are still at breakfast."

9 a.m.—"We have just learned that the British and Americans have left the breakfast table."

1 p.m.—"Still nothing. Perhaps the British will make up their minds later in the day."

The apparent reason for the German build-up of the alleged invasion date was to arouse the hopes of the populace of the occupied countries and then to crush them with ridicule. At one time today the Paris announcer told them with heavy satire that "the hour of liberation is striking."

On the Rome radio an Italian military commentator said Italy would defend her soil to the last, but that the European invasion "seems to have become a nightmare more for our opponents than for ourselves. They seem not to have made up their minds where and when to start." He added that the initial blow probably would be struck at Italy.

A German commentator asserted that "in spite of many strategic possibilities in the Mediterranean zone, the enemy cannot exploit them. This conquest already has cost the Allies many more men and, above all, much more time than they expected."

In the afternoon the Paris radio, tiring of its "invasion" skit, turned to spreading rumors of revolts among the French in North Africa, one broadcast recorded by the Associated Press declaring that a revolt against General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Henri Giraud was brewing in Algiers. It also told of a "new rebellion" in northern Syria.

POSTOFFICE WILL BE CLOSED MONDAY

The Monroe postoffice will remain closed all day Monday in recognition of July Fourth which falls on Sunday.

Postmaster J. R. Wooten, who has been ill and confined to his home for some weeks, was at his office Saturday for the first time and is slowly recovering his strength.

WORK TO GO ON ON JULY FOURTH

Few Will Get Chance To Celebrate In Traditional Manner

(By Associated Press)

The peacetime practice of taking an extra day off when the Fourth of July comes on Sunday will be lost this year in the dust of America's high speed war production.

Full-time working schedules over the July 3-4-5 week-end are in order for Joe the war plant worker, although banks, many stores and other establishments will be closed tomorrow.

The war production board said it had received promises of general adherence to Chairman Donald M. Nelson's request that war workers celebrate Independence day on Sunday only instead of carrying the holiday over into Monday.

The president and congress also decided to continue production and forget the holiday.

The White House let it be known that Mr. Roosevelt planned no special observance of the day and would be doing business as usual on Monday.

The senate and house, busy throughout Saturday with appropriation bills, arranged to get back on the same jobs Monday.

Those who have time to celebrate will have little chance to do so in the traditional manner.

WILLING TO RENT CAGE FOR CHILDREN

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—The following ad appeared in today's Times Picayune:

"Wanted by a naval officer's wife—whose husband is serving overseas—and three monsters in the form of my little children—to rent—a 2 or 3-bedroom house, apartment, barn or cage or whatever is supposed to serve as shelter when such terrible creatures as children have to be considered—not exceeding $50 per month—furnished or unfurnished.

"$20 reward—subject my acceptance."

Senate Committee Proposes To Grant Authority For $525,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Authority for payment of up to $525,000,000 in subsidies between now and January 1 was recommended today by the senate banking committee today after a three-hour closed session with War Mobilization Director Byrnes and other high administration officials.

The authority would be extended—and limited to that sum—by an amendment to a house-approved resolution renewing the life of the commodity credit corporation for six months and increasing its borrowing power from $2,650,000,000 to an even $3,000,000,000.

The house approved the CCC extender, after sustaining President Roosevelt's veto of an earlier measure which attempted to place a drastic ban on subsidy payments intended to roll back the price of food.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, sponsor of the amendment limiting subsidy payments for the balance of the year to the $525,000,000 total, pointed out that the language of the provision did not restrict roll back payments which have been made to

CHENNAULT'S MEN START NEW YEAR

HEADQUARTERS U. S. 14TH AIR FORCE, China, July 3.—(AP)—Major General Claire L. Chennault said today in an address commemorating the first anniversary of the United States air forces in China: "I sincerely hope that during the next year you men will fly over Japan itself many times before the first firecracker explodes July 4, 1944."

"We are starting a new year," Chennault declared. "Things will be different before it ends."

He recalled that on July 4th, 1942, the American Voulnteer Group completed a "remarkable and outstanding chapter in American aerial history." He told the air force ground crewmen and headquarters staff that "you strafed and bombed 35 important Japanese bases and numerous other targets of opportunity. You made them pay a high price for the raids they made on American bases in China."

SHORE-TO-SHORE AIR COVER HOLDS BACK U-BOAT PACKS

By Rice Yahner

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—Carrier borne and land-based planes, teaming to provide "complete shore-to-shore air cover" spanning the Atlantic, have helped bring a valuable convoy over that dangerous sea "without interference from powerful forces of U-boats," it was announced today.

A joint Admiralty and Air Ministry communique describing continuous air protection against submarines declared that in attacks over a two-day period recently one U-boat was destroyed, another was probably destroyed, and "others may have been damaged."

The escort carrier H. M. S. Archer and her planes took up the task of air protection between the time that the convoy moved our of range of the land-based planes on the western side of the Atlantic, and reached the range of those based in Britain. The convoy crossed "a few days ago."

Today's announcement followed on two weeks ago saying that British naval and air units had beaten off "one of the fiercest and most sustained offensives ever mounted by U-boats," sinking from two to five submarines and demaging others in a five-day running battle.

In this newest success, the joint communique said, the convoy also was protected by surface escorts under Commander M. J. Evans in the Destroyer H. M. S. Keppel. The Keppel is a veteran of escorts on the North Russia and Malta convoys, and was a part of the escort for the first U. S. troops to Britain. It also engaged in the death chase of the German battleship Bismarck.

"Close air cover was provided during the initial stage of the passage by Hudson, Ventura, Loberator and Catalina aircraft of the Royal Canadian Air Force Eastern air command and during the final stage by Liberator, Sunderland and Halifax aircraft of the Royal Air Force Coastal command," the communique said.

"The Mid-Atlantic air gap between the extreme escorting ranges of these shore-based aircraft was bridged by swordfish and martlet aircraft from the escort carrier H. M. S. Archer."

Aircraft from the Archer score the one confirmed kill, diving out of a cloud cover on a submarine 15 miles from the convoy.

"The submarine made repeated and unsuccessful attempts to dive. It then endeavored to get underway on the surface, turning in slow circles with oil pouring from its tanks." Later it was abandoned and sank, and a number of survivors were picked up.

Depth charges from an airplane of the fleet air arm probably sank another U-Boat, a Liberator of the coastal command attacked a third, and naval aircraft forced two others to dive. The conning tower of one submarine was peppered by gunfire from a plane.

CONGRESS VOTES TO ABANDON NYA

Senate Joins House In Voting Only For Liquidation Fund

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Congress agreed today to kill the national youth administration.

The decision to end the agency which was created eight years ago as a work relief organization came when the senate accepted by a 39 to 33 vote a house demand that NYA be given only $3,000,000 to finance its liquidation at the end of 1943. Originally, the senate had voted the agency $48,800,000 to continue operation for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

The argument of Senator Truman, Democrat, Missouri, of the senate's war investigating committee that NYA's program of training youths for war industry work is "absolutely essential" failed to save the agency. Opponents of NYA, including Representative Short, Republican, Missouri, had contended NYA was inducing youths to leave farms for work in shipyards and was engaged in "silly, crazy, cock-eyed" activities.

The provision abolishing NYA was written into a $1,136,000,000 appropriation bill for labor-security programs. Agreement of the house and senate on the NYA amendment brought the two houses a long step nearer final accord on the appropriation measure, one of a group of big money bills to

SKIN OF CONVICT GRAFTED ON CHILD

"Now, don't you be nervous," she said. "It won't hurt."

Daniel Donahoe, 41, grinned back. "I ain't going to be nervous, honey," he said.

The the two of them were wheeled into the operating room where Dr. Alma D. Morani transferred from Donahue's thighs to the blonde little girl's chest the skin that may save her life.

Evelyn was burned terribly when her dress caught fire last November. Despite four operations, she was near death when another skin donor was sought among eastern penitentiary inmates.

No. 35,440, Donahue, convicted of killing a policeman during a holdup in 1929, was one of 30 who volunteered. "I'd like to do something for somebody," he said.

When the anesthetic wore off he went in to see Evelyn. She couldn't move her arms or legs but she raised her head, bobbing a green hair ribbon.

"Anything you want?"

"Nothing, thank you. I—I hope the skin looks as nice on me as it did on you."

"How about a doll?"

"Thanks," she laughed, "I have 22."

"Well," said Donahue, "you hurry up and get better." He bent and kissed her.

"Nice going," one of them said.

AMERICAN FORCES DRIVE TOWARD MUNDA AIR BASE

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Sunday, July 4.—(AP)—By sea and air the Allied invaders of the central Solomons have thrown back Japanese attempts to interfere with the Pacific offensive, having increased to 134 the total of enemy planes downed and driven off enemy ships bent on shelling Rendova, it was announced today.

Eleven more enemy planes were downed on Friday and Saturday over Rendova where the Americans landed on Wednesday within five miles of the Japanese air base at Munda which quickly underwent shelling from Allied shore batteries.

The Japanese, battling against American control of the air over the newly-conquered positions, sent over 100 planes Friday and Saturday. Against the 50 encountered Friday were feted only seven Allied fighters but the seven downed six of the enemy and dispersed the remainder with a loss of only three planes. And one of the pilots was saved. On Saturday 50 more enemy planes fought it out with 10 American planes, losing five against three of ours.

On the western arm of the Pacific drive, four Japanese Zeros and a bomber were destroyed over Nassau bay, on the coast below Salamaua, New Guinea, where Americans landed Wednesday to be joined later by Australians fighting their way from the inland jungle area of Mubo.

No mention was made of Allied plane losses there but over Rendova six of our planes were lost.

The long-awaited appearance of units of the Japanese navy materialized briefly in the approach on Rendova Saturday of three Japanese light cruisers and four destroyers which shelled our positions there.

The communique from headquarters of General Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of the Pacific operations, said the shelling was "ineffective" and that the enemy naval units were driven off by our own warships.

While the naval action was in prog-

SCHOOL BOARD'S TIMBER IS SOLD

Brings Total Sum Of $146,500 Cash; Will Reforest Land

In a procedure unique for the Ouachita parish school board, timber standing on one section of land in the parish was auctioned off, bringing a total of $146,500, cash, Friday morning. The auction was held in the offices of the board at 11 o'clock, with President Fred G. Thatcher acting as auctioneer.

At the same board meeting, the approximate budget required for the operation of parish schools for the coming year was fixed at close to $700,000, which is considerably more than the budget of the past year. The teaching staff, as far as possible to arrange for, was determined upon at the meeting. There were a number of resignations occasioned by war time conditions. Names of teachers will be announced early in September according to the custom of the board.

The sale of timber was of unusual interest. Years ago the federal government assigned from the public domain every 16th section of land for educational purposes. Ouachita parish school board received property in Section 16, or 640 acres located in Wards

The reports said two specialists and Goering's wife were at his side almost uninterruptedly and that only intimates were permitted to see the air chief.

Obviously inspired by Goebbels, the Paris radio put on during the day a heavy-footed "humorous" program ridiculing Allied plans for an attack on Europe. The date of July 3 for the Allied push was set arbitrarily by Goebbels after his previous guess of June 22 had not borne fruit.

Starting at 7 a.m. and breaking into the program at intervals until early afternoon, voices from "somewhere in France" kept listeners advised of the invasion situation. It was designed to be extremely funny. Examples:

8 a.m.—"The British and Americans are still at breakfast."

9 a.m.—"We have just learned that the British and Americans have left the breakfast table."

1 p.m.—"Still nothing. Perhaps the British will make up their minds later in the day."

The apparent reason for the German build-up of the alleged invasion date was to arouse the hopes of the populace of the occupied countries and then to crush them with ridicule. At one time today the Paris announcer told them with heavy satire that "the hour of liberation is striking."

On the Rome radio an Italian military commentator said Italy would defend her soil to the last, but that the European invasion "seems to have become a nightmare more for our opponents than for ourselves. They seem not to have made up their minds where and when to start." He added that the initial blow probably would be struck at Italy."

A German commentator asserted that "in spite of many strategic possibilities in the Mediterranean zone, the enemy cannot exploit them. This conquest already has cost the Allies many more men and, above all, much more time than they expected."

In the afternoon the Paris radio, tiring of its "invasion" skit, turned to spreading rumors of revolts among the French in North Africa, one broadcast recorded by the Associated Press declaring that a revolt against General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Henri Giraud was brewing in Algiers. It also told of a "new rebellion" in northern Syria.

Three Enemy Light Cruisers And Four Destroyers In Pack

AMERICAN FORCES DRIVE TOWARD MUNDA AIR BASE

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Sunday, July 4.—(AP)—By sea and air the Allied invaders of the central Solomons have thrown back Japanese attempts to interfere with the Pacific offensive, having increased to 134 the total of enemy planes downed and driven off enemy ships bent on shelling Rendova, it was announced today.

Eleven more enemy planes were downed on Friday and Saturday over Rendova where the Americans landed on Wednesday within five miles of the Japanese air base at Munda which quickly underwent shelling from Allied shore batteries.

The Japanese, battling against American control of the air over the newly-conquered positions, sent over 100 planes Friday and Saturday. Against the 50 encountered Friday were feted only seven Allied fighters but the seven downed six of the enemy and dispersed the remainder with a loss of only three planes. And one of the pilots was saved. On Saturday 50 more enemy planes fought it out with 10 American planes, losing five against three of ours.

On the western arm of the Pacific drive, four Japanese Zeros and a bomber were destroyed over Nassau bay, on the coast below Salamaua, New Guinea, where Americans landed Wednesday to be joined later by Australians fighting their way from the inland jungle area of Mubo.

No mention was made of Allied plane losses there but over Rendova six of our planes were lost.

The long-awaited appearance of units of the Japanese navy materialized briefly in the approach on Rendova Saturday of three Japanese light cruisers and four destroyers which shelled our positions there.

The communique from headquarters of General Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of the Pacific operations, said the shelling was "ineffective" and that the enemy naval units were driven off by our own warships.

While the naval action was in prog-

WILL NAME SHIP GEORGE M. COHAN

Cantor To Sing 'Over There' And 'It's A Grand Old Flag'

BALTIMORE, July 3.—(AP)—The kid who was born on the Fourth of July and lived to quicken the pulse of a nation at war with the stirring marching song "Over There" is dead, but the name of George M. Cohan will make another contribution to World War II—tagged to a liberty ship.

They'll launch one of the 10,500-tonners tomorrow to the tune of one of his famed "Flag-Wavers"—"Yankee Doodle Dandy."

On hand to do the job right will be his life-long friends, Eddie Cantor, Ida Cantor, his wife, and at least one of "the girls." Eddie won't [s]ing "Yankee Doodle Dandy," because [t]hat's reserved for the military band [wh]ich will play it as the cargo ves[sel] begins moving down the ways at [th]e Bethlehem-Fairfield shipyards.

[Ho]wever, Cantor will lead the thou[sands] of shipyard workers who will [halt t]heir forging of new links in [the b]ridge of ships" long enough [to pay] tribute to Cohan in the sing[ing of] "Over There," and "It's A [Grand] Old Flag."

[Cohan] was born in Providence, R. I., [July] 4, 1878, and died last Novem[ber. He] carved out a career as an act[or, son]g-and dance man, song writer [and sup]er-patriot that made his name [an Am]erican tradition.

[He re]ceived the congressional medal [of hon]or—highest award his country [can b]estow—for his "Over There."

[Canto]r once called him "a great guy [and a] great American" and added that [there']ll never be another like him."

[The] public will not be admitted to [the c]eremony at the shipyard, but [Eddie], Ida, and Marjorie will tell them [ab]out it at a bond rally in Druid [Hill] Park later.

[The] Cohan is the 161st Liberty ship [to be] readied for launching at Beth[lehem]-Fairfield. It was constructed in [... da]ys.

[RAIL PAY] DISPUTE IS UP TO ADMINISTRATION

[W]ASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—A new [adm]inistrative dispute was dumped on [the] White House doorstep today when [...]Sharfman, chairman of the rail[roa]d emergency board, turned down [Econom]ic Stabilization Director Fred M. [Vi]nson's request that the board recon[sid]er its recommendation for an 8 [ce]nts an hour wage increase for non-[o]perating railway employes.

Sharfman told Vinson in a letter that he was without authority to reconvene the board. At a press conference, he added that the stablization director "is trying to tell us how to settle the dispute and we are the only ones having that authority."

The board, Sharfman said, had recommended to the president what it deemed to be a fair and reasonable settlement, and there was no point in reconsidering it.

LESS FUEL FOR MID-WEST ASKED

Senate Committee Advises Tightening Gasoline Restrictions

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Tightened restrictions on gasoline use in the mid-west—so that some of its motor fuel may be sent to the east—were recommended today by a senate committee which also urged broader authority over all oil problems for Secretary Ickes.

The committee, headed by Senator Maloney, Democrat, Connecticut, and appointed to investigate gasoline and fuel oil shortages, said the outlook for relief was not good.

"We must plan for the worst and hope for the best," it said.

A recommendation for greater powers for Ickes also came from a subcommittee of the house interstate commerce committee. The group, headed by Representative Lea, Democrat, California, urged, too, an increase in the price of crude oil. It noted that Ickes recommended an increase of 25 cents a barrel, but was turned down by the office of price administration.

SHREVEPORT SOLDIER IS FATALLY INJURED

SHREVEPORT, La., July 3.—(AP)—From injuries received in an accident in the California maneuver area, Staff Sergeant Huey Spence, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Spence, this city, and the husband of the former Miss Marie Lafitte, died Thursday.

Sergeant Spence was stationed at Camp Haan, Calif., with the coastal artillery unit. He was a member of the 204th coast artillery (A.A.) of Shreveport which mobilized in January, 1940.

He attended Fair Park High school, and was assistant golf professional at the Shreveport Country club before taking the position of pro at the Municipal Golf course.

Sergeant Spence is survived by a daughter, Ada, and one brother, Fulton Spence, also of Shreveport, a well known young golfer, as well as his widow and parents.

The body was sent from California and funeral arrangements are being made.

PICTURE BETTER IN COAL FIELDS

About 1,000 Miners Still Are Idle In Several States

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—(AP)—A picture of continuing improvement was reflected today throughout the coal fields although in western Pennsylvania two new outbreaks left 1,100 more diggers idle and shut down a big captive pit of the Republic Steel corporation.

Report disclosed that about 100,000 miners still were idle in Pennsylvania, Alabama, Virginia and Tennessee but on the strength of back-to-work votes by a number of local union units today—and a strong return sentiment in Pennsylviana's anthracite fields—United Mine Workers officials expressed belief this figure would be cut sharply Monday.

Earlier the U. M. W. leadership had admonished all members to return to work because "there is nothing to be gained" by continued striking and "the war cannot be won without an adequate supply of coal."

The biggest back-to-work developments came in the big producing state of Pennsylvania, although considerable improvement was noted in Alabama, where 9,000 of 24,000 miners worked today, including 40 per cent in captive shafts which supply coal for industrial plants.

In Tennesee, there were no idle mines in the Knoxville area, where 7,500 men are employed. In the Chattanooga area, only 175 were idle, while 1,725 were working.

Seven locals comprising 5,075 workers voted today to return Monday in the troublesome U. M. W. District 2 of central Pennsylvania, where yesterday only 10,000 of 45,00 worked.

In District 5 of western Pennsylvania, U. M. W. President John P. Busarello said 1,400 men at the Vesta No. 5 mine of the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation also voted, by secret ballot, to return. Another J. and L. pit, Vesta No. 4, employing 1,600 men, took similar action yesterday.

A score of locals called meetings for late today in the anthracite fields of eastern Pennsylvania, where local U. M. W. leaders said back-to-work sentiment strengthened after district leaders made detailed explanations of the status of contract negotiations and gave assurances that any wage increases granted will be retroactive. Secretary Ickes' assurance that miners would get time-and-a-half pay for any work on Monday—observed as the July 4 holiday—contributed to the change in sentiment, local presidents said. Of the region's 83,000 workers, 41,000 have been idle.

NEW ORLEANS SUIT ASKS $4,178,954.29

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—Max N. Kohler of Bay St. Louis, Miss., a stockholder in the Crescent City Laundries, Inc., of New Orleans, filed suit in federal district court here yesterday against 24 persons and concerns asking $4,178,954.29.

Kohler charged that the money was lost by the laundry concern over more than a decade by alleged irregular operations of the company's business.

His petition said most of the losses resulted from stock deals with various laundries and cleaning concerns, and alleged that certain individuals received part of the stock which should have gone to the Crescent City corporation.

Kohler asked the court to declare a judgment for the stockholders in the amount asked, or appoint a receiver to study the charges and prosecute the claims.

Firms named in the suit include the Standard Fruit and Steamship company, the Standard Fruit and Steamship corporation, Weil and Company, Inc., all of New Orleans, the American National Life Insurance company of Galveston, Tex., Dallas Rupe and company, Dallas, Tex., and Allen and company of New York. Officers and directors of the Crescent City concern also were named as defendants.

By Rice Yahner

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—Carrier borne and land-based planes, teaming to provide "complete shore-to-shore air cover" spanning the Atlantic, have helped bring a valuable convoy over that dangerous sea "without interference from powerful forces of U-boats," it was announced today.

A joint Admiralty and Air Ministry communique describing continuous air protection against submarines declared that in attacks over a two-day period recently one U-boat was destroyed, another was probably destroyed, and "others may have been damaged."

The escort carrier H. M. S. Archer and her planes took up the task of air protection between the time that the convoy moved our of range of the land-based planes on the western side of the Atlantic, and reached the range of those based in Britain. The convoy crossed "a few days ago."

Today's announcement followed on two weeks ago saying that British naval and air units had beaten off "one of the fiercest and most sustained offensives ever mounted by U-boats," sinking from two to five submarines and damaging others in a five-day running battle.

In this newest success, the joint communique said, the convoy also was protected by surface escorts under Commander M. J. Evans in the Destroyer H. M. S. Keppel. The Keppel is a veteran of escorts on the North Russia and Malta convoys, and was a part of the escort for the first U. S. troops to Britain. It also engaged in the death chase of the German battleship Bismarck.

"Close air cover was provided during the initial stage of the passage by Hudson, Ventura, Loberator and Catalina aircraft of the Royal Canadian Air Force Eastern air command and during the final stage by Liberator, Sunderland and Halifax aircraft of the Royal Air Force Coastal command," the communique said.

"The Mid-Atlantic air gap between the extreme escorting ranges of these shore-based aircraft was bridged by swordfish and martlet aircraft from the escort carrier H. M. S. Archer."

"The submarine made repeated and unsuccessful attempts to dive. It then endeavored to get underway on the surface, turning in slow circles with oil pouring from its tanks." Later it was abandoned and sank, and a number of survivors were picked up.

Depth charges from an airplane of the fleet air arm probably sank another U-Boat, a Liberator of the coastal command attacked a third, and naval aircraft forced two others to dive. The conning tower of one submarine was peppered by gunfire from a plane.

WORK TO GO ON ON JULY FOURTH

Few Will Get Chance To Celebrate In Traditional Manner

(By Associated Press)

The peacetime practice of taking an extra day off when the Fourth of July comes on Sunday will be lost this year in the dust of America's high speed war production.

Full-time working schedules over the July 3-4-5 week-end are in order for Joe the war plant worker, although banks, many stores and other establishments will be closed tomorrow.

The war production board said it had received promises of general adherence to Chairman Donald M. Nelson's request that war workers celebrate Independence day on Sunday only instead of carrying the holiday over into Monday.

The president and congress also decided to continue production and forget the holiday.

The White House let it be known that Mr. Roosevelt planned no special observance of the day and would be doing business as usual on Monday.

The senate and house, busy throughout Saturday with appropriation bills, arranged to get back on the same jobs Monday.

Those who have time to celebrate will have little chance to do so in the traditional manner.

Senate Committee Proposes To Grant Authority For $525,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Authority for payment of up to $525,000,000 in subsidies between now and January 1 was recommended today by the senate banking committee today after a three-hour closed session with War Mobilization Director Byrnes and other high administration officials.

The authority would be extended—and limited to that sum—by an amendment to a house-approved resolution renewing the life of the commodity credit corporation for six months and increasing its borrowing power from $2,650,000,000 to an even $3,000,000,000.

The house approved the CCC extender, after sustaining President Roosevelt's veto of an earlier measure which attempted to place a drastic ban on subsidy payments intended to roll back the price of food.

Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, sponsor of the amendment limiting subsidy payments for the balance of the year to the $525,000,000 total, pointed out that the language of the provision did not restrict roll back payments which have been made to

HEADQUARTERS U. S. 14TH AIR FORCE, China, July 3.—(AP)—Major General Claire L. Chennault said today in an address commemorating the first anniversary of the United States air forces in China: "I sincerely hope that during the next year you men will fly over Japan itself many times before the first firecracker explodes July 4, 1944."

"We are starting a new year," Chennault declared. "Things will be different before it ends."

He recalled that on July 4th, 1942, the American Voulnteer Group completed a "remarkable and outstanding chapter in American aerial history." He told the air force ground crewmen and headquarters staff that "you strafed and bombed 35 important Japanese bases and numerous other targets of opportunity. You made them pay a high price for the raids they made on American bases in China."

CONGRESS VOTES TO ABANDON NYA

Senate Joins House In Voting Only For Liquidation Fund

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Congress agreed today to kill the national youth administration.

The decision to end the agency which was created eight years ago as a work relief organization came when the senate accepted by a 39 to 33 vote a house demand that NYA be given only $3,000,000 to finance its liquidation at the end of 1943. Originally, the senate had voted the agency $48,800,000 to continue operation for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

The argument of Senator Truman, Democrat, Missouri, of the senate's war investigating committee that NYA's program of training youths for war industry work is "absolutely essential" failed to save the agency. Opponents of NYA, including Representative Short, Republican, Missouri, had contended NYA was inducing youths to leave farms for work in shipyards and was engaged in "silly, crazy, cock-eyed" activities.

The provision abolishing NYA was written into a $1,136,000,000 appropriation bill for labor-security programs. Agreement of the house and senate on the NYA amendment brought the two houses a long step nearer final accord on the appropriation measure, one of a group of big money bills to

"Now, don't you be nervous," she said. "It won't hurt."

Daniel Donahoe, 41, grinned back. "I ain't going to be nervous, honey," he said.

The the two of them were wheeled into the operating room where Dr. Alma D. Morani transferred from Donahue's thighs to the blonde little girl's chest the skin that may save her life.

Evelyn was burned terribly when her dress caught fire last November. Despite four operations, she was near death when another skin donor was sought among eastern penitentiary inmates.

No. 35,440, Donahue, convicted of killing a policeman during a holdup in 1929, was one of 30 who volunteered. "I'd like to do something for somebody," he said.

When the anesthetic wore off he went in to see Evelyn. She couldn't move her arms or legs but she raised her head, bobbing a green hair ribbon.

"Anything you want?"

"Nothing, thank you. I—I hope the skin looks as nice on me as it did on you."

"How about a doll?"

"Thanks," she laughed, "I have 22."

"Well," said Donahue, "you hurry up and get better." He bent and kissed her.

"Nice going," one of them said.

SCHOOL BOARD'S TIMBER IS SOLD

Brings Total Sum Of $146,500 Cash; Will Reforest Land

In a procedure unique for the Ouachita parish school board, timber standing on one section of land in the parish was auctioned off, bringing a total of $146,500, cash, Friday morning. The auction was held in the offices of the board at 11 o'clock, with President Fred G. Thatcher acting as auctioneer.

At the same board meeting, the approximate budget required for the operation of parish schools for the coming year was fixed at close to $700,000, which is considerably more than the budget of the past year. The teaching staff, as far as possible to arrange for, was determined upon at the meeting. There were a number of resignations occasioned by war time conditions. Names of teachers will be announced early in September according to the custom of the board.

The sale of timber was of unusual interest. Years ago the federal government assigned from the public domain every 16th section of land for educational purposes. Ouachita parish school board received property in Section 16, or 640 acres located in Wards

5 BARKSDALE FIELD FLIERS ARE KILLED

SHREVEPORT, La., July 3.—(AP)—Five Barksdale field airmen were killed in a crash of a medium bomber near Abington, 30 miles south of Shreveport late yesterday.

The dead and next of kin are:

Flight Officer Francis P. Smith, 21, Mrs. Eunice M. Smith, wife, route 1, box 67, Redmond, Ore.

STATE COLLEGES GET $4,071,554

That Sum Approved By Board Of Education For Coming Year

BATON ROUGE, La., July 3.—(AP)—Louisiana's colleges, trade schools and other institutions under control of the state department of education will operate under budgets totalling $4,071,-554.77 next school year, according to figures approved by the state board of education at a recent meeting.

The total is an increase over actual expenditures for 1942-43 of approximately $471,187. Much of the increase, however, is more than real, and some statisticians believe that the amount actually spent this next year will be smaller than last.

Rex Beard, who supervises finance and budgets for the department of education estimated that some $300,000 would be returned by three schools at the end of the year, after they are reimbursed by the federal government for navy programs.

The 17 institutions and budget totals aproved for each are as follows:

Louisiana State Normal college, Natchitoches, $756,495.27; Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Ruston, $885,146-.24; Southeastern Louisiana college, Hammond, $260,082.50; Southwestern Louisiana institute, Lafayette, $1,172,-961.75.

Southern university and A. and M. college, Scotlandville, $378,482.50; Louisiana Negro Normal and Industrial institute, Grambling, $79,430.

State school for the deaf, Baton Rouge, $170,695; state school for the blind, Baton Rouge, $73,688.51; state school for deaf negroes, Scotlandville, $20,092; state school for blind negroes, Scotlandville, $23,050.

Southwest Louisiana trade school, Lake Charles, $34,068; Southwestern Louisiana trade school, Crowley, $30,-361; T. H. Harris trade school, Opelousas, $30,225; Huey P. Long Memorial trade school, Winnfield, $31,395; Shreveport trades school, $70,450; Natchitoches trade school, $28,660; Sullivan Memorial trade school, Bogalusa, $26,272.

State Normal college has been operating since February with the navy V-5 program. hile Louisiana Polytechnic institute and Southwestern have negotiated contracts for the navy V-12 program.

Regular enrollment in all four white colleges and in Southern university has declined considerably, the finance committee stated in its report on the budgets.

Additional appropriations, the committee said, may have to be asked of the state board of liquidation for the schools for the negro blind and deaf (and estimated $2,500 for the first and $2,000 for the second), and also for the Negro Normal and Industrial institute (no estimate made).

All of the schools are operating under appropriations made by the state legislature at their 1942 session.

Two-thirds of the total area of Georgia is covered by forests, according to estimates.

CONGRESS VOTES

supply funds for the fiscal year started three days ago and over which congress has been in dispute.

Congressional action was completed by the senate on a $143,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill containing a provision cutting from the government payroll on next Nov. 15 three officials accused by house committees of membership in surversive organizations.

Involved are Dr. Robert Morss Lovett, secretary to the Virgin islands government; William E. Dodd, Jr., and Goodwin Watson, federal communications commission employes.

The measure, in which funds are included for past-due salaries of hundreds of government employes, also prohibits the president from using the funds allotted to his office to finance agencies for which congress has denied appropriations. It now goes to the White House.

Acting in another senate- house dispute, the house agreed to a compromise which gives the office of price administration $155,000,000 and the office of war information domestic branch $2,750,000.

The funds for OPA were $22,000,000 less than the amount passed by the senate, but $25,000,000 higher than the previous house figure. The compromise on OWI's allotment constituted a reduction of $811,000 from the senate approved grant for that agency's domestic branch. The house had proposed to strip OWI of all funds for its domestic branch. All in all, the OWI's appropriation for foreign and domestic work under the compromise amounted to $33,155,993. The money for OWI and OPA is contained in the $2,-900,000,000 war agencies bill.

In considering the bill the house, by rollcall vote of 302 to 29, refused to accept a senate amendment giving that body power to confirm or reject all employes of the numerous war agencies who receive an annual salary in excess of $4,500.

THEFT OF WALLET, MONEY REPORTED

Theft of a wallet containing $150 in cash, an officer's meal ticket valued at $30 and valuable army papers was reported yesterday by Lieutenant J. S. Rosenbloom, 405 Calypso street, to Monroe police.

Lieutenant Rosenbloom said the wallet had been taken from his pants pocket while his clothing was in a locker at the swimming pool yesterday. He said he had locked his locker before entering the pool but that in some way his clothing had been pilfered.

Apparently confident of its approval when called up in the senate Monday, Taft said he felt sure it satisfied Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown and Secretary of Commerce Jones, both of whom attended the meeting. Jones was there to represent the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The Taft amendment won committee approval by a vote of 7 to 4, after defeat of a much more restrictive proposal by Senators O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, and Butler, Republican, Nebraska. The O'Mahoney-Butler amendment would have set a limit of $175,000,000 on food subsidies and stipulated that they could be paid only to producers, not merchants or middlemen.

Byrnes, Brown and Jones smilingly brushed aside most of the questions of reporters as they emerged from the committee room, although Brown disclosed that he had recommended enactment of the simple house resolution extending the life of CCC and containing no restriction on the subsidy payments.

Other sources said Jones gave assurances that subsidies would be held to the lowest practicable figure, but a majority of the committee wanted to write a definite limit into the law.

The Taft amendment authorizes the RFC to borrow up to $350,000,000 and the CCC to borrow up to $175,000,000, "to pay subsidies or purchase commodities for the purpose of selling them at a loss, in order to obtain the maximum necessary production of such commodities or to prevent price increases thereof."

It is not expected that nearly all of the money so made available would be used in the food rollback program.

The meat-butter subsidy, amounting to five cents a pound on butter and an average of three cents on meat, is estimated to cost $400,000,000 annually and is financed through the reconstruction finance corporation rather than the CCC. Payments go directly to processors, a situation that has led some farmers to complain that they have been "squeezed."

The banking committee's decision to consider the CCC resolution at the closed session forced Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky to abandon plans to push it through unchanged early in today's session.

As approved by the house, the resolution would simply continue the CCC as it now operates until Jan. 1, 1944. It was adopted after the house voted yesterday to sustain President Roosevelt's veto of an earlier measure extending the life of the CCC for two years but including a flat ban on all subsidies to reduce retail food prices.

Mr. Roosevelt denounced this measure was an "inflation bill," which would harm consumers and farmers alike.

Technically, the CCC was out of existence since the act under which it operated terminated at midnight June 30. Actually, however, it was continuing all functions in anticipation that congress would reconstitute it.

Motorists who enter the share-the-car plan should remember that the best plan is to change vehicles every day to avoid the certain deterioration of letting a car stand idle for a week or more.

TWO CHARGED WITH INTENT TO DEFRAUD

Accused of obtaining hotel accommodations and food with intent to defraud, Adolph Weaver, 510 Bancroft street, West Monroe, and A. C. Montgomery, a painter, were arrested yesterday by members of the sheriff's department and were being held in the Ouachita parish jail late yesterday.

Both men were arrested as the result of warrants sworn out by Mrs. May Hudson, manager of the Grand hotel, who said Weaver had obtained accommodations and food to the amount of $20, and Montgomery owed a similar bill for $45. Bond for both men was fixed at $300.

But at the week-end the big ships apparently had not intervened.

The western thrust involved the unopposed occupation of Woodlark island and the Trobriand islands, off New Guinea's southeastern tip, and the landing of an American force at Nassau bay, just below the big enemy base at Salamaua, on New Guinea's northeastern coast. By the week-end this contingent had effected a junction with veteran Australian jungle fighters who had driven toward the coast from the Mubo area, inland. Other Australian columns approached Salamaua from the west and advanced to within sight of the big base.

The softening up of Italy and her islands for invasion continued with devastating power although toward the end of the week there appeared to be a slight slackening of the tempo of attack. But Sicily's chief cities, Messina and Palermo, and the entire list of her airbases were hammered again and again by American and British planes of all types, while on Sardinia Cagliari and the airfields received a like drubbing. Most of this was done from bases in Tunisia and Algeria and on Malta.

One highlight of the week was a Liberator raid on the Elevsis and Hasani airfields, near Athens, following the previous week's raid on Salonika. In these flights over Greece the planes dropped leaflets carrying a message of hope and cheer from President Roosevelt to the Greek people. An aftermath took the form of riots against the German conquerer in four Greek cities. The usual harsh measures of repression followed.

The air offensive from Britain against Germany and western Europe, which already had crippled Hitler's war industry and placed millions of Germans under constant terror, failed to match the destructive punch of the previous week although Cologne was scourged with a 2,000-ton raid by the R. A. F. Monday night. This roused German propaganda to its shrillest reaction of the war. Charges that the bombers had destroyed the magnificent Cologne cathedral were mingled with dark, vague threats of terrible vengeance to come.

American warships shelled enemy positions near Wickham anchorage on the south end of New Georgia island on the afternoon of July 2 while our dive bombers aided with a heavy bombing and strafing attack.

Saturday night, for the fourth successive night, Allied four-engined bombers maintained their "milk run" on the big enemy air base at Rabaul, New Britain. More than 22 tons of bombs were dropped on the airdromes of Lakunai, Rapopo and Vunakanau.

These added to the destruction wrought by 78 tons dropped in three previous raids.

The Saturday night raiders planted their bombs on the runways and dispersal areas. Three of the fires started could be seen for 40 miles away.

Numerous other fires were observed and two searchlights were put out of action. The Japanese again threw up anti-aircraft fire and sent up night fighters but all our planes returned.

In then four raids on Rabaul, intended to keep the enemy's air strength there crippled or pinned to the ground, only one Allied bomber has been reported missing.

Extending the scope of Allied air operations which have been on a large scale in all the areas attacked, other Allied bombers made a round trip flight of 1,500 miles to strike at another big enemy air base, Kendari, Dutch celebes.

There 16 tons of bombs fell on the town and airdrome.

Observation of results was hindered by clouds on the raid, which was made daringly in midday, but one grounded plane was seen destroyed and considerable damage was done to barracks and buildings.

OTHER BRUSHES WITH ENEMY ARE EXPECTED

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—American warships lying in wait pounced on a Japanese force which tried to shell Rendova island last night, the navy disclosed today, and drove off the attackers with heavy gun-fire.

This fight, started by three enemy light cruisers and four destroyers, probably is but the first of a series of brushes between American and Japanese sea squadrons which may culminate in a major sea battle if the Japanese throw more and more units into their efforts to stem the Allied south Pacific offensive.

Air and land fighting continued, meantime, with army and marine forces on the Solomons front driving steadily toward the enemy's Munda air base, and American and Australian forces in northeast New Guinea tightening their ring of positions around the strategic air field at Salamaua.

Like Salamaua, Munda is subject to attack from at least two sides—by army groups in Rendova island and by marines pressing up from the south of New Georgia island where they already have captured Viru harbor. The attack by warships seemingly was an attempt on the enemy's part to harrass and delay the Rendova phase of the operation.

The Japanese thus were trying to accomplish with naval vessels under the cover of darkness what they had failed entirely to do by heavy air attack on the day the army landed on Rendova. At that time they lost 101 planes of a force estimated at more than 110. What damage they may have suffered in the sea skirmish was not reported here.

All the communique said was: "On July 3 (Saturday Solomons time) during the night, a Japanese force consisting of three light cruisers and four destroyers attempted to shell United States positions on Rendova island. United States surface craft replied to the bombardment and the enemy ships retired in short order. No further details have been received."

(Possibly indicating that the drain on Japanese air power is raising difficult problems for the enemy was a report from Major General Clair L. Chennault, commanding American air forces in China, that Japanese planes made no raids on unoccupied China in the week of June 23-30. Chennault commented, "it is quite possible the Japs don't want to lose any more planes in China for a while because they are so badly needed elsewhere.")

The sea action was reminiscent of that which marked the first hour of the American invasion of Guadalcanal and its indicated outcome suggested that not again would Allied commanders be caught in the South Pacific as they were at that time. Immediately after American troops had landed on Guadalcanal, a light Japanese force, probably of about the samo composition as that thrown at Rendova island, made a surprise attack from behind Savo island and destroyed three American and one Australian cruisers.

Subsequently the south Pacific Ghormley was replaced by Admiral commander, Rear Admiral Robert L. William F. Halsey, Jr., present commander of the Solomons branch of the offensive which is under the general direction of General Douglas MacArthur, who is personally commanding the New Guinea striking force.

In this case, Halsey and his commanders in the Rendova area apparently disposed their forces so that the surprised party was the Jap rather than themselves.

STATE COLLEGES GET $4,071,554

That Sum Approved By Board Of Education For Coming Year

BATON ROUGE, La., July 3.—(AP)—Louisiana's colleges, trade schools and other institutions under control of the state department of education will operate under budgets totalling $4,071,554.77 next school year, according to figures approved by the state board of education at a recent meeting.

The total is an increase over actual expenditures for 1942-43 of approximately $471,187. Much of the increase, however, is more than real, and some statisticians believe that the amount actually spent this next year will be smaller than last.

Rex Beard, who supervises finance and budgets for the department of education estimated that some $300,000 would be returned by three schools at the end of the year, after they are reimbursed by the federal government for navy programs.

The 17 institutions and budget totals aproved for each are as follows:

Louisiana State Normal college, Natchitoches, $756,495.27; Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Ruston, $885,146.24; Southeastern Louisiana college, Hammond, $260,082.50; Southwestern Louisiana institute, Lafayette, $1,172,961.75.

Southern university and A. and M. college, Scotlandville, $378,482.50; Louisiana Negro Normal and Industrial institute, Grambling, $79,430.

State school for the deaf, Baton Bouge, $170,695; state school for the blind, Baton Rouge, $73,688.51; state school for deaf negroes, Scotlandville, $20,092; state school for blind negroes, Scotlandville, $23,050.

Southwest Louisiana trade school, Lake Charles, $34,068; Southwestern Louisiana trade school, Crowley, $30,361; T. H. Harris trade school, Opelousas, $30,225; Huey P. Long Memorial trade school, Winnfield, $31,395; Shreveport trades school, $70,450; Natchitoches trade school, $28,660; Sullivan Memorial trade school, Bogalusa, $26,272.

State Normal college has been operating since February with the navy V-5 program. hile Louisiana Polytechnic institute and Southwestern have negotiated contracts for the navy V-12 program.

Regular enrollment in all four white colleges and in Southern university has declined considerably, the finance committee stated in its report on the budgets.

Addtional appropriations, the committee said, may have to be asked of the state board of liquidation for the schools for the negro blind and deaf (and estimated $2,500 for the first and $2,000 for the second), and also for the Negro Normal and Industrial institute (no estimate made).

All of the schools are operating under appropriations made by the state legislature at their 1942 session.

Two-thirds of the total area of Georgia is covered by forests, according to estimates.

CONGRESS VOTES LIMITED SUBSIDY

supply funds for the fiscal year started three days ago and over which congress has been in dispute.

Congressional action was completed by the senate on a $143,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill containing a provision cutting from the government payroll on next Nov. 15 three officials accused by house committees of membership in surversive organizations.

Involved are Dr. Robert Morss Lovett, secretary to the Virgin islands government; William E. Dodd, Jr., and Goodwin Watson, federal communications commission employes.

The measure, in which funds are included for past-due salaries of hundreds of government employes, also prohibits the president from using the funds allotted to his office to finance agencies for which congress has denied appropriations. It now goes to the White House.

Acting in another senate- house dispute, the house agreed to a compromise which gives the office of price administration $155,000,000 and the office of war information domestic branch $2,750,000.

The funds for OPA were $22,000,000 less than the amount passed by the senate, but $25,000,000 higher than the previous house figure. The compromise on OWI's allotment constituted a reduction of $811,000 from the senate approved grant for that agency's domestic branch. The house had proposed to strip OWI of all funds for its domestic branch. All in all, the OWI's appropriation for foreign and domestic work under the compromise amounted to $33,155,993. The money for OWI and OPA is contained in the $2,900,000,000 war agencies bill.

In considering the bill the house, by rollcall vote of 302 to 29, refused to accept a senate amendment giving that body power to confirm or reject all employes of the numerous war agencies who receive an annual salary in excess of $4,500.

THEFT OF WALLET, MONEY REPORTED

Theft of a wallet containing $150 in cash, an officer's meal ticket valued at $30 and valuable army papers was reported yesterday by Lieutenant J. S. Rosenbloom, 405 Calypso street, to Monroe police.

Lieutenant Rosenbloom said the wallet had been taken from his pants pocket while his clothing was in a locker at the swimming pool yesterday. He said he had locked his locker before entering the pool but that in some way his clothing had been pilfered.

LIMITED SUBSIDY

Apparently confident of its approval when called up in the senate Monday, Taft said he felt sure it satisfied Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown and Secretary of Commerce Jones, both of whom attended the meeting. Jones was there to represent the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The Taft amendment won committee approval by a vote of 7 to 4, after defeat of a much more restrictive proposal by Senators O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, and Butler, Republican, Nebraska. The O'Mahoney-Butler amendment would have set a limit of $175,000,000 on food subsidies and stipulated that they could be paid only to producers, not merchants or middlemen.

Byrnes, Brown and Jones smilingly brushed aside most of the questions of reporters as they emerged from the committee room, although Brown disclosed that he had recommended enactment of the simple house resolution extending the life of CCC and containing no restriction on the subsidy payments.

Other sources said Jones gave assurances that subsidies would be held to the lowest practicable figure, but a majority of the committee wanted to write a definite limit into the law.

The Taft amendment authorizes the RFC to borrow up to $350,000,000 and the CCC to borrow up to $175,000,000, "to pay subsidies or purchase commodities for the purpose of selling them at a loss, in order to obtain the maximum necessary production of such commodities or to prevent price increases thereof."

It is not expected that nearly all of the money so made available would be used in the food rollback program.

The meat-butter subsidy, amounting to five cents a pound on butter and an average of three cents on meat, is estimated to cost $400,000,000 annually and is financed through the reconstruction finance corporation rather than the CCC. Payments go directly to processors, a situation that has led some farmers to complain that they have been "squeezed."

The banking committee's decision to consider the CCC resolution at the closed session forced Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky to abandon plans to push it through unchanged early in today's session.

As approved by the house, the resolution would simply continue the CCC as it now operates until Jan. 1, 1944. It was adopted after the house voted yesterday to sustain President Roosevelt's veto of an earlier measure extending the life of the CCC for two years but including a flat ban on all subsidies to reduce retail food prices.

Mr. Roosevelt denounced this measure was an "inflation bill," which would harm consumers and farmers alike.

Technically, the CCC was out of existence since the act under which it operated terminated at midnight June 30. Actually, however, it was continuing all functions in anticipation that congress would reconstitute it.

Motorists who enter the share-the-car plan should remember that the best plan is to change vehicles every day to avoid the certain deterioration of letting a car stand idle for a week or more.

TWO CHARGED WITH INTENT TO DEFRAUD

Accused of obtaining hotel accommodations and food with intent to defraud, Adolph Weaver, 510 Bancroft street, West Monroe, and A. C. Montgomery, a painter, were arrested yesterday by members of the sheriff's department and were being held in the Ouachita parish jail late yesterday.

Both men were arrested as the result of warrants sworn out by Mrs. May Hudson, manager of the Grand hotel, who said Weaver had obtained accommodations and food to the amount of $20, and Montgomery owed a similar bill for $45. Bond for both men was fixed at $300.

FIVE NEW BUSES ARE AUTHORIZED

City Given Authority To Purchase New Equipment At Once

Final authority for the purchase of five new buses has been granted the city of Monroe, W. H. D. Rodriguez, commissioner of streets and parks, announced yesterday.

The city council has been endeavoring for several months to obtain the necessary approval from various beaureaus in Washington to purchase the buses, and yesterday Mr. Rodriguez was advised by telegram from Representative Charles E. McKenzie, who also has been active in the project. that the government has authorized the purchase.

The chassis will be purchased from a northern bus manufacturer and the bodies will be bought at a manufacturing firm located at Conway, Ark. Mr. Rodriguez said he had contacted these two concerns and announced that they, too, had received authority to deliver the buses to the city.

It will be several weeks before the buses are delivered here, Mr. Rodriguez said. It will be necessary to deliver the chassis to Conway, where the bodies will be constructed on the trucks.

The addition of the five buses will alleviate to some extent the present over-crowding of buses, it was said. Some of the vehicles will be used to serve Selman Field. Col. E. L. Naiden, commanding officer at the field, also assisted the municipal group in obtaining the necessary priorities. The present number of buses serving the field have been termed inadequate at peak hours.

3 LOUISIANIANS GET DECORATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—The war department announced today the names of three Louisianians and one Mississippian, members of the Eighth United States Army Air Force, who have been decorated for extraordinary achievements in the European theater of operations.

Receiving the distinguished flying cross were First Lt. Joseph C. H. Sanders, 853 Wilkinson Street, Shreveport, La., Tech. Sgt. Benjamin P. Hall, Haynesville, La., and Staff Sgt. Edward P. Bowden, Glenmore, La.

Captain Edward M. Jones of Moorhead, Miss., was awarded the air medal

OUR MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

THREE CADETS

ATHENS, Ga.—Three naval aviation cadets from Monroe, La., and vicinity, have completed three months of physical conditioning and ground school work at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school here. They have been ordered to naval air stations to begin progressive flight training preparatory to joining a combat unit.

They will report to the naval air station at Memphis, Tenn.: James Clarence Ussery, 101 Apple street; Herlong Averett, Splane Addn.; Julius A. Moon, Fairbanks, La.

GRAYSON YOUNG

LAKEHURST, N. J.—Promoted to aerographer's mate third class in the naval reserve, Grayson S. Young, 204 Clayton street, West Monroe, La., has completed training as a navy weather observer at the Aerographer's Training school, Lakewood, N. J., unit of the naval air station here.

The school trains sailors, marines, WAVEs and women marine reserves in a three-months course. Women reservists are sent for duty to shore bases, relieving men for sea and overseas duty.

The course includes meteorology, weather codes and mapping, map analysis, balloon sounding, and typing. In a weather observatory maintained by the school, students stand watches just as they will do on actual duty, with expert observers directing their work.

CADET PETERS

ATHENS, Ga.—Naval Aviation Cadet Ben A. Peters, Jr., son of Mrs. J. L. Francis, 316 Calypso, Monroe, La., has been appointed a battalion commander at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school here.

Cadet Peters was selected from 379 men in his battalion by naval officer-instructors, on a basis of military efficiency, leadership, class standing, and general officer aptitude. He will be in charge of formations, drills, and marching, and responsible for cadet discipline within his battalion.

At the Navy Pre-flight school he is getting three months of intensive physical conditioning and ground school work preparatory to primary flight training at a naval air station.

LIEUT. YOUNGBLOOD

Sergeant Uriah M. Youngblood having successfully completed his three months course at the Air Forces Officer Candidate school at Miami Beach, Florida, has received his commission as 2nd lieutenant in the air forces of the army of the United States. His duties will be to direct vital administrative and supply operations of the rapidly expanding army air forces ground forces, thus relieving trained pilots for full time flying duty.

As a civilian, Lieutenant Youngblood lived at 110 Pine St., Monroe, La. His father, Uriah M. Youngblood, lives at 3025 Samford Ave., Shreveport, La.

LIEUT. FINKIE

SEYMOUR, Ind.—For the third time since its activation Freeman Army Air Field today sent forth a group of pilots who will take to the air as members of the rapidly expanding army air forces. Impressive graduation ceremonies attended by many relatives and friends of the graduates were held in the post theater.

A Louisiana man, Harry E. Finkie, was one of the graduates, receiving his silver wings and second lieutenant's commission. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus F. Finkie, Morganza.

Before coming to Freeman Field for nine weeks of intensive training, the graduates had received 30 to 35 weeks of pre-flight, primary and basic instruction. The courses the cadets receive make them the most skilled pilots in the world, fully capable of piloting American made ships which are the finest in the world.

PVT. FELLIE PHILLIPS

Private Fellie Phillips, Winnsboro, with Company H of the 333rd Infantry stationed at Camp Howze, Tex., was commended recently by the company commander, Brigadier General Nelson M. Walker, for being the only man to complete the return march to camp in spite of a sore foot to complete an assignment. "It is just such courage and determination that wins battles against odds," General Walker said. Private Phillips is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Phillips of Franklin parish and has been in the army since last November.

MOODY BROTHERS

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Moody of the Prarie road proudly send word of their three sons in the service. Staff Sergeant Percy E. Moody, a former employee of Brown Paper mill, is in Australia now after entering the army in April, 1941. Corporal Hubert Moody is in the marine corps now stationed somewhere in the southwest Pacific. He has been in active combat against the Japanese since last winter and writes he is well but hoping for a leave to see his baby daughter, born since his departure from the states. Hubert was employed at the International Paper company before entering the service.

The third son, Private Donald L. Moody is with the military police force stationed at the army arsenal at Pine Bluff, Ark. He was with the Brown Paper mill before entering the armed forces. Donald recently returned to camp after spending a brief furlough with his family and relatives here.

SPAR GILMORE

Mrs. Edith Kiper Gilmore of 250 Valley Road, Clifton, New Jersey, today was sworn into the Women's Reserve, U. S. Coast Guard, Reserve, as an apprentice seaman in the enlisted quota of the SPARS. She is a daughter of Mrs. L. B. Kiper and the late Lawrence B. Kiper of Gilbert, Louisiana and wife of Leland W. Gilmore, C. T. M., U. S. Navy. She attended Gilbert high school, Louisiana Tech and Northeast Center of L. S. U.

Prior to her marriage she taught for four years in the Franklin Parish schools. She has besides her husband, in the service, two brothers, and three brothers-in-law.

SERGEANT JONES

Sergeant Ercil Jones, 24, of Pioneer, La., was recently transferred from the royal Canadian air force to the United States army Eighth air force.

At the time of his transfer, Jones had completed three operational missions with the R. C. A. F. as an air gunner on a bomber.

CORPORAL EDELEN

Technical Corporal Leslie Edelen, 210th signal corps depot, Camp Barkeley, Texas, has just returned after having enjoyed a short stay with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Edelen and sister, Miss Elleta May Edelen, 1707 College avenue. While here he also visited his wide circle of friends.

SGT. BONDURANT

BARKSDALE FIELD, La.—Yelverton Bondurant, son of Mrs. Pearl Bondurant, Sicily Island, La., has been promoted to the grade of sergeant in the army air forces. Sgt. Bondurant has been stationed at Barksdale Field since March 16, 1942, with the 335th Bombardment Group. Before reporting to Barksdale, he was stationed at Danield Field, Ga.

Prior to his entrance into the army March, 1942, Sergeant Bondurant was owner and operator of a farm at Sicily Island.

CADET PARRISH

COURTLAND, Ala.—Aviation Cadet Olan B. Parrish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Parrish, of Star Route W. Monroe, La., has completed his training at the Basic Flying School here and has been transferred to the Advanced Flying School at Columbus, Miss., for the final period of pilot training.

After completing his advance training, Cadet Parrish will receive his wings and will be either appointed a flight officer or a second lieutenant, and assigned to active duty.

ROY W. EARL, JR.

Roy W. Earl, Jr., former Monroe boy now in the United States navy, has returned to duty after a furlough during which he visited friends and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Earl, formerly of Monroe but now residing at Dallas, Tex.

Young Earl, wearing gold star symbolic of having already served in five major battles, graduated from Neville High school here in May, 1941. He enlisted in the navy here and left for San Diego on June 26, 1941. He has since served with the Pacific and Atlantic fleets.

LIKE SOFT DRINKS? TURN IN BOTTLES

"Life would be pretty dull without a cool, refreshing soft drink now and then. However, if you want to be sure of a regular supply of your favorite carbonated beverages, help relieve the bottle shortage by putting all your empties back in circulation, according to M. C. Biedenharn of the Coca-Cola Bottling company.

"Now, when conservation of materials and manpower is of prime importance, every effort must be made to obtain full use of everything that has re-use value," he said. "The bottler today must get a rapid return of his bottles. Otherwise, he will find that he cannot distribute his product. To obtain new bottles is becoming increasingly difficult and the cooperation of the public at this time is vital."

RATTLESNAKES DO NOT CRAMP STYLE

Camp Bizerte Busy Turning Out Air Force Technicians

By John R. Ward

CAMP BIZERTE, Colo., July 3.—(AP)—Rattlesnakes and rainstorms don't cramp the army's style in turning out air force technicians at this new camouflaged field camp.

Twenty miles east of Denver, the camp was established shortly after victory in Tunisia and was named to commemorate the fall of Bizerte to the Yanks. Hundreds of men are trained each week for placing advance airdromes in operation.

Because the whole idea is to simulate actual combat conditions, the snakes and the sudden downpours fit into the program very nicely. The rattlers—as one officer put it—"teach the men that not all dangers come from the enemy."

Students of the air forces technical training command schools at Lowry field come here for final training and, says Captain Vernon P. Doughty of Newport News, Va., camp commander, are presented with this problem:

An advance airdrome has just been established, or taken from the enemy. It must be placed in operation quickly and smoothly, and defended against enemy counterblows. Much of the construction materials must be improvised. Natural camouflage materials must be quickly and scientifically employed. The men must be fed without fancy field kitchens.

Second Lieutenant Matthew A. Landry of Port Arthur, Tex., a guard on Rice institute's gridiron eleven in 1938, showed newspapermen the bulks of planes, wrecked in accidents, which were hauled to the camp to simulate aircraft smashed up in combat; or abandoned by the enemy. They are scattered through a grove of trees.

"This fuselage of a Liberator bomber provides aircraft armorers with a place to store equipment and guns, and also a place in which to repair equipment," said Lieutenant Landry. "Not only that, its wiring and parts come in handy for a wide variety of uses."

Grass and bushes were transplanted over trails and roads in the area—natural camouflage which continues to grow and thus cannot be detected by the infra-red film of reconnaissance photos, which distinguishes "dead" material from growing vegetation.

Lieutenant Landry singled out a Mitchell bomber, with its wings and landing gear sheared off.

"This one isn't flyable, of course, but the wiring and other mechanism in the fuselage is intact," he said. "Thus, for our purposes, it is as good as a brand new plane. Students can trace purposely-made kinks in the wiring and make repairs. They use whatever tools are at hand and not the 'wrench for every purpose' method of the classroom."

"They could also use an empty oil drum for a mount," Landry observed.

Such oil drums play an important part in the camp's field kitchen. Two, with their tops cut away, were placed horizontally over a shallow trench to make a "jungle oven." Mud was packed over them and a smokestack made of old tin cans protruded around the mud from the trench at one end.

The aroma of roasting pork was pungent proof of the effectiveness of the make-it-from-nothing method. A small fire in the trench below produced enough heat to roast meat for 150 men.

Thus the army's student cooks get lessons in resourcefulness paralleling those of the technicians. Meals are cooked on other types of field equipment to provide all-around training.

S. S. CARD LOST? HERE'S SOLUTION

Board Will Put Person Right Who Has Had Misfortune

"Oh, mother, where's my social security card?" Bill Reynolds asked his wife one morning. "I thought I had it right here, but I can't find it."

"Oh, laws, Bills, I think that must be what was in your overalls pocket last week when I washed them. Anyway, there was a little card in there with red figures that just faded all over it. I threw the card away."

"Well, I'll just go down to the social security board office and see what to do."

"Good morning, miss, my wife ran my social security card through the washer, and the boss told me to bring it with me this morning if I wanted to go to work. I got my card here about five years ago, do you still have a record of the number?

"I'm sorry, we don't keep records in the field office. Did you have the lower part of your card put up in a safe place? If you did, and have it with you, I can give you a card now."

"No, I don't, I had both parts in my pocket."

"Well, if you will fill out this application, we will send it to our central office so they can check your original application. Then, you will be sent a new card with your old number on it. In the meantime, I'll give you a temporary card that you can show your boss, and that you can use until you get your card."

"Thank you, miss, and when I get this one, I'll take care to put the bottom half up in a safe place. And I'll take mighty good care of the upper half, too."

'DIAMOND DICK' OF NORFOLK DIES

NORFOLK, Neb., July 3.—(AP)—This town's link with the glamorous days of the wild west has been broken.

Dr. Richard Tanner, 74, known as "Diamond Dick" to thousands, who saw his amaginz feats of markmanship at wild west circus performances before the turn of the century, died last night.

His death was due in part to a broken leg suffered in a fall at his home when a chair slipped out from under him.

He had kept his identity a well-hidden secret for 15 years after he quit the circus show ring to become a country doctor in northeast Nebraska.

It was when the local American Legion post sponsored a western rodeo in 1925 that his fellow citizens learned that Dr. Tanner was "Diamond Dick." He appeared in the rodeo parade in the colorful buckskin costume of his circus days.

He was quick to point out that he wasn't a wild west hero as portrayed in the "Diamond Dick" stories that were so popular with youngsters some years back.

But his colorful career as a wild west performer started when he was a youth of 16. Extremely proficient with rifle and pistol, he was attracted to wild west circuses, and his skill soon placed him among the ranking performers.

He was billed as "Diamond Dick," and for a time had his own attraction—Diamond Dick's Wild West shows.

When he was in his early twenties he saddled a horse at Lincoln, Neb., and rode it to New York and back. He claimed it was the longest horseback ride on record—5,500 miles—without a change of horses.

In 1905 he decided to become a doctor. Four years later he was graduated from the old Lincoln Medical college at Lincoln, Neb. In 1910 he began his practice at Norfolk.

Sergeant Ercil Jones, 24, of Pioneer, La., was recently transferred from the royal Canadian air force to the United States army Eighth air force.

At the time of his transfer, Jones had completed three operational missions with the R. C. A. F. as an air gunner on a bomber.

CORPORAL EDELEN

Technical Corporal Leslie Edelen, 210th signal corps depot, Camp Barkeley, Texas, has just returned after having enjoyed a short stay with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Edelen and sister, Miss Elleta May Edelen, 1707 College avenue. While here he also visited his wide circle of friends.

SGT. BONDURANT

BARKSDALE FIELD, La.—Yelverton Bondurant, son of Mrs. Pearl Bondurant, Sicily Island, La., has been promoted to the grade of sergeant in the army air forces. Sgt. Bondurant has been stationed at Barksdale Field since March 16, 1942, with the 335th Bombardment Group. Before reporting to Barksdale, he was stationed at Danield Field, Ga.

Prior to his entrance into the army March, 1942, Sergeant Bondurant was owner and operator of a farm at Sicily Island.

CADET PARRISH

COURTLAND, Ala.—Aviation Cadet Olan B. Parrish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Parrish, of Star Route W. Monroe, La., has completed his training at the Basic Flying School here and has been transferred to the Advanced Flying School at Columbus, Miss., for the final period of pilot training.

After completing his advance training, Cadet Parrish will receive his wings and will be either appointed a flight officer or a second lieutenant, and assigned to active duty.

ROY W. EARL, JR.

Roy W. Earl, Jr., former Monroe boy now in the United States navy, has returned to duty after a furlough during which he visited friends and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Earl, formerly of Monroe but now residing at Dallas, Tex.

Young Earl, wearing gold star symbolic of having already served in five major battles, graduated from Neville High school here in May, 1941. He enlisted in the navy here and left for San Diego on June 26, 1941. He has since served with the Pacific and Atlantic fleets.

LIKE SOFT DRINKS? TURN IN BOTTLES

"Life would be pretty dull without a cool, refreshing soft drink now and then. However, if you want to be sure of a regular supply of your favorite carbonated beverages, help relieve the bottle shortage by putting all your empties back in circulation, according to M. C. Biedenharn of the Coca-Cola Bottling company.

"Now, when conservation of materials and manpower is of prime importance, every effort must be made to obtain full use of everything that has re-use value," he said. "The bottler today must get a rapid return of his bottles. Otherwise, he will find that he cannot distribute his product. To obtain new bottles is becoming increasingly difficult and the cooperation of the public at this time is vital."

RATTLESNAKES DO NOT CRAMP STYLE

Camp Bizerte Busy Turning Out Air Force Technicians

By John R. Ward

CAMP BIZERTE, Colo., July 3.—(AP)—Rattlesnakes and rainstorms don't cramp the army's style in turning out air force technicians at this new camouflaged field camp.

Twenty miles east of Denver, the camp was established shortly after victory in Tunisia and was named to commemorate the fall of Bizerte to the Yanks. Hundreds of men are trained each week for placing advance airdromes in operation.

Because the whole idea is to simulate actual combat conditions, the snakes and the sudden downpours fit into the program very nicely. The rattlers—as one officer put it—"teach the men that not all dangers come from the enemy."

Students of the air forces technical training command schools at Lowry field come here for final training and, says Captain Vernon P. Doughty of Newport News, Va., camp commander, are presented with this problem:

An advance airdrome has just been established, or taken from the enemy. It must be placed in operation quickly and smoothly, and defended against enemy counterblows. Much of the construction materials must be improvised. Natural camouflage materials must be quickly and scientifically employed. The men must be fed without fancy field kitchens.

Second Lieutenant Matthew A. Landry of Port Arthur, Tex., a guard on Rice institute's gridiron eleven in 1938, showed newspapermen the hulks of planes, wrecked in accidents, which were hauled to the camp to simulate aircraft smashed up in combat; or abandoned by the enemy. They are scattered through a grove of trees.

"This fuselage of a Liberator bomber provides aircraft armorers with a place to store equipment and guns, and also a place in which to repair equipment," said Lieutenant Landry. "Not only that, its wiring and parts come in handy for a wide variety of uses."

Grass and bushes were transplanted over trails and roads in the area—natural camouflage which continues to grow and thus cannot be detected by the infra-red film of reconnaissance photos, which distinguishes "dead" material from growing vegetation.

Lieutenant Landry singled out a Mitchell bomber, with its wings and landing gear sheared off.

"This one isn't flyable, of course, but the wiring and other mechanism in the fuselage is intact," he said. "Thus, for our purposes, it is as good as a brand new plane. Students can trace purposely-made kinks in the wiring and make repairs. They use whatever tools are at hand and not the 'wrench for every purpose' method of the classroom."

"They could also use an empty oil drum for a mount," Landry observed.

Such oil drums play an important part in the camp's field kitchen. Two, with their tops cut away, were placed horizontally over a shallow trench to make a "jungle oven." Mud was packed over them and a smokestack made of old tin cans protruded around the mud from the trench at one end.

The aroma of roasting pork was pungent proof of the effectiveness of the make-it-from-nothing method. A small fire in the trench below produced enough heat to roast meat for 150 men.

Thus the army's student cooks get lessons in resourcefulness paralleling those of the technicians. Meals are cooked on other types of field equipment to provide all-around training.

S. S. CARD LOST? HERE'S SOLUTION

Board Will Put Person Right Who Has Had Misfortune

"Oh, mother, where's my social security card?" Bill Reynolds asked his wife one morning. "I thought I had it right here, but I can't find it."

"Oh, laws, Bills, I think that must be what was in your overalls pocket last week when I washed them. Anyway, there was a little card in there with red figures that just faded all over it. I threw the card away."

"Well, I'll just go down to the social security board office and see what to do."

"Good morning, miss, my wife ran my social security card through the washer, and the boss told me to bring it with me this morning if I wanted to go to work. I got my card here about five years ago, do you still have a record of the number?

"I'm sorry, we don't keep records in the field office. Did you have the lower part of your card put up in a safe place? If you did, and have it with you, I can give you a card now."

"No, I don't, I had both parts in my pocket."

"Well, if you will fill out this application, we will send it to our central office so they can check your original application. Then, you will be sent a new card with your old number on it. In the meantime, I'll give you a temporary card that you can show your boss, and that you can use until you get your card."

"Thank you, miss, and when I get this one, I'll take care to put the bottom half up in a safe place. And I'll take mighty good care of the upper half, too."

'DIAMOND DICK' OF NORFOLK DIES

NORFOLK, Neb., July 3.—(AP)—This town's link with the glamorous days of the wild west has been broken.

Dr. Richard Tanner, 74, known as "Diamond Dick" to thousands who saw his amaginz feats of markmanship at wild west circus performances before the turn of the century, died last night.

His death was due in part to a broken leg suffered in a fall at his home when a chair slipped out from under him.

He had kept his identity a well-hidden secret for 15 years after he quit the circus show ring to become a country doctor in northeast Nebraska.

It was when the local American Legion post sponsored a western rodeo in 1925 that his fellow citizens learned that Dr. Tanner was "Diamond Dick." He appeared in the rodeo parade in the colorful buckskin costume of his circus days.

He was quick to point out that he wasn't a wild west hero as portrayed in the "Diamond Dick" stories that were so popular with youngsters some years back.

But his colorful career as a wild west performer started when he was a youth of 16. Extremely proficient with rifle and pistol, he was attracted to wild west circuses, and his skill soon placed him among the ranking performers.

He was billed as "Diamond Dick," and for a time had his own attraction—Diamond Dick's Wild West shows.

When he was in his early twenties he saddled a horse at Lincoln, Neb., and rode it to New York and back. He claimed it was the longest horseback ride on record—5,500 miles—without a change of horses.

In 1905 he decided to become a doctor. Four years later he was graduated from the old Lincoln Medical college at Lincoln, Neb. In 1910 he began his practice at Norfolk.

ALUMNI MEETING CALLED

JONESBORO, La., July 3.—(Special) L. S. U. alumni of Jackson parish are being urged to attend a meeting here Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, T. K. McKnight, secretary of the Jackson parish alumni association, has announced, but the purpose of the gathering was not revealed.

Alumni of L. S. U. have been advised to contact Leon Mitchell here for details concerning the meeting.

Water, cooled from 39.5 to 32 degrees Fahrenheit, expands one-eleventh of its volume.

Let Freedom Ring

One hundred and sixty-seven years ago, in downtown Philadelphia, a little band of fearful but courageous men proclaimed to the world certain human principles which, from that day to this, have been the lodestar for this nation.

Nothing in the declaration of independence was really new except its compilation in a single document in words that rang with sincerity and purpose. It is, as many have said, a document of glittering generalities, and yet it has provided inspiration for all the peoples who from that day to this have sought to struggle toward genuine, working democracy.

Of all the pungent phraseology in the declaration, probably none expresses either the spirit of America or the goal toward which we now are fighting so well as one short clause:

"Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

It is all very well for ideologists and evangelists and zealots to dream of how we might make the whole world over into our own image, but the great mass of our people have in mind just two things they want to see come out of victory.

First, that this nation shall maintain a government that derives its powers exclusively from the consent of the governed.

Second, that the rest of the world shall be guaranteed the opportunity to establish governments that derive their powers from the consent of the governed.

Everything else is secondary. Everything else flows from this one thing.

If, in the course of generations, we can assure that the governments of the world shall all derive their powers from the consent of the governed, everything else will follow automatically.

For all people everywhere, want the same things that we do—freedom, prosperity, peace.

CALM BEFORE THE STORM

It is not an invariable rule that men in high positions recognize fully the import that attaches to their words and speak with seriousness and authority when they discuss matters in which the public is vitally interested. But assuming that generally this rule is followed and that men entrusted with great responsibilities in time of crisis are not given to loose talk, recent utterances of men in key places must be considered as significant of a swiftly approaching military crisis.

Field Marshal Jan Smuts, premier of the Union of South Africa, declared a few days ago that the "great hour" of the war is approaching and that "victory, complete and unconditional," is in sight. General Marshall assured the conference of governors that Allied plans for invasion are "proceeding according to schedule." Lieutenant General Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, is authority for the statement that the United Nations are rapidly approaching a "final victory" and that the war will soon be brought home to Japan in such a manner that "the whole empire will feel its full impact in a most violent and destructive way."

These are statements designed to encourage the belief that the war is approaching its close. Their effects can be either helpful or harmful. If they have their origin in the certain knowledge that the United Nations have developed the overwhelming power necessary to carry the war to a swift and victorious conclusion and that the decisive blow soon will be delivered, they cannot injure the spirit of the people. There is of course the danger, although slight, that these heartening reports may be building up confidence for an eventual let-down.

Unless there exists the reasonable certainty that this present period of land inactivity is the calm before the storm and that soon there will be unleashed an over-whelmingly assault upon Europe and Japan these highly optimistic utterances involve bad psychology. They tend to over-confidence which is quickly translated into dark pessimism.

Unless there is adequate basis for the belief that the war's end is in sight, it would seem to be the course of wisdom to impress upon the American people that the future holds the necessity of hard labor and heavy sacrifices so that there may be no danger of diminishing effort.

MEXICO'S OIL

Mexico's oil industry was expropriated from private American, British and Dutch owners only five years ago. There were many protests, but the Washington administration showed little interest and the Mexican government was adamant for socialization.

The socialized industry soon ran into difficulties and petroleum production below the border was almost on the rocks when the war started. Now Mexican operation is receiving substantial assistance and there is hope that the fields will be restored to maximum production.

The United States is reported to be ready to advance a $50,000,000 loan and guarantee materials to replace worn-out refinery equipment, build pipelines and explore for new wells. This is what American owners would have been doing for the last five years, with their own money, had the Mexican government been dissuaded from its socialization scheme.

Mexico is exploring for oil in the rich Gulf of Mexico area, in Lower California and in the provinces of Sonora and Sinaloa. Many abandoned wells are being reworked. The country is stressing conservation, a factor for which it had little regard hitherto and about which it knew less.

Mexico hopes to build a pipeline from Gulf Coast fields to Mexico City, with a high octane refinery at the terminus. The nation's refining capacity now is only 150,000 barrels per day, and if present plans it may be a major petroleum producer when the war is over.

Nearly 9,000 navigation buoys mark the seacoasts of the United States.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 3.—Doctors have advised Ida Lupino to nix all picture assignments for at least three months. . . . Ava (Mickey Rooney's ex) Gardner is sporting a new seven-year MGM ticket, featuring a pay boost. . . . Newcomer Carol Thurston, who gets the plum role of Three Martini in "The Story of Doctor Wassell," looks enough like Dolores del Rio to be her kid sister. . . . The Paul Henreids will christen their adopted baby "Joan." . . . Ha! John the irrestible Carroll popped the question to Ann Miller the other day before a big party of pals. The current lady-of-his-heart said "No." . . . Paramount's prexy, Frank Freeman, has offered to postpone Betty Hutton's next screen assignment in order to let her do an oversea army camp tour. . . . Humphrey Bogart will buy Errol Flynn's much publicized yacht, Sirocco, if Mrs. B. approves after a trial cruise. . . . Seems incredible, but Bing Crosby's many-hued costumes are actually getting more colorful; studio wags are now posting bets on his daily combinations. . . . George Brent, who left Warner Brothers a year ago in such a huff, is returning to that lot to star in "Three Strangers." . . . Ensign John Howard is now commanding a mine sweeper in the Mediterranean. . . . Aside to Bob Hope, somewhere in England: Stand by for a surprise. Your missus will be seeing you any day; she's going to visit London on AWVS business. . . . The Dorothy Parker whose book of satirical verse will hit book stores shortly is not the famous wit, but Penny Singleton's long-time stand-in.

I'm confused by the formal announcement from Martha O'Driscoll's mama, who says that her dotter will wed Lieutenant Commander Richard Adams, come September. According to the printed account he and Martha have been "that-a-way" for eight years, although "Miss O'Driscoll, at one time, had given up her fiance for lost because he was at Manila when Pearl Harbor was bombed." The statement is highly baffling, but that isn't what got me down. My confusion arised from trying to fit a guy named William Lundigan into the picture. It hasn't been more than three months, according to my office files, since Martha was discussing plans to marry Bill.

Speaking of Hollywood's romantic tangles, there's (as always) the case of Stan Laurel. His ex-missus, Virginia Ruth Laurel, is suing him for separate maintenance. If Mrs. Laurel were an ordinary Hollywood wife, her suit would be too commonplace to mention—but this ex-Mrs. Laurel as anything but ordinary. She has marched to the altar with Stanley three times and divorced him twice. Add to all this, the poor comic's hectic, in-between marriage to the temperamental dancer, Illeana, and you can understand that the bewildered expression he wears before the cameras is not necessarily proof of his acting ability.

The longer I know Betty Hutton, the more reason I find to admire her, not only as an entertainer, but as a person. I like the complete honesty with which she flaunts her impoverished childhood, spent on the "wrong side of the tracks." The other day, visiting on her set, she introduced me to a soldier whom she described as a grade school pal. "We were born in the same back alley," she laughed. Unless you know Hollywood, you may have difficulty in appreciating Betty's lack of affectation. The average screen star would risk an eternity in purgatory rather than admit her family tree had ever grown on anything less distinguished than a baronial estate.

To hand this ayem is a press agent's rhapsody about Merle Oberon's devotion to her colored cook. It seems the custodian of the kitchen is ill, and in a local hospital. Miss Oberon visits her frequently and even goes so far (the publicity writer exults) as to take a book and spend hours reading to her bed-fast servant. I'm ashamed of myself for being cynical, but in these troubled times what's so wonderful about devotion to a good cook?

Look over the Universal star roster and you'll note this startling fact: Almost every big drawing card in the group, prior to his Universal success, was written off as a liability by some other studio. Deanna Durbin was washed-out at MGM, Donald O'Conner was once under contract to Paramount and Abbott and Costello were tested and scored by three different moviemakers before Universal gave them a chance. Robert Cummings withered on the Paramount vine, Alan Jones was regarded as an also-ran by MGM. I think Universal bosses rate a bow. It takes cleverness to draw a winning hand out of the other fellow's discards.

BY HENRY McLEMORE

LINDFIELD, Sussex, England—It is a quiet Sunday morning at this rural village and the bell in All Saints church is ringing just the way it has rung on Sunday mornings since the thirteenth century. The good vicar will be a little tired before he has finished his sermon this morning and there will be many vacant pews but everyone in Lindfield will understand that it's all in a good cause.

Last night the home guard met at King Edward's hall, opposite the village pond, for what is known as a "do." This means that some of the home guardsmen have been out shooting rabbits which are cooked and served up by their wives together with barrels of lager beer donated by the owner of the Red Lion pub. After dinner the wives go home and the barrels of beer are tapped.

By now you should understand why the vicar is tired this Sunday morning. He is not a member of the home guard but he was there last night, sitting at the colonel's table as guest of honor. The colonel is a local squire and a veteran of the last war, as are most members of the home guard. The squire's gardener is a captain in the home guard. One of his sergeants is a pub owner and a private in the ranks is vice-president of one of London's biggest banks. At the Saturday night "do" the gardener sat at the colonel's table and the banker sat at a long table with the commoners but they all joined in the chorus of "Keep the Home Fires Burning" with gusto shortly after the second barrel of beer was opened.

The party broke up around midnight not only because the beer was all gone but also because Sunday morning was to be a busy time for all hands. As the church bell rang out the home guardsmen—with the understanding consent of the vicar on this occasion—met at the Red Lion and then marched out in close order for practice maneuvers at Pax Hill park, the colonel's estate.

Much of the open fields in this game park now are plowed up into Victory gardens and the wooded acres are intertwined with barbed wire and pitted with machine gun emplacements. But the old colonel is having more fun than he ever did shooting partridges in peacetime. For one thing he feels more useful. For another he has just now come to know his gardener through the home guard maneuvers and he finds his gardener a lot more congenial than most of the people his wife used to invite down to Pax Hill manor for the week-end.

But the real reason for the good feeling in the home guard, whether on a Saturday night frolic or on a Sunday morning maneuver is that they are confident of their ability to take care of anything the Nazis can send across the channel in the way of an invasion army.

The average age of the home guard is around 50 years as against 20-odd for the regular army. But it is one of the truisms of modern warfare that a cool, well-trained man of 50 may be able to handle a machine gun better than a raw youth of 18. In rifle competition the home guard regularly out-shoots the regulars.

But the overwhelming advantage these hard-training home guardsmen would have against any enemy is the fact that they are fighting on home grounds. They love this rural English countryside and they know every inch of it, where best to take shelter, what positions are best for offense and which for defense.

There was a time when the church bells in rural England were kept silent, to be used only to warn of invasion but this Sunday morning the bells are just ringing for church service. The home guard will reply with more than bells if England is invaded.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday School Lesson, July 11. Text: Exodus 3:1-12.

By William E. Gilroy, D.D.

Much in the life and liberty of a people depends upon a leader, and we have been discovering in the tragic experiences of the world today how much bad leadership can do to pervert the life of a people and to bring calamity upon the world.

The history of the children of Israel in their progress from the bondage of Egypt to the freedom of the Promised Land shows at almost every point how much depends upon the people themselves, and how ineffective even the greatest leadership can be if people are not responsive and willing to be led.

Moses stands out as the great type of liberator, the man of vision roused to action against tyranny, but with the conviction that a people must have faith and courage and be capable of positive action if they are to be freed from their fears and from their oppressors.

Like most great leaders we find in Moses a spirit of deep humility. He is not moved to the leadership of his people by any personal or selfish ambition, nor is his leadership self-imposed.

It required an experience of vision with some outward manifestation to startle him, as he was tending the flocks of his father-in-law, and convince him that God had some great mission in store. When he became conscious of God's call, he answered "Here am I." Whether all this happened in a dream or in a vision we do not know, but the important thing is that Moses heard God speak, and he became convinced that God called him to be the champion of his people in their oppression and to do his part in freeing them from their bondage.

Yet Moses was appalled and humbled at the thought of such a task "Who am I," said he, "that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?"

To Moses came the assurance of God's presence. God became to him the "great I am," the living spiritual presence, and he went forth to his mission in the consciousness that God was with him.

Here is the symbolic story of all great leadership. There are men who profess to be leaders who are not leaders at all, whose motive is one of selfish ambition and of their own aggrandizement. Too often such men have usurped the functions of leadership without observing any responsibility either toward God or toward men.

Yet the call today is for leadership, and if we can hear God's call and respond in the spirit of Moses, who knows what useful purposes we may fulfill.

It is a good time to recall the little parable by Bolton Hall of the man who could not be a leader. The man said "Lord, I cannot be a leader," but the voice of the Lord replied, "You can go and perhaps someone will follow you."

That is the very essence of leadership, and it is the sort of leadership we can all give.

COAST GUARDSMEN GRADUATE

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—The first class of 54 coast guardsmen to finish training at the eighth naval district's beach patrol mounted cavalry school, located at the Fairgrounds race track here, were graduated in ceremonies at 10 a. m. today.

The men will be sent to beach patrol stations in the district and a new class will be assembled tomorrow and Monday to begin training Tuesday morning, coast guard officials said.

'BET THE FOLKS AT HOME ARE HAVING A BIG TIME TODAY'

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

Wartime legal war has been declared by the United States department of justice against international cartels—agreements of big business trusts to control world production and divide up world markets so as to maintain monopolies and high prices and eliminate competition. Return of an indictment against National Lead company and E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and company, charging them with participation in a world-wide conspiracy with German, British, Italian and Japanese chemical companies for the control of titanium compounds used in paint, is just the first step in this campaign.

Other cartels of similar character are now under investigation and further indictments may be expected from time to time. Assistant Attorney General Tom C. Clark, who succeeded Thurman Arnold as head of the anti-trust division in the department of justice, has set up a special cartel division under Herbert A. Berman of Newark, N. J., with the purpose of serving notice on American business that their participation in post-war cartels will be prosecuted under the Sherman anti-trust law.

How Cartels Helped Germans

To many people, it may seem that all this is stratosphere stuff beyond their ken or interest, but it isn't so remote at that. As Tom Clark points out, the effect of all these agreements is to put a tax on the things you buy, and to restrict the rights of United States companies not in the cartel from doing business on a freely competitive basis.

What typical cartels did in the pre-war period was to give German companies trade monopolies in South American countries, freezing out American competition. The Germans were able to build up business contacts which were invaluable to their fifth column activities.

When the war broke out, the German companies turned over their patents to American corporations which were partners in the cartel, and made arrangements for there American companies to supply the German dealers in trade territories reserved to the Germans, United States companies paying the profits to the Germans.

By assigning patents to United States cartel members, the German firms were able to escape having their patents seised by the alien property custodian and resold. At the end of the war it was therefore assumed that the German patent holders would be able to reacquire their pre-war rights and resume their place in world business.

Post-War Problem

What this amounts to is that even though Germany were defeated on the field of battle, it would never be defeated economically, for its business contracts would be continued during and after the war.

The problem of controlling cartels in the post-war world is one that is now receiving attention by government thinkers. Nearly all European and the Japanese governments are now cartel-minded, favoring these monopolies. It is believed, however, that no cartel could succeed if it did not have the cooperation of American business, not restricted as to where and how it might compete, could break any foreign cartel combination.

The only existing United States controls over cartels are the Sherman anti-trust law and a new amendment to the reciprocal trade agreements act introduced by Congressman Charles S. Dewey of Chicago, which gives the president permissory power to cancel a trade agreement if he finds that the operation of a cartel interferes.

A further step would be to require the registration with the department of state of all cartel agreements entered into by American citizens or corporations. But that would demand additional new legislation.

SALVATION ARMY CLUB POPULAR

Many Boys Find Wholesome Entertainment At Red Shield

Every red-blooded American boy living in Ouachita parish should belong to a live wire boy's club, where he can have good times and meet fine friends states Captain Houston Ellis of the local Red Shield club operated by the Salvation club, located at 510 Harrison street in Monroe.

The local Red Shield club is nonsectarian and respects the religious beliefs of every boy. It is our plan says Captain Ellis, through the Red Shield club to foster spiritual values but we definitely leave the responsibility for religious instructions to the church of which the boy is a member. The local club has been growing considerably and its membership now includes boys from six to eighteen.

The club conducts just about every activity that a healthy boy would want to participate in. There are all sorts of games for recreation, ping-pong, checkers, dominoes, shuffle-board, horse shoes, showers, checkers, reading room, aeroplane club, soft ball teams and leagues and many other healthful activities. In the fall and winter, gymnasium classes are held at the club, which are filled with peppy activities, games and stunts, stated Captain Ellis.

The membership card which every boy receives is signed with permission of the parents. There is no charge and the club will remain free through the summer months until fall when a small club fee not to exceed 75c a year will be asked. If a boy can't pay it weekly he will be given some sort of work to earn it.

Captain Ellis has had many years of experience in helping boys. It makes no difference how serious or personal are the problems of the boy, he can be assured that anything discussed will be kept in the strictest confidence. Parents can also make appointments for interviews regarding their boys.

Many boys find the use of the library valuable, others have hobby groups and there is an abundance of pictorial literature, moving pictures and special events.

Captain Ellis invites all parents of children to visit the Red Shield club and inspect its many interesting activities. All a boy needs do to become a member of the Salvation Army Red Shield club is simply fill out an application which must be approved by his father or mother, then it is brought to 510 Harrison street, club headquarters.

CHINESE GIRL IS STAR OF ORCHESTRA COMING

Willie Mae Wong, the only Chinese girl in the world to play with a "name band," will appear at the Monroe colored high school gym with the "International Sweethearts of Rhythm," all-girl orchestra Monday.

Miss Wong, who wears an eternal smile when playing, says she is happiest "when making others happy with music, particularly hot swing.

Jam-packed with energy, Willie Mae is five feet, one inch tall and weighs only 94 pounds. The girls in the band have tagged her "Rabbit."

In street dress, China's representative in the orchestra always wears a "pair of wings" for ornamental jewelry. Willie Mae says she's going to marry an aviator.

There will be 300 seats reserved for white patrons.

SINGING MEET IS SCHEDULED TODAY

The first Sunday of the month singing convention will be held at the Booster hall on Ouachita avenue Sunday afternoon. The general public is invited to attend, especially the boys in the armed services. This convention is sponsored by the Missouri Pacific railroad and the singing will begin at 1:30 p.m. and end at 4:00. The officers are Garland May, president, and Mrs. Fred Wilson, secretary.

SINGING MEET TO BE HELD SUNDAY

The regular first-Sunday-of-the-month of the Booster Singing convention will be held today at the Booster clubhouse on Ouachita avenue at 1:30 p.m. A capacity attendance is expected. Garland May, president, states that he anticipates that today's program may prove the best and most popular of any previous one given here.

The committee in charge is arranging a program of group singing and special numbers by well known quartets. Among the visiting singers will be Professor L. D. Huffstuttler, Dallas, Tex., who has often been termed "the king of song directors," throughout a number of states. Besides being a good singer and music teacher, he is author of a number of gospel songs which have become popular with a wide circle. Along with Mr. Huffstuttler will be Miss Billie Miller, also from Texas, and a talented pianist.

The club's officials have the promise of a loud speaker system so that those unable to get in to the hall may hear the program from outside.

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: Came in from Kansas City aboard one of the big DC3s of TWA, through the heaviest thunderstorms I've ever had the good luck to fly through. . . . With 23 people aboard, the ship twice was turned over, almost on its back, and many times was jolted into odd positions, quite suddenly. Nobody was hurt, but a lot of loose gear was dumped into the aisle. . . . I like storms, and particularly like to ride through them, but this one became almost uncomfortable at times. Chain lightning zipped past our nose, reached for our wing-tips, and streaked around us. . . . These pilots know their business so well that wind and lightning, thunderheads and downpours, merely drive them on to do their emergency tricks, such as righting a big ship that seems headed for the last roundup. . . . We landed at Chicago while the storm was still roaring, and took off into the teeth of it; this time with only 13 passengers. The others had been removed to make room for priority express. Despite the number 13, the next leg of the trip was much smoother, though sleep wasn't very fashionable. . . . Airline crews are doing twice as good work as they did two years ago, against far greater odds, because it is so important that the ships go through. Storms that used to ground everything are now merely difficulties to be met and conquered. And, after this trip, I'm convinced that no thunderstorm can destroy a modern airliner that is in skilled hands.

At Pittsburgh a blackout and air raid alarm were in progress while our ship was loading. The whistles screamed and wardens went about turning out little light bulbs in the station . . . but outside, floodlights made the port as bright as day. Red danger lights burned brightly atop every potential obstacle, and the lights of innumerable planes winked on and off. . . . In the middle distance, the great red clouds that mark the steel furnaces rolled heavenward. . . . Now what, I asked an unidentified gentleman, is the sense of all this? It's necessary to protect traffic with floodlights and warning lights, and blast furnaces can't blow themselves up just for a mock air raid. . . . Said he, "There is no sense whatever in it, but they do it in New York and we must imitate New York. Besides, it makes some people feel important. But any enemy airman who needed to be guided by a so-called blackout would never get a pilot's license. And the same is true of New York, clearly outlined by moonlight reflected from the bay and rivers."

Very true. I think that more time airman who couldn't find Pittsburgh in raid drills and precautions than are likely to be lost in case of enemy air-raids. In New York, at least, it is all foolishness, largely for the gratification of the ego of our mayor. He likes to see millions scurry for the dangerous shelter of glass entrances to buildings, at his command. Little Caesar, we call him, and most of us think it's funny.

I am most impressed by the comparative abundance of gasoline, moving traffic, food and bright lights in the mid-western cities I have just visited.

Fresh vegetables from neighboring farms make a world of difference in the kind of living one does. There are fresh vegetables in plenty, especially onions, potatoes, turnips, beans and peas, in the markets of these big towns in the center or near the center of the continent.

Prices are high, compared with normal prices, and residents with fixed or dwindling incomes are worried about inflation.

In Kansas City I had a final chicken dinner with the Frank Glenns. Frank runs one of the leading book stores in the middle west. His beautiful little wife prepared and served the best chicken dinner I've ever eaten. The chicken must have been a different animal from chickens we get in New York. Tender, juicy, easy on bridge work. Well, it's a great country.

BAPTISTS WILL DEDICATE 2 FLAGS

An interesting service will be held at the First Baptist church of Monroe this morning when two handsome service flags will be dedicated, with stars for each church member who is now in armed service. There will be a total of 177 such stars.

The pastor, Rev. L. T. Hastings, will preach at the morning service hour on "The Christian's Duty to His Country in War." The subject for the evening worship hour, 7:45 p.m., will be "Will He Go Up or Down?"

Let Freedom Ring

One hundred and sixty-seven years ago, in downtown Philadelphia, a little band of fearful but courageous men proclaimed to the world certain human principles which, from that day to this, have been the lodestar for this nation.

Nothing in the declaration of independence was really new except its compilation in a single document in words that rang with sincerity and purpose. It is, as many have said, a document of glittering generalities, and yet it has provided inspiration for all the peoples who from that day to this have sought to struggle toward genuine, working democracy.

Of all the pungent phraseology in the declaration, probably none expresses either the spirit of America or the goal toward which we now are fighting so well as one short clause:

"Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

It is all very well for ideologists and evangelists and zealots to dream of how we might make the whole world over into our own image, but the great mass of our people have in mind just two things they want to see come out of victory.

First, that this nation itself shall maintain a government that derives its powers exclusively from the consent of the governed.

Second, that the rest of the world shall be guaranteed the opportunity to establish governments that derive their powers from the consent of the governed.

Everything else is secondary. Everything else flows from this one thing.

If, in the course of generations, we can assure that the governments of the world shall all derive their powers from the consent of the governed, everything else will follow automatically.

For all people everywhere, want the same things that we do—freedom, prosperity, peace.

CALM BEFORE THE STORM

It is not an invariable rule that men in high positions recognize fully the import that attaches to their words and speak with seriousness and authority when they discuss matters in which the public is vitally interested. But assuming that generally this rule is followed and that men entrusted with great responsibilities in time of crisis are not given to loose talk, recent utterances of men in key places must be considered as significant of a swiftly approaching military crisis.

Field Marshal Jan Smuts, premier of the Union of South Africa, declared a few days ago that the "great hour" of the war is approaching and that "victory, complete and unconditional," is in sight. General Marshall assured the conference of governors that Allied plans for invasion are "proceeding according to schedule." Lieutenant General Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, is authority for the statement that the United Nations are rapidly approaching a "final victory" and that the war will soon be brought home to Japan in such a manner that "the whole empire will feel its full impact in a most violent and destructive way."

These are statements designed to encourage the belief that the war is approaching its close. Their effects can be either helpful or harmful. If they have their origin in the certain knowledge that the United Nations have developed the overwhelming power necessary to carry the war to a swift and victorious conclusion and that the decisive blow soon will be delivered, they cannot injure the spirit of the people. There is of course the danger, although slight, that these heartening reports may be building up confidence for an eventual let-down.

Unless there exists the reasonable certainty that this present period of land inactivity is the calm before the storm and that soon there will be unleased an over-whelmingly assault upon Europe and Japan these highly optimistic utterances involve bad psychology. They tend to over-confidence which is quickly translated into dark pessimism.

Unless there is adequate basis for the belief that the war's end is in sight, it would seem to be the course of wisdom to impress upon the American people that the future holds the necessity of hard labor and heavy sacrifices so that there may be no danger of diminishing effort.

MEXICO'S OIL

Mexico's oil industry was expropriated from private American, British and Dutch owners only five years ago. There were many protests, but the Washington administration showed little interest and the Mexican government was adamant for socialization.

The socialized industry soon ran into difficulties and petroleum production below the border was almost on the rocks when the war started. Now Mexican operation is receiving substantial assistance and there is hope that the fields will be restored to maximum production.

The United States is reported to be ready to advance a $50,000,000 loan and guarantee materials to replace worn-out refinery equipment, build pipelines and explore for new wells. This is what American owners would have been doing for the last five years, with their own money, had the Mexican government been dissuaded from its socialization scheme.

Mexico is exploring for oil in the rich Gulf of Mexico area, in Lower California and in the provinces of Sonora and Sinaloa. Many abandoned wells are being reworked. The country is stressing conservation, a factor for which it had little regard hitherto and about which it knew less.

Mexico hopes to build a pipeline from Gulf Coast fields to Mexico City, with a high octane refinery at the terminus. The nation's refining capacity now is only 150,000 barrels per day, but under present plans it may be a major petroleum producer when the war is over.

Nearly 9,000 navigation buoys mark the seacoasts of the United States.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, July 3.—Doctors have advised Ida Lupino to nix all picture assignments for at least three months. . . . Ava (Mickey Rooney's ex) Gardner is sporting a new seven-year MGM ticket, featuring a pay boost. . . . Newcomer Carol Thurston, who gets the plum role of Three Martini in "The Story of Doctor Wassell," looks enough like Dolores del Rio to be her kid sister. . . . The Paul Henreids will christen their adopted baby "Joan." . . . Ha! John (the irrestible) Carroll popped the question to Ann Miller the other day before a big party of pals. The current lady-of-his-heart said "No." . . . Paramount's prexy, Frank Freeman, has offered to postpone Betty Hutton's next screen assignment in order to let her do an oversea army camp tour. . . . Humphrey Bogart will buy Errol Flynn's much publicized yacht, Sirocco, if Mrs. B. approves after a trial cruise. . . . Seems incredible, but Bing Crosby's many-hued costumes are actually getting more colorful; studio wags are now posting bets on his daily combinations. . . . George Brent, who left Warner Brothers a year ago in such a huff, is returning to that lot to star in "Three Strangers." . . . Ensign John Howard is now commanding a mine sweeper in the Mediterranean. . . . Aside to Bob Hope, somewhere in England: Stand by for a surprise. Your missus will be seeing you any day; she's going to visit London on AWVS business. . . . The Dorothy Parker whose book of satirical verse will hit book stores shortly is not the famous wit, but Penny Singleton's long-time stand-in.

I'm confused by the formal announcement from Martha O'Driscoll's mama, who says that her dotter will wed Lieutenant Commander Richard Adams, come September. According to the printed account he and Martha have been "that-a-way" for eight years, although "Miss O'Driscoll, at one time, had given up her fiance for lost because he was at Manila when Pearl Harbor was bombed." The statement is highly baffling, but that isn't what got me down. My confusion arised from trying to fit a guy named William Lundigan into the picture. It hasn't been more than three months, according to my office files, since Martha was discussing plans to marry Bill.

Speaking of Hollywood's romantic tangles, there's (as always) the case of Stan Laurel. His ex-missus, Virginia Ruth Laurel, is suing him for separate maintenance. If Mrs. Laurel were an ordinary Hollywood wife, her suit would be too commonplace to mention—but this ex-Mrs. Laurel is anything but ordinary. She has marched to the altar with Stanley three times and divorced him twice. Add to all this, the poor comic's hectic, in-between marriage to the temperamental dancer, Illeana, and you can understand that the bewildered expression he wears before the cameras is not necessarily proof of his acting ability.

The longer I know Betty Hutton, the more reason I find to admire her, not only as an entertainer, but as a person. I like the complete honesty with which she flaunts her impoverished childhood, spent on the "wrong side of the tracks." The other day, visiting on her set, she introduced me to a soldier whom she described as a grade school pal. "We were born in the same back alley," she laughed. Unless you know Hollywood, you may have difficulty in appreciating Betty's lack of affectation. The average screen star would risk an eternity in purgatory rather than admit her family tree had ever grown on anything less distinguished than a baronial estate.

To hand this ayem is a press agent's rhapsody about Merle Oberon's devotion to her colored cook. It seems the custodian of the kitchen is ill, and in a local hospital. Miss Oberon visits her frequently and even goes so far (the publicity writer exults) as to take a book and spend hours reading to her bed-fast servant. I'm ashamed of myself for being cynical, but in these troubled times what's so wonderful about devotion to a good cook?

Look over the Universal star roster and you'll note this startling fact: Almost every big drawing card in the group, prior to his Universal success, was written off as a liability by some other studio. Deanna Durbin was washed-out at MGM, Donald O'Conner was once under contract to Paramount and Abbott and Costello were tested and scored by three different moviemakers before Universal gave them a chance. Robert Cummings withered on the Paramount vine, Alan Jones was regarded as an also-ran by MGM. I think Universal bosses rate a bow. It takes cleverness to draw a winning hand out of the other fellow's discards.

BY HENRY McLEMORE

LINDFIELD, Sussex, England—It is a quiet Sunday morning at this rural village and the bell in All Saints church is ringing just the way it has rung on Sunday mornings since the thirteenth century. The good vicar will be a little tired before he has finished his sermon this morning and there will be many vacant pews but everyone in Lindfield will understand that it's all in a good cause.

Last night the home guard met at King Edward's hall, opposite the village pond, for what is known as a "do." This means that some of the home guardsmen have been out shooting rabbits which are cooked and served up by their wives together with barrels of lager beer donated by the owner of the Red Lion pub. After dinner the wives go home and the barrels of beer are tapped.

By now you should understand why the vicar is tired this Sunday morning. He is not a member of the home guard but he was there last night, sitting at the colonel's table as guest of honor. The colonel is a local squire and a veteran of the last war, as are most members of the home guard. The squire's gardener is a captain in the home guard. One of his sergeants is a pub owner and a private in the ranks is vice-president of one of London's biggest banks. At the Saturday night "do" the gardener sat at the colonel's table and the banker sat at a long table with the commoners but they all joined in the chorus of "Keep the Home Fires Burning" with gusto shortly after the second barrel of beer was opened.

The party broke up around midnight not only because the beer was all gone but also because Sunday morning was to be a busy time for all hands. As the church bell rang out the home guardsmen—with the understanding consent of the vicar on this occasion—met at the Red Lion and then marched out in close order for practice maneuvers at Pax Hill park, the colonel's estate.

Much of the open fields in this game park now are plowed up into Victory gardens and the wooded acres are intertwined with barbed wire and pitted with machine gun emplacements. But the old colonel is having more fun than he ever did shooting partridges in peacetime. For one thing he feels more useful. For another he has just now come to know his gardener through the home guard maneuvers and he finds his gardener a lot more congenial than most of the people his wife used to invite down to Pax Hill manor for the week-end.

But the real reason for the good feeling in the home guard, whether on a Saturday night frolic or on a Sunday morning maneuver is that they are confident of their ability to take care of anything the Nazis can send across the channel in the way of an invasion army.

The average age of the home guard is around 50 years as against 20-odd for the regular army. But it is one of the truisms of modern warfare that a cool, well-trained man of 50 may be able to handle a machine gun better than a raw youth of 18. In rifle competition the home guard regularly out-shoots the regulars.

But the overwhelming advantage these hard-training home guardsmen would have against any enemy is the fact that they are fighting on home grounds. They love this rural English countryside and they know every inch of it, where best to take shelter, what positions are best for offense and which for defense.

There was a time when the church bells in rural England were kept silent, to be used only to warn of invasion but this Sunday morning the bells are just ringing for church service. The home guard will reply with more than bells if England is invaded.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday School Lesson, July 11. Text: Exodus 3:1-12.

By William E. Gilroy, D.D.

Much in the life and liberty of a people depends upon a leader, and we have been discovering in the tragic experiences of the world today how much bad leadership can do to pervert the life of a people and to bring calamity upon the world.

The history of the children of Israel in their progress from the bondage of Egypt to the freedom of the Promised Land shows at almost every point how much depends upon the people themselves, and how ineffective even the greatest leadership can be if people are not responsive and willing to be led.

Moses stands out as the great type of liberator, the man of vision roused to action against tyranny, but with the conviction that a people must have faith and courage and be capable of positive action if they are to be freed from their fears and from their oppressors.

Like most great leaders we find in Moses a spirit of deep humility. He is not moved to the leadership of his people by any personal or selfish ambition, nor is his leadership self-imposed.

It required an experience of vision with some outward manifestation to startle him, as he was tending the flocks of his father-in-law, and convince him that God had some great mission in store. When he became conscious of God's call, he answered "Here am I." Whether all this happened in a dream or in a vision we do not know, but the important thing is that Moses heard God speak, and he became convinced that God called him to be the champion of his people in their oppression and to do his part in freeing them from their bondage.

Yet Moses was appalled and humbled at the thought of such a task "Who am I," said he, "that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?"

To Moses came the assurance of God's presence. God became to him the "great I am," the living spiritual presence, and he went forth to his mission in the consciousness that God was with him.

Here is the symbolic story of all great leadership. There are men who profess to be leaders who are not leaders at all, whose motive is one of selfish ambition and of their own aggrandizement. Too often such men have usurped the functions of leadership without observing any responsibility either toward God or toward men.

Yet the call today is for leadership, and if we can hear God's call and respond in the spirit of Moses, who knows what useful purposes we may fulfill.

It is a good time to recall the little parable by Bolton Hall of the man who could not be a leader. The man said "Lord, I cannot be a leader," but the voice of the Lord replied, "You can go and perhaps someone will follow you."

That is the very essence of leadership, and it is the sort of leadership we can all give.

COAST GUARDSMEN GRADUATE

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—The first class of 54 coast guardsmen to finish training at the eighth naval district's beach patrol mounted cavalry school, located at the Fairgrounds race track here, were graduated in ceremonies at 10 a. m. today.

The men will be sent to beach patrol stations in the district and a new class will be assembled tomorrow and Monday to begin training Tuesday morning, coast guard officials said.

'BET THE FOLKS AT HOME ARE HAVING A BIG TIME TODAY'

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

Wartime legal war has been declared by the United States department of justice against international cartels—agreements of big business trusts to control world production and divide up world markets so as to maintain monopolies and high prices and eliminate competition. Return of an indictment against National Lead company and E. I. Du Pont de Nemours and company, charging them with participation in a world-wide conspiracy with German, British, Italian and Japanese chemical companies for the control of titanium compounds used in paint, is just the first step in this campaign.

Other cartels of similar character are now under investigation and further indictments may be expected from time to time. Assistant Attorney General Tom C. Clark, who succeeded Thurman Arnold as head of the anti-trust division in the department of justice, has set up a special cartel division under Herbert A. Berman of Newark, N. J., with the purpose of serving notice on American business that their participation in post-war cartels will be prosecuted under the Sherman anti-trust law.

How Cartels Helped Germans

To many people, it may seem that all this is stratosphere stuff beyond their ken or interest, but it isn't so remote at that. As Tom Clark points out, the effect of all these agreements is to put a tax on the things you buy, and to restrict the rights of United States companies not in the cartel from doing business on a freely competitive basis.

What typical cartels did in the pre-war period was to give German companies trade monopolies in South American countries, freezing out American competition. The Germans were able to build up business contacts which were invaluable to their fifth column activities.

When the war broke out, the German companies turned over their patents to American corporations which were partners in the cartel, and made arrangements for these American companies to supply the German dealers in trade territories reserved to the Germans, United States companies paying the profits to the Germans.

By assigning patents to United States cartel members, the German firms were able to escape having their patents seized by the alien property custodian and resold. At the end of the war it was therefore assumed that the German patent holders would be able to reacquire their pre-war rights and resume their place in world business.

Post-War Problem

What this amounts to is that even though Germany were defeated on the field of battle, it would never be defeated economically, for its business contracts would be continued during and after the war.

The problem of controlling cartels in the post-war world is one that is now receiving attention by government thinkers. Nearly all European and the Japanese governments are now cartel-minded, favoring these monopolies. It is believed, however, that no cartel could succeed if it did not have the cooperation of American busines, not restricted as to where and how it might compete, could break any foreign cartel combination.

The only existing United States controls over cartels are the Sherman anti-trust law and a new amendment to the reciprocal trade agreements act introduced by Congressman Charles S. Dewey of Chicago, which gives the president permissory power to cancel a trade agreement if he finds that the operation of a cartel interferes.

A further step would be to require the registration with the department of state of all cartel agreements entered into by American citizens or corporations. But that would demand additional new legislation.

SALVATION ARMY CLUB POPULAR

Many Boys Find Wholesome Entertainment At Red Shield

Every red-blooded American boy living in Ouachita parish should belong to a live wire boy's club, where he can have good times and meet fine friends states Captain Houston Ellis of the local Red Shield club operated by the Salvation club, located at 510 Harrison street in Monroe.

The local Red Shield club is nonsectarian and respects the religious beliefs of every boy. It is our plan says Captain Ellis, through the Red Shield club to foster spiritual values but we definitely leave the responsibility for religious instructions to the church of which the boy is a member. The local club has been growing considerably and its membership now includes boys from six to eighteen.

The club conducts just about every activity that a healthy boy would want to participate in. There are all sorts of games for recreation, ping-pong, checkers, dominoes, shuffle-board, horse shoes, showers, checkers, reading room, aeroplane club, soft ball teams and leagues and many other healthful activities. In the fall and winter, gymnasium classes are held at the club, which are filled with peppy activities, games and stunts, stated Captain Ellis.

The membership card which every boy receives is signed with permission of the parents. There is no charge and the club will remain free through the summer months until fall when a small club fee not to exceed 75c a year will be asked. If a boy can't pay it weekly he will be given some sort of work to earn it.

Captain Ellis has had many years of experience in helping boys. It makes no difference how serious or personal are the problems of the boy, he can be assured that anything discussed will be kept in the strictest confidence. Parents can also make appointments for interviews regarding their boys.

Many boys find the use of the library valuable, others have hobby groups and there is an abundance of pictorial literature, moving pictures and special events.

Captain Ellis invites all parents of children to visit the Red Shield club and inspect its many interesting activities. All a boy needs do to become a member of the Salvation Army Red Shield club is simply fill out an application which must be approved by his father or mother, then it is brought to 510 Harrison street, club headquarters.

CHINESE GIRL IS STAR OF ORCHESTRA COMING

Willie Mae Wong, the only Chinese girl in the world to play with a "name band," will appear at the Monroe colored high school gym with the "International Sweethearts of Rhythm," all-girl orchestra Monday.

Miss Wong, who wears an eternal smile when playing, says she is happiest "when making others happy with music, particularly hot swing.

Jam-packed with energy, Willie Mae is five feet, one inch tall and weighs only 94 pounds. The girls in the band have tagged her "Rabbit."

In street dress, China's representative in the orchestra always wears a "pair of wings" for ornamental jewelry. Willie Mae says she's going to marry an aviator.

There will be 300 seats reserved for white patrons.

SINGING MEET IS SCHEDULED TODAY

The first Sunday of the month singing convention will be held at the Booster hall on Ouachita avenue Sunday afternoon. The general public is invited to attend, especially the boys in the armed services. This convention is sponsored by the Missouri Pacific railroad and the singing will begin at 1:30 p.m. and end at 4:00. The officers are Garland May, president, and Mrs. Fred Wilson, secretary.

SINGING MEET TO BE HELD SUNDAY

The regular first-Sunday-of-the-month of the Booster Singing convention will be held today at the Booster clubhouse on Ouachita avenue at 1:30 p.m. A capacity attendance is expected. Garland May, president, states that he anticipates that today's program may prove the best and most popular of any previous one given here.

The committee in charge is arranging a program of group singing and special numbers by well known quartets. Among the visiting singers will be Professor L. D. Huffstuttler, Dallas, Tex., who has often been termed "the king of song directors," throughout a number of states. Besides being a good singer and music teacher, he is author of a number of gospel songs which have become popular with a wide circle. Along with Mr. Huffstuttler will be Miss Billie Miller, also from Texas, and a talented pianist.

The club's officials have the promise of a loud speaker system so that those unable to get in to the hall may hear the program from outside.

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: Came in from Kansas City aboard one of the big DC3s of TWA, through the heaviest thunderstorms I've ever had the good luck to fly through. . . . With 23 people aboard, the ship twice was turned over, almost on its back, and many times was jolted into odd positions, quite suddenly. Nobody was hurt, but a lot of loose gear was dumped into the aisle. . . . I like storms, and particularly like to ride through them, but this one became almost uncomfortable at times. Chain lightning zipped past our nose, reached for our wing-tips, and streaked around us. . . . These pilots know their business so well that wind and lightning, thunderheads and downpours, merely drive them on to do their emergency tricks, such as righting a big ship that seems headed for the last roundup. . . . We landed at Chicago while the storm was still roaring, and took off into the teeth of it; this time with only 13 passengers. The others had been removed to make room for priority express. Despite the number 13, the next leg of the trip was much smoother, though sleep wasn't very fashionable. . . . Airline crews are doing twice as good work as they did two years ago, against far greater odds, because it is so important that the ships go through. Storms that used to ground everything are now merely difficulties to be met and conquered. And, after this trip, I'm convinced that no thunderstorm can destroy a modern airliner that is in skilled hands.

At Pittsburgh a blackout and air raid alarm were in progress while our ship was loading. The whistles screamed and wardens went about turning out little light bulbs in the station . . . but outside, floodlights made the port as bright as day. Red danger lights burned brightly atop every potential obstacle, and the lights of innumerable planes winked on and off. . . . In the middle distance, the great red clouds that mark the steel furnaces rolled heavenward. . . . Now what, I asked an unidentified gentleman, is the sense of all this? It's necessary to protect traffic with floodlights and warning lights, and blast furnaces can't blow themselves up just for a mock air raid. . . . Said he, "There is no sense whatever in it, but they do it in New York and we must imitate New York. Besides, it makes some people feel important. But any enemy airman who couldn't find Pittsburgh in a so-called blackout would never get a pilot's license. And the same is true of New York, clearly outlined by moonlight reflected from the bay and rivers."

Very true. I think that more time [illegible] airman who couldn't find Pittsburgh in raid drills and precautions than are likely to be lost in case of enemy air-raids. In New York, at least, it is all foolishness, largely for the gratification of the ego of our mayor. He likes to see millions scurry for the dangerous shelter of glass entrances to buildings, at his command. Little Caesar, we call him, and most of us think it's funny.

I am most impressed by the comparative abundance of gasoline, moving traffic, food and bright lights in the mid-western cities I have just visited.

Fresh vegetables from neighboring farms make a world of difference in the kind of living one does. There are fresh vegetables in plenty, especially onions, potatoes, turnips, beans and peas, in the markets of these big towns in the center or near the center of the continent.

Prices are high, compared with normal prices, and residents with fixed or dwindling incomes are worried about inflation.

In Kansas City I had a final chicken dinner with the Frank Glenns. Frank runs one of the leading book stores in the middle west. His beautiful little wife prepared and served the best chicken dinner I've ever eaten. The chicken must have been a different animal from chickens we get in New York. Tender, juicy, easy on bridge work. Well, it's a great country.

BAPTISTS WILL DEDICATE 2 FLAGS

An interesting service will be held at the First Baptist church of Monroe this morning when two handsome service flags will be dedicated, with stars for each church member who is now in armed service. There will be a total of 177 such stars.

The pastor, Rev. L. T. Hastings, will preach at the morning service hour on "The Christian's Duty to His Country in War." The subject for the evening worship hour, 7:45 p.m., will be "Will He Go Up or Down?"

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR WOMEN SEEN

Bureau Director Says Some Now Underpaid Because Of Sex

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP)—Some women in war industries are underpaid—simply because they are women, Miss Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau of the labor department asserted today, but she predicts a bright future for the working woman.

At a press conference marking the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the women's bureau, Miss Anderson looked to the part and the future with these observations:

Chief accomplishment in employment standards of women since 1918 is the raising of their wage level.

In World War I most women didn't get more than 25 cents an hour, which was from 25 to 50 per cent less than men received for identical work.

The work of the bureau and gradual legislation culminating in the wage and hour law has made it possible for the majority of women to receive equal pay for equal work.

("But we still have lots getting as much as 20 per cent less pay just because they're women," she asserted.)

Biggest present need for working women is state legislation protecting their wages, hours and working conditions in service industries which are not subject to federal labor legislation.

She expects to see women as presidents of labor unions and holding key union positions because young officials are being drafted.

In the post-war period there will be room for women to continue working even after fighting men have returned to civilian life.

("Men are learning skills in the combat field which they will want to pursue and there will be a great expansion in the manufacture of civilian consumer goods to build up inventories which will be very low after the war is over.")

Dean among women in key appointive government positions, Miss Anderson has headed the women's bureau under Presidents Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

Asthma Mucus Loosened For Thousands By 1st Dose of Mendaco

If you suffer from choking, gasping, wheezing, recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma, here is good news for you. A prescription called Mendaco perfected by a physician in his private practice contains ingredients which start circulating thru the blood within a very short time after the first dose, thus reaching the congested Bronchial tubes where it usually quickly helps liquefy, loosen and remove thick strangling mucus (phlegm), thereby promoting freer breathing and more restful sleep. Fortunately Mendaco has now been made available to sufferers from recurring spasms of Bronchial Asthma thru all drug stores and has proved so helpful to so many thousands it is offered under a guarantee of money back unless completely satisfactory. You have everything to gain, so get Mendaco from your druggist today for only 60c. The guaranteed trial offer protects you.

VOLUNTEER FOR OVERSEAS DUTY

Three From Monroe And West Monroe At Sub-Depot Offer Services

Three residents of Monroe and West Monroe are among seven civilian employes of the 78th sub-depot at Selman field who have volunteered for overseas duty with units of the air service command.

They are Frederick D. Billhorn, of 3103 Lee avenue, Monroe; Johnnie J. Coon, of Route No. 4, West Monroe; and William L. Wilson, of 400 South Grand street, Monroe. Others to go are Lee J. Corkill, of San Antonio, Tex.; James O. Pruitt, of Tyler, Tex.; Roger W. Ridings, of San Antonio, and Thomas R. Strange, of Waco, Tex.

This group is scheduled to go to the Mobile air service command, at Mobile, Ala., and thence to Atlanta, Ga., for induction. Then will follow 30 days of basic training at San Antonio, Tex., air service command, after which the group will be available for overseas duty.

Five other civilian employes of the Selman Sub-Depot, three of them residents of the Twin Cities, volunteered to go, but were unsuccessful for one reason or another. Shirley Lott, of Rural Route No. 3, Monroe, was on leave at the time. Physical examinations were given, and returned too late.

Thomas Block, of 1107 Cypress street, West Monroe; John Bush, of 510 North Fifth street, West Monroe, and James A. Brown, of Minden, all were judged to have had too little experience for the assignment.

Aubrey Lummus, of Shreveport, a sheetmetal worker, found that enough experienced sheetmetal workers already were available without him.

LADY 'LOOK AHEAD!

Look beyond the shelves of the grocery store. Look beyond the ration tickets. Think of the time next winter when you'll want to be sure you'll have plenty for the family to eat.

What's the best way to do that? Don't put the whole load on the grocer. He's doing a grand job, but he's working under a handicap, with rationing and shortages on every hand.

There is a better answer—CAN while you can. Can tomatoes, peas, beans, beets, carrots, corn, and fruits of many varieties—everything you can. It will pay you dividends in savings, more for your ration tickets, food shortage "insurance," and the satisfaction of having helped keep our armed forces well fed.

LARGEST SELMAN CLASS FINISHES

Aerial Navigator Graduates Hear Address By Captain Robinson

The largest class of aerial navigators to graduate from Selman field heard Captain Edward W. Robinson, a veteran of 17 months combat in the Southwest Pacific theater of war, tell them Saturday morning that above all things they should not ever get so over-confident that they think they can outwit the weather against which they must fly.

Captain Robinson, a veteran of the Pearl Harbor attack, the Midway battle, and action in the Solomons, spoke to the graduates of Class 43-9 in ceremonies at the post theater. A packed house of civilian families and friends also witnessed the ceremonies.

"You must be ready for duty in any part of the world," the speaker advised. "You will be called upon to make every mission a good one, and every bomb and bullet a blow for our freedom."

Delivering a shorter-than-average speech, Captain Robinson advised the graduates of three points which would stand them in good stead no matter where they navigated the bombers of the air force.

"First," he said, "always have the right time. Time is the essence of successful warfare, and in navigation, it is doubly so.

"Second, keep your instruments in the best of repair. Remember that supply depots in the field are far from the front and not always accessible.

"Third, and most important, never become over confident."

Captain Robinson, who has navigated Flying Fortresses to pinpoint landfalls all over the Pacific, then told of how over confidence once caused him to get lost on a routine 190 mile mission. From that time on he said, he never allowed the work to pile up or allowed himself to think he was a "hot navigator."

Captain Robinson was introduced by Lieutenant Colonel Clifton D. Wright, commanding officer of the Advanced Navigation school. After the speech, Lieutenant Colonel Homer M. Cox, executive officer of the school, presented the diplomas to the honor graduates and the cadet officers. Captain T. B. Merrill, secretary of the school, administered the oath of office to the new officers. Chaplain Forrest F. Hubbell delivered the invocation and Chaplain John P. Finke the benediction.

STOCK EXCHANGED IN 2 NEWSPAPERS

GADSDEN, Ala., July 3.—(AP)—In a transaction involving exchanges of stock in the two newspapers today Mrs. W. S. Mudd became owner of the Gadsden Times and B. H. Mooney became owner of the Rome, Ga., News-Tribune, both afternoon and Sunday newspapers.

Mooney, who had been publisher of both newspapers, will remain in that capacity at Rome, while Bruce Shelton, editor and publisher of the Tuscaloosa News for 14 years, will become editor and publisher of the Gadsden Times. Shelton will continue in the same capacity on the Tuscaloosa daily.

James Mann, former business manager of the Gadsden Times, will go to Rome as vice-president of the News-Tribune, and John R. Hornady will return there as editor, a post he held from 1921 until 1941 when he came to Gadsden as editor of the Times.

DEATHS

JAMES NATHANIEL LA GRONE

James Nathaniel La Grone, infant son of Private First Class and Mrs J. N. La Grone, died early Saturday. The funeral was held at the La Grone residence, West Monroe, Saturday at 2:30 p.m. with Rev. W. T. Hemphill officiating. Interment was in Smith cemetery. Pallbearers were Edward Clark, Elton Clark, Maurice Clark and H. G. Hudson.

The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Ruth La Grone of West Monroe, and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Sikes, of Franklin parish.

JOSEPH CABUK

RAYVILLE, La., July 3.—(Special)—Funeral services for Joseph Cabuk, 73, who died at his residence here early Saturday morning, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Sacred Heart Catholic church of Rayville. Burial, under the direction of the Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville, will be in the Masonic cemetery.

Pallbearers will be J. C. Tauzin, T. J. Coenen, Jr., Sam Frazala, Nat Phillips, John Mendola, H. W. Blakeman and Henry Coenen.

Mr. Cabuk is survived by his wife and a son, Joseph Cabuk.

JULY FOURTH TO BE OBSERVED HERE

Fourth of July will be observed in the Twin Cities on July 5, as the holiday falls on a Sunday this year. Most of the stores will remain closed. Banks and courts will take a day off, and so will the postoffice, which will be closed all day.

A number of picnic parties are scheduled, but few will attempt to go any great distance because of gas rationing.

The municipal natatorium will be popular with many and the theaters will doubtless be thronged.

As "something new under the sun," W. C. Ward, of West Monroe, has announced the holding of an old-fashioned horse and wagon parade. It will start at 4 p.m. Monday at the Ouachita Valley fair grounds and will make a grand tour of both Monroe and West Monroe. Anyone who has a horse of any age or description, or any four-wheeled vehicle, be it victoria, buggy, surrey, phaeton, buckboard, or what have you, is urged to enter the parade with their choicest or most ancient showings.

It is expected that this parade will be the most unique he'd in many decades, perhaps ever, in the Twin Cities and will prove a revelation to young America, who have ridden only on rubber tires all their lives.

There is no fee to enter the parade and any further details can be had from Mr. Ward at phone 2443.

On each playground of the Monroe recreation department there will be picnics held, and many youngsters will be thus entertained.

Generally speaking the day promises to be unusually quiet which can be directly attributed to existing wartime conditions.

SHREVEPORT CADET KILLED IN CRASH

SHREVEPORT, La., July 3.—(AP)—Aviation Cadet William Paul McCutcheon, Jr., 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. McCutcheon, this city, was killed late Friday in an airplane crash eight miles west of McNeal, Ariz., according to word received by his parents early today.

Cadet McCutcheon, who was to have received his wings on July 28 from the Doun, Ariz., advanced flying school, was killed while on a routine instrument training flight, according to Colonel Waldman, commanding officer at the Douglas forces school. No further details are as yet known.

One of the members of the 204th coast artillery which left Shreveport two years ago, young McCutcheon transferred to the air corps on October 13, 1943. His family, who had not seen him for about two years, had completed arrangements for attending his graduation this month.

The body will be sent to Shreveport with a military escort.

Cadet McCutcheon, who was a graduate of St. John's school of Shreveport, is survived by his parents, two sisters, Jane Fay and Margaret Lee, at home, and by one aunt, Miss Connie Wolfe, also of Shreveport.

RANCHERS HUNT TRIPLE SLAYER

Rush Families To Safety And Join Officers In Grim Search

LARAMIE, Wyo., July 3.—(AP)—Infuriated ranchers sent their families to havens in Laramie today and joined law officers in a grim hunt for the perpetrator of three seemingly motiveless murders in the Wyoming ranchlands.

Percy Cota, respected and prosperous ranchman, and his schoolteacher wife, were found today shot to death near their Dale Creek ranch home.

Sheriff Ed A. Wood of Laramie said the killer apparently was the same man who shot to death Matt Katmo, 44, Cheyenne war worker, in a mountain campground Wednesday. No motive was discovered in either case.

Katmo was killed as his companion, Mrs. O. W. Larson of Laramie, was beaten and her hands tied by an unidentified man who accosted them as they stepped out of Katmo's car to pick some flowers.

Sheriff Wood led one group of armed Laramie residents and ranchmen into the Dale Creek area, wooded, rocky, and criss-crossed by deep gullies, and Sheriff Norbert Tuck of Cheyenne led another. A private plane circled over the area.

"This case isn't going to cost the state anything if we catch up with that crazy killer," Sheriff Tuck remarked.

And the ranchmen were equally enraged. "We're going to shoot to kill and nobody better try to stop us," said one stockman.

The ranchers rushed their wives to places of safe-keeping immediately when word of the second killing in the area within four days spread over the rugged cattle country.

LIEUTENANT GOODE REPORTED MISSING

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., July 3.—(Special)—Lieutenant John Blanton Goode, 24, of the army air corps, son of O. Z. Goode, East Carroll parish road engineer, has been reported missing after leaving Tyndall field, Fla., on a rescue mission with a coast guard cutter off the Florida coast, according to information received by relatives here from Tyndall field authorities.

Sheriff McFarland Long, an uncle of the young man, telephoned field authorities and said he had been informed that Lieutenant Goode left on a mission with the coast guard for one of the Florida islands last Tuesday, and that as the boat neared the island's shoreline, Lieutenant Goode stepped out into four feet of water to attempt walking ashore.

A squall broke as the landing was being attempted, it was said, and it was believed that Lieutenant Goode had stepped in a quicksand bog or been swept away in the current. The search for the missing man is still being conducted.

Lieutenant Goode narrowly escaped death on February 9, when his plane crashed near Mobile, Ala., and he was a patient at the Mobile hospital and the LaGrade hospital at New Orleans until recently when he returned to Tyndall field.

He received his training at Maxwell field, Ala., and Turner field, Ga., after entering service in October 1941. He is a graduate of Lake Providence high school and attended Louisiana State university's school of business administration.

REVIVAL SERVICES GAIN IN INTEREST

Increased interest in the revival services being conducted by Rev. Mac Dean at the Church of God tent meeting here has been indicated in the last few days, and it was announced yesterday that the evangelistic services would continue throughout the next week.

Services are held each night at 8:15 o'clock at the Church of God's tent at South Second and Holly streets, and musical selections are under the direction of A. B. Mizell, song leader. Rev. T. E. Miller is pastor of the church.

GIRAUD REPORTED EN ROUTE TO U. S.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 3.—(AP)—General Henri Giraud has passed through Natal en route to the United States, an O Globo dispatch from there said tonight.

The co-president of the French committee of national liberation is on his way to visit Washington in response to an invitation from President Roosevelt.

Natal is an air base on the South Atlantic route between the United States and Africa.

OFFICERS AND MEN WILL GIVE BLOOD

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—Three hundred enlisted men and 38 officers at the naval air station here volunteered this afternoon to make blood donations to the Red Cross tomorrow.

Commander Paul E. Gillespie told the men today of the armed services' great need for blood in treating the wounded, adding that he would be proud to be with them at the Red Cross army blood bank tomorrow morning, "the morning of our Independence day."

Chief petty officers then called for volunteer donors. Within five minutes more than 300 had answered the call.

Authorities here said there would be "no bands around tomorrow morning, no parade, no hullabaloo." The servicemen will board navy buses at the air station and motor to the blood donor center.

The center has never before been open on Sunday. But tomorrow it opens its doors with a full complement of Red Cross aides, army doctors and technicians on hand.

Said Mrs. Edgar Newman, director of the center:

"These men are giving their blood and their holiday so that there will always be an Independence day for America."

SEEK PRISONERS TO HARVEST CANE

Question Of International Law Involved In Working Captives

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—Charles A. Farwell, educational director of the American Sugar Cane league said here today that efforts are being made to secure prisoners of war to harvest this year's crop because of the fact "we've lost 45 per cent of our field labor."

"Already," Farwell said, "healthy cane has been abandoned in the fields because of the labor shortage. When you realize Louisiana produced 403,000 tons of sugar last year you get some idea of how much labor is needed on the farms and in the factories.

"Two things worry us about securing war prisoners to help with the harvest: first, we're trying to find out if it's a violation of international law. And second, the government never sets our wage rate until the season is already underway.

"Under federal law the secretary of agriculture tells us what we'll pay. The law was passed in 1937 and since then we've never received our wage rates until the October harvest was begun. Once we had to go back nine weeks and adjust wages because of this sluggishness in Washington."

Farwell, president of two large sugar companies himself, said signs point to reduced sugar cane acreage "from here on out," regardless of the labor problem.

"Washington," he said, "is playing with the idea of telling us to cut down on acreage. Yet sugar's still a rationed food. It doesn't make sense.

"It makes more sense, however, than what happened in 1939-'40 and '41 when they let us plant the cane and then told us to plow a lot of it under. We plowed under enough cane to supply the city of New Orleans with sugar for 43 years."

Farwell said the American Sugar Cane league, comprising more than 7,000 growers, processors and refiners, is hoping to gain help from Washington in both the matter of labor and replacement of worn farm implements.

"We are pointing out," he added, "that sugar is the highest-calorie food per pound of them all. And you don't have to dehydrate it. Soldiers know it is the quickest source of energy available to a fighting man."

ASSESSMENTS INCREASED

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 3.—(AP)—The corporation commission announced increased tax assessments for two of Arkansas' major utilities tonight. The 1943 assessment for the Arkansas Louisiana Gas company, Shreveport, La., was $7,127,840, up $469,340 from last year, and for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, St. Louis, Mo., $7,197,000, a hike of $383,000.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP)—Some women in war industries are underpaid—simply because they are women, Miss Mary Anderson, director of the women's bureau of the labor department asserted today, but she predicts a bright future for the working woman.

At a press conference marking the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the women's bureau, Miss Anderson looked to the part and the future with these observations:

Chief accomplishment in employment standards of women since 1918 is the raising of their wage level.

In World War I most women didn't get more than 25 cents an hour, which was from 25 to 50 per cent less than men received for identical work.

The work of the bureau and gradual legislation culminating in the wage and hour law has made it possible for the majority of women to receive equal pay for equal work.

("But we still have lots getting as much as 20 per cent less pay just because they're women," she asserted.)

Biggest present need for working women is state legislation protecting their wages, hours and working conditions in service industries which are not subject to federal labor legislation.

She expects to see women as presidents of labor unions and holding key union positions because young officials are being drafted.

In the post-war period there will be room for women to continue working even after fighting men have returned to civilian life.

("Men are learning skills in the combat field which they will want to pursue and there will be a great expansion in the manufacture of civilian consumer goods to build up inventories which will be very low after the war is over.")

Dean among women in key appointive government positions, Miss Anderson has headed the women's bureau under Presidents Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

VOLUNTEER FOR OVERSEAS DUTY

Three From Monroe And West Monroe At Sub-Depot Offer Services

Three residents of Monroe and West Monroe are among seven civilian employes of the 78th sub-depot at Selman field who have volunteered for overseas duty with units of the air service command.

They are Frederick D. Billhorn, of 3103 Lee avenue, Monroe; Johnnie J. Coon, of Route No. 4, West Monroe; and William L. Wilson, of 400 South Grand street, Monroe. Others to go are Lee J. Corkill, of San Antonio, Tex.; James O. Pruitt, of Tyler, Tex.; Roger W. Ridings, of San Antonio, and Thomas R. Strange, of Waco, Tex.

This group is scheduled to go to the Mobile air service command, at Mobile, Ala., and thence to Atlanta, Ga., for induction. Then will follow 30 days of basic training at San Antonio, Tex., air service command, after which the group will be available for overseas duty.

Five other civilian employes of the Selman Sub-Depot, three of them residents of the Twin Cities, volunteered to go, but were unsuccessful for one reason or another. Shirley Lott, of Rural Route No. 3, Monroe, was on leave at the time. Physical examinations were given, and returned too late.

Thomas Block, of 1107 Cypress street, West Monroe; John Bush, of 510 North Fifth street, West Monroe; and James A. Brown, of Minden, all were judged to have had too little experience for the assignment.

Aubrey Lummus, of Shreveport, a sheetmetal worker, found that enough experienced sheetmetal workers already were available without him.

Asthma Mucus Loosened For Thousands By 1st Dose of Mendaco

If you suffer from choking, gasping, wheezing, recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma, here is good news for you. A prescription called Mendaco perfected by a physician in his private practice contains ingredients which start circulating thru the blood within a very short time after the first dose, thus reaching the congested Bronchial tubes where it usually quickly helps liquefy, loosen and remove thick strangling mucus (phlegm), thereby promoting freer breathing and more restful sleep. Fortunately Mendaco has now been made available to sufferers from recurring spasms of Bronchial Asthma thru all drug stores and has proved so helpful to so many thousands it is offered under a guarantee of money back unless completely satisfactory. You have everything to gain, so get Mendaco from your druggist today for only 60c. The guaranteed trial offer protects you.

LADY 'LOOK AHEAD!

Look beyond the shelves of the grocery store. Look beyond the ration tickets. Think of the time next winter when you'll want to be sure you'll have plenty for the family to eat.

What's the best way to do that? Don't put the whole load on the grocer. He's doing a grand job, but he's working under a handicap, with rationing and shortages on every hand.

There is a better answer—CAN while you can. Can tomatoes, peas, beans, beets, carrots, corn, and fruits of many varieties—everything you can. It will pay you dividends in savings, more for your ration tickets, food shortage "insurance," and the satisfaction of having helped keep our armed forces well fed.

United Gas has a booklet, "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables," which is offered to you without cost. Here's a suggestion from this booklet:

CANNING TIP

"Rims of glass jars should be free from any nicks or chips. Tops should properly fit the jars. New rubber rings should be used."

LARGEST SELMAN CLASS FINISHES

The largest class of aerial navigators to graduate from Selman field heard Captain Edward W. Robinson, a veteran of 17 months combat in the Southwest Pacific theater of war, tell them Saturday morning that above all things they should not ever get so over-confident that they think they can outwit the weather against which they must fly.

Captain Robinson, a veteran of the Pearl Harbor attack, the Midway battle, and action in the Solomons, spoke to the graduates of Class 43-9 in ceremonies at the post theater. A packed house of civilian families and friends also witnessed the ceremonies.

"You must be ready for duty in any part of the world," the speaker advised. "You will be called upon to make every mission a good one, and every bomb and bullet a blow for our freedom."

Delivering a shorter-than-average speech, Captain Robinson advised the graduates of three points which would stand them in good stead no matter where they navigated the bombers of the air force.

"First," he said, "always have the right time. Time is the essence of successful warfare, and in navigation, it is doubly so.

"Second, keep your instruments in the best of repair. Remember that supply depots in the field are far from the front and not always accessible.

"Third, and most important, never become over confident."

Captain Robinson, who has navigated Flying Fortresses to pinpoint landfalls all over the Pacific, then told of how over confidence once caused him to get lost on a routine 190 mile mission. From that time on he said, he never allowed the work to pile up or allowed himself to think he was a "hot navigator."

Captain Robinson was introduced by Lieutenant Colonel Clifton D. Wright, commanding officer of the Advanced Navigation school. After the speech, Lieutenant Colonel Homer M. Cox, executive officer of the school, presented the diplomas to the honor graduates and the cadet officers. Captain T. B. Merrill, secretary of the school, administered the oath of office to the new officers. Chaplain Forrest F. Hubbell delivered the invocation and Chaplain John P. Finke the benediction.

STOCK EXCHANGED IN 2 NEWSPAPERS

GADSDEN, Ala., July 3.—(AP)—In a transaction involving exchanges of stock in the two newspapers today Mrs. W. S. Mudd became owner of the Gadsden Times and B. H. Mooney became owner of the Rome, Ga., News-Tribune, both afternoon and Sunday newspapers.

Mooney, who had been publisher of both newspapers, will remain in that capacity at Rome, while Bruce Shelton, editor and publisher of the Tuscaloosa News for 14 years, will become editor and publisher of the Gadsden Times. Shelton will continue in the same capacity on the Tuscaloosa daily.

James Mann, former business manager of the Gadsden Times, will go to Rome as vice-president of the News-Tribune, and John R. Hornady will return there as editor, a post he held from 1931 until 1941 when he came to Gadsden as editor of the Times.

DEATHS

JAMES NATHANIEL LA GRONE

James Nathaniel La Grone, infant son of Private First Class and Mrs. J. N. La Grone, died early Saturday. The funeral was held at the La Grone residence, West Monroe, Saturday at 2:30 p.m. with Rev. W. T. Hemphill officiating. Interment was in Smith cemetery. Pallbearers were Edward Clark, Elton Clark, Maurice Clark and H. G. Hudson.

The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Ruth La Grone of West Monroe, and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Sikes, of Franklin parish.

JOSEPH CABUK

RAYVILLE, La., July 3.—(Special)—Funeral services for Joseph Cabuk, 79, who died at his residence here early Saturday morning, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Sacred Heart Catholic church of Rayville. Burial, under the direction of the Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville, will be in the Masonic cemetery.

Pallbearers will be J. C. Tauzin, T. J. Coenen, Jr., Sam Frazala, Nat Phillips, John Mendola, H. W. Blakeman and Henry Coenen.

Mr. Cabuk is survived by his wife and a son, Joseph Cabuk.

PROMOTED

JULY FOURTH TO BE OBSERVED HERE

Fourth of July will be observed in the Twin Cities on July 5, as the holiday falls on a Sunday this year. Most of the stores will remain closed. Banks and courts will take a day off, and so will the postoffice, which will be closed all day.

A number of picnic parties are scheduled, but few will attempt to go any great distance because of gas rationing.

The municipal natatorium will be popular with many and the theaters will doubtless be thronged.

As "something new under the sun," W. C. Ward, of West Monroe, has announced the holding of an old-fashioned horse and wagon parade. It will start at 4 p.m. Monday at the Ouachita Valley fair grounds and will make a grand tour of both Monroe and West Monroe. Anyone who has a horse of any age or description, or any four-wheeled vehicle, be it victoria, buggy, surrey, phaeton, buckboard, or what have you, is urged to enter the parade with their choicest or most ancient showings.

It is expected that this parade will be the most unique held in many decades, perhaps ever, in the Twin Cities and will prove a revelation to young America, who have ridden only on rubber tires all their lives.

There is no fee to enter the parade and any further details can be had from Mr. Ward at phone 2443.

On each playground of the Monroe recreation department there will be picnics held, and many youngsters will be thus entertained.

Generally speaking the day promises to be unusually quiet which can be directly attributed to existing war-time conditions.

SHREVEPORT CADET KILLED IN CRASH

SHREVEPORT, La., July 3.—(AP)—Aviation Cadet William Paul McCutcheon, Jr., 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. McCutcheon, this city, was killed late Friday in an airplane crash eight miles west of McNeal, Ariz., according to word received by his parents early today.

Cadet McCutcheon, who was to have received his wings on July 28 from the Doun, Ariz., advanced flying school, was killed while on a routine instrument training flight, according to Colonel Waldman, commanding officer at the Douglas forces school. No further details are as yet known.

One of the members of the 204th coast artillery which left Shreveport two years ago, young McCutcheon transferred to the air corps on October 13, 1943. His family, who had not seen him for about two years, had completed arrangements for attending his graduation this month.

The body will be sent to Shreveport with a military escort.

Cadet McCutcheon, who was a graduate of St. John's school of Shreveport, is survived by his parents, two sisters, Jane Fay and Margaret Lee, at home, and by one aunt, Miss Connie Wolfe, also of Shreveport.

DISTILLERY WORKER DIES OF POISONING

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—Alex Gauthreaux, 57, distillery worker, died at nearby Gretna last night of carbon dioxide poisoning.

Dr. M. M. Odom, Jefferson parish coroner, said the worker was overcome by fermenting yeast fumes when he entered a distillery vat to retrieve the nozzle of a hose he had been using in washing out the container.

RANCHERS HUNT TRIPLE SLAYER

Rush Families To Safety And Join Officers In Grim Search

LARAMIE, Wyo., July 3.—(AP)—Infuriated ranchers sent their families to havens in Laramie today and joined law officers in a grim hunt for the perpetrator of three seemingly motiveless murders in the Wyoming ranchlands.

Percy Cota, respected and prosperous ranchman, and his schoolteacher wife, were found today shot to death near their Dale Creek ranch home.

Sheriff Ed A. Wood of Laramie said the killer apparently was the same man who shot to death Matt Katmo, 44, Cheyenne war worker, in a mountain campground Wednesday. No motive was discovered in either case.

Katmo was killed an his companion, Mrs. O. W. Larson of Laramie, was beaten and her hands tied by an unidentified man who accosted them as they stepped out of Katmo's car to pick some flowers.

Sheriff Wood led one group of armed Laramie residents and ranchmen into the Dale Creek area, wooded, rocky, and criss-crossed by deep gullies, and Sheriff Norbert Tuck of Cheyenne led another. A private plane circled over the area.

"This case isn't going to cost the state anything if we catch up with that crazy killer," Sheriff Tuck remarked.

And the ranchmen were equally enraged. "We're going to shoot to kill and nobody better try to stop us," said one stockman.

The ranchers rushed their wives to places of safe-keeping immediately when word of the second killing in the area within four days spread over the rugged cattle country.

POST-WAR PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED

Members Of Congress Will Speak On Question On Extensive Tours

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Advocates of post-war internation collaboration will take their views to the people this summer with a bi-partison speaking campaign reminiscent of the days of Chautauqua platform oratory.

Giving up the vacation they might otherwise spend fishing or glad-handing constituents, sixteen members of the senate and house expect to employ the forthcoming congressional recess in trying to convince the American people that congress ought to make an early expression on the United States' post-war intentions.

This campaign will take the form of speaking tours by teams of two—one Republican and one Democrat in most cases—covering the country from New Hampshire to California. The expenses will be paid by various organizations interested in post-war collaboration.

The idea is reported to have originated in discussions between Senator Ball, Republican, Minesota, and Representative Fulbright, Democrat, Arkansas. Those who will carry it out include Democratic Senators Truman of Missouri, Hatch of New Mexico, Hill of Alabama and Maybank of South Carolina, Republican Senators Ball, Burton of Ohio and Ferguson of Michigan, and Senator LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin.

Also planning to participate are Democratic Representatives Monroney of Oklahoma, Gore of Tennessee, Wright of Pennsylvania and Ramspeck of Georgia and Republican Representives Herter of Massachusetts, Judd of Minnesota, LaFollette of Indiana and Hale of Maine.

Representing several shades of opinion, the speakers plan to argue the general question of whether congress should act now to commit this country to a post-war course of collaboration with other nations. Some will make an extensive series of speeches, appearing in several states, while others, like Senator Truman, said they planned only two or three talks.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, said opponents of such commitments would not be idle. While no organized plans have been made by the opposition, Wheeler said, he would speak several times and was informed that other congressmen also would.

Ball and Gore will unndertake the most ambitious speaking tour of the group urging action on the post-war issue. They will start at Los Angeles July 5, go to Reno, Nev., July 7, Sacramento, July 9, Portland, Ore., July 12, Seattle, July 13, and Denver, Colo., July 15.

Truman and Judd will speak in Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, and Kansas from July 25 through Agust 12; Ferguson and Wright, Michigan and Wisconsin in August; Maybank and Hale in Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts in August; Burton and Ramspeck in Indiana and Ohio in August; Ball and Monroney in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota from July 23 to August 1; Hatch and LaFollette in Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Montana and Idaho in August, and Hill and Herter in Texas and Oklahoma in August.

17-YEAR-OLDS TODAY TO BE RECEIVED AT SELMAN FIELD

Informal Talk Will Be Made By Veteran Of Solomon Islands

Today is the day for 17-year-old men at Selman field.

By last minute arrangements made yesterday, the young men invited to the field for a Fourth of July celebration this afternoon will hear an informal talk by a veteran of the Solomon islands.

Captain Edward W. Robinson, who took part as a navigator in the land, sea and air warfare that led to Allied conquest of Guadalcanal, will address the visitors between 1:30 and 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Selman field flight line.

To attend Selman field's celebration for 17-year-old men this afternoon, all you have to do is be at Northeast Junior college between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m.

Selman field will do the rest.

The program will be started rain or shine.

Buses to the college run every 20 minutes from Liggett's Drug store, corner of DeSiard and Jackson streets, on the hour, 20 minutes after the hour and 20 minutes before the hour. Fare is five cents, transfers are available to other city bus routes.

If you come by automobile, you can leave it at Junior college until you are returned there in the evening by army trucks.

If you cannot be at the college by 1:30, there will be officers and transportation there to meet you until 3 p.m.

Having been through the aviation cadet program himself, he will also answer questions on how his decision to become an aviation cadet affected his military career.

From a fund of experience gathered at Hickam field on the day the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor, in the skies over the battle of Midway and on many an operational mission in the hotly contested Solomons area, Captain Robinson will likewise be prepared to give as many answers as military security permits to questions about the war in the Pacific.

He was the lead navigator on the mission during which it was demonstrated for the first time that a battleship—a Japanese battleship, anyway—can be sunk by aerial action alone.

No other part of the program has been changed.

Still on the bill are the inspection of AT-7s and C-60s, the aircraft in which navigation training is carried on at the field; a swim in the post pool; supper in one of the pre-flight messes as guests of the cadets; a visit to the pre-flight school academic and recreational buildings; and a full dress parade and review of the pre-flight cadet wing, to the cadences of the Selman field band.

Additional arrangements have been made, time permitting, for a visit to the Link trainer building, where pilots of the advanced Navigation school keep their proficiency intact by "flying" the ingenious earthbound Link devices.

In case of rain, the program will still go through to the extent possible. Those parts of celebratiton which depend on fair weather will of course be omitted if it rains. In this case there will be more time for swimming.

Today's guests are again reminded to bring bathing trunks and towels if they wish to swim.

They are also reminded that only 17-year-old men can be accommodated, and it is therefore requested that they do not bring their parents or other relatives or friends except 17-year-old men.

The menu for the supper which will be served in the pre-flight mess hall this evening has been announced by Captain Walter A. Kraft, the pre-flight mess officer. It consists of sliced baloney, ham and cheese, potato salad, fruit jello, milk and chocolate milk and bread and butter and jam and peanut butter.

At the flight line, cadets of the advanced navigation school who use the field's airplanes daily in their navigation misisons will be present to explain their training to the 17-year-olds. Pilots and navigators will be there to answer any questions also.

From the time the visitors go to supper until they board army trucks to leave the field, they will be in company with pre-flight cadets, who will also give them an idea of what that phase of training is.

Slides and models of all types of aircraft of all the belligerent nations and the block system of identifying all types of naval vessels will be among the exhibits explained during the pre-flight school visit. Regular instructors will be present to conduct the explanations and answer questions.

Another part of the pre-flight school to be visited will be its comfortable and commodious recreation building, in which is located a branch of the post exchange.

Visitors will be met by army officers at Northeast Junior college between 12:30 and 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Army transportation supplied at that point will take them throughout the entire trip and return them to the college.

For those unable to reach the college by 1:30 p.m. an officer and a truck will be waiting until 3 p.m.

You can count on Star Brands to do their part. They'll never let you down. Treat 'em rough ... wear 'em hard ... they can take it. Strong, sturdy and dependable ... they laugh at wear and weather. Put them to the test and you'll agree ... no job's too tough for Star Brands.

HENRY ROGERS OF WEST MONROE DIES

Robert Henry Rogers, 60, member of a well known Ouachita parish family and a state livestock inspector for 30 years, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home, 101 Linderman avenue, West Monroe.

Mr. Rogers was born at Indian Village and lived all his life in Ouachita parish. He had suffered a recent illness but was apparently recovering and had return to his duties with the state, but yesterday morning he was stricken as he was preparing to go to a livestock auction to inspect offerings.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Harvey Whitehead of Mountain View, Calif.; a son, Sergeant Bennie Rogers of the United States army, serving in the South Pacific; four brothers, P. W. Rogers, I. S. Rogers and C. E. Rogers of West Monroe, and L. D. Rogers of Pensacola, Fla.; and four sisters, Mrs. George Green of Monroe, Mrs. R. L. Kilgore of West Monroe, Mrs. Albert Davis of Monroe, and Mrs. Charles L. Harrison of Fairbanks.

Funeral arrangements, under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral home of Monroe, had not been completed last night. It is unlikely that arrangements will be made until word has been received from his daughter. Meanwhile the body will remain at the Mulhearn funeral home.

CITY COURT

Oscar Bingham, Oak Grove, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of an intoxicant, was fined $107.50, including court costs, by Judge W. M. Harper in city court here Friday. Alex Green, negro, was fined $100 for driving drunk.

Robert Layton, Monroe attorney, was fined $50 or 50 days in jail for discharging firearms in the city limits, and he was reported appealing the verdict to district court.

Shivas Whitten and Vance Ethridge, both facing larceny charges, were each fined $100 and costs. Lizzie Mae Williams, negro, was given 60 days on a larceny charge. Lillie Mae Soloman was sentenced to 60 days for vagrancy, and Acy Knight was sentenced to 120 days on charges of vagrancy and trespassing.

M. D. Scott, arrested June 8 on charges of fighting and damaging property, was sentenced to 23 days in jail from the date of his arrest. Lemon Crift, negro, accused of disturbing the peace, forfeited a $15 bond. Vida Mae Gentry, negro, charged with disturbing the peace, forfeited a $12.50 bond.

Archie Pickering, Garland Kennedy and Harris Barksdale, accused of being drunk and disorderly, forfeited $7.50 bonds. Sam Wright, Roy Matthews, B. L. Kelly and L. H. Bridges were each fined $7.50 for being drunk and disorderly, and three traffic law violators were fined a total of $6.50.

ALUMINUM CONSERVED

There's conservation aplenty in the new 90-mm. anti-aircraft gun mount which uses 46 pounds of aluminum instead of 460, 238 pounds of copper instead of 965, and 22 pounds of tin instead of 47.

MORE THAN 174,000 GO INTO USO HERE

More than 174,000 servicemen and civilians have entered the USO club here during its first year, and more than 700 volunteer workers have been responsible for better than 800 activities for soldiers at the USO, according to statistics revealed by Father Henry Freiburg, pastor of St. Paschal's Catholic church of West Monroe, at the USO council's open house party held at the USO club last Wednesday.

Father Freiburg, introduced by Murray Hudson, council chairman, also declared that more than 90,000 doughnuts and pieces of cake have been donated by volunteer USO workers here for boys in service.

The occasion was in the form of a farewell party for Charles Juliana and Sol Levin who have served as director and associate director of the USO for several months. Mr. Hudson paid tribut to their work as USO directors and presented each with gifts of esteem from the council.

Over 250 civilians and servicemen of Monroe were guests of the council at the open house affair.

Assisting Mr. Hudson with the program were Robert Breard, Elmer Slagle, Mrs. Bunn Beasley, Mrs. D. A. Tisdale, Mrs. P. A. Poag, Mrs. Morris Haas, Mrs. M. C. McDonald and Mrs. Ben Breard.

POST-WAR PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED

Members Of Congress Will Speak On Question On Extensive Tours

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Advocates of post-war internation collaboration will take their views to the people this summer with a bi-partison speaking campaign reminiscent of the days of Chautauqua platform oratory.

Giving up the vacation they might otherwise spend fishing or glad-handing constituents, sixteen members of the senate and house expect to employ the forthcoming congressional recess in trying to convince the American people that congress ought to make an early expression on the United States' post-war intentions.

This campaign will take the form of speaking tours by teams of two—one Republican and one Democrat in most cases—covering the country from New Hampshire to California. The expenses will be paid by various organizations interested in post-war collaboration.

The idea is reported to have originated in discussions between Senator Ball, Republican, Minesota, and Representative Fulbright, Democrat, Arkansas. Those who will carry it out include Democratic Senators Truman of Missouri, Hatch of New Mexico, Hill of Alabama and Maybank of South Carolina, Republican Senators Ball, Burton of Ohio and Ferguson of Michigan, and Senator LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin.

Also planning to participate are Democratic Representatives Monroney of Oklahoma, Gore of Tennessee, Wright of Pennsylvania and Ramspeck of Georgia and Republican Representtives Herter of Massachusetts, Judd of Minnesota, LaFollette of Indiana and Hale of Maine.

Representing several shades of opinion, the speakers plan to argue the general question of whether congress should act now to commit this country to a post-war course of collaboration with other nations. Some will make an extensive series of speeches, appearing in several states, while others, like Senator Truman, said they planned only two or three talks.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, said opponents of such commitments would not be idle. While no organized plans have been made by the opposition, Wheeler said, he would speak several times and was informed that other congressmen also would.

Ball and Gore will unndertake the most ambitious speaking tour of the group urging action on the post-war issue. They will start at Los Angeles July 5, go to Reno, Nev., July 7, Sacramento, July 9, Portland, Ore., July 12, Seattle, July 13, and Denver, Colo., July 15.

Truman and Judd will speak in Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, and Kansas from July 25 through Agust 12; Ferguson and Wright, Michigan and Wisconsin in August; Maybank and Hale in Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts in August; Burton and Ramspeck in Indiana and Ohio in August; Ball and Monroney in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota from July 23 to August 1; Hatch and LaFollette in Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Montana and Idaho in August, and Hill and Herter in Texas and Oklahoma in August.

SELMAN PLEASED AT WAC CHANGES

Officials Approve Measure Putting Women Into Regular Army

President Roosevelt's action Friday in signing into law the bill making the women's army auxiliary corps a part of the army of the United States under the new designation of the women's army corps evoked an enthusiastic response at Selman field.

"I am glad to see them join us," Colonel Earl L. Naiden, commanding officer of the post, declared.

"Within the short time they have been working here, the few representatives we have of this branch have proven themselves energetic, enthusiastic and readily adaptable to the range of duties they have been called upon to perform. They have replaced enlisted men with no loss of efficiency in the departments concerned."

Colonel Naiden's statement was borne out by the records of the post adjutant, which disclosed that various headquarters, departments and agencies of the field had requested WAC replacements to a total of more than 350. The eventual strength of the 790th WAC post headquarters company, which is stationed at Selman field, is less than this figure, a circumstance which points to the need for more American women to don the WAC uniform as a means of contributing to the war effort.

To Lieutenant Polly McAllister, commanding officer of the 790th company, the new law was no surprise.

"We have been expecting this for a long time," she commented, "and we're very glad it happened."

"I'm afraid some of us have felt we were stepchildren, so to speak," she continued. "There was one benefit in this situation, however, because it made every one of us strive to prove her worth to the army. The fact we are now a part of that army is in a sense a reward for this effort.

"Women are nothing if not practical and the benefits of being in the army are obvious. We now have the franking privilege, enabling us to send mail free, and government insurance is available to us at the same reduced rates as to men in the armed services."

It is understood also the new bill permits WACs to make salary allotments.

At Selman field WACs are now doing clerical, stenographic, and filing work and driving automobiles. They are to be found in the photographic section, the navigation reproduction section, the chaplain's office, in the post message center and personnel section, at the navigation school headquarters and, of course, at the motor pool. One is a teletype operator in the signal office. Another teaches in the special service section.

Requests for more WACs reveal the need for them as weather observors, librarians, radio repairmen and diverse other artisans.

Dice were used by North American Indians as early as 1636.

TRAINING COURSE FOR USO PLANNED

Ruston Professional Staff To Conduct Series Of Sessions

RUSTON, July 3, 1943—(Special)—A training course for USO volunteer workers is to be conducted by the Ruston USO professional staff. The course will consist of three sessions of one hour each, the first to be held on Wednesday afternoon, July 7 at 4:00 p.m. and subsequent sessions will be held on Friday, July 9, and Tuesday, July 13, at the same hour. Classes will be conducted at the USO club on Trenton street in Ruston.

The purpose of the course is to further educate all civilians, and USO volunteers in particular, to the full meaning of USO and its principles and to acquaint them with the policy and procedure of USO.

Miss Mary Rinehold, director of the USO club in Dallas, Texas, Mrs. Myrtle B. Strayhorn, director of the Ruston USO club; Miss Sylvia Dailey, associate director of the Ruston USO club and a military official will deliver the series of lectures.

The subjects to be discussed are: (1) History, philosophy and growth of USO and its services. (2) Meaning of a volunteer. (3) What USO means to a service man. (4) Specific duties of a volunteer worker.

All civilians, men and women, are invited and urged to attend the course.

The military situation in Ruston has changed considerably, inasmuch as the WAACs have been exacuated from Camp Ruston, and several hundred soldiers have arrived to assume duties at the Ruston Interment camp. Also many hundreds of navy men and marines are arriving at Louisiana Polytechnic institute to take a course of study. In view of this shift and the men to be served, the USO volunteer worker is necessarily going to have to play a more important part in this community than before.

Sixteen of the peaks in the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee are more than 6000 feet high.

PIANO TEACHERS GO TO BATON ROUGE

BATON ROUGE, La., July 3.—(P)—Piano teachers from over the state will come here next Thursday for their fourth annual forum, Miss Polly Gibbs, member of the L. S. U. music faculty and chairman of the piano division of the Louisiana Music Education association, said today.

Ralph Squires, head of music at Centenary college, Shreveport, will be the principal speaker. He will also present a piano recital on Wednesday evening, preceding the forum.

Throughout the last war, only 241 tanks were used by American troops in combat areas, and those were made chiefly in England and France.

Officials Approve Measure Putting Women Into Regular Army

President Roosevelt's action Friday in signing into law the bill making the women's army auxiliary corps a part of the army of the United States under the new designation of the women's army corps evoked an enthusiastic response at Selman field.

"I am glad to see them join us," Colonel Earl L. Naiden, commanding officer of the post, declared.

"Within the short time they have been working here, the few representatives we have of this branch have proven themselves energetic, enthusiastic and readily adaptable to the range of duties they have been called upon to perform. They have replaced enlisted men with no loss of efficiency in the departments concerned."

Colonel Naiden's statement was borne out by the records of the post adjutant, which disclosed that various headquarters, departments and agencies of the field had requested WAC replacements to a total of more than 350. The eventual strength of the 790th WAC post headquarters company, which is stationed at Selman field, is less than this figure, a circumstance which points to the need for more American women to don the WAC uniform as a means of contributing to the war effort.

To Lieutenant Polly McAllister, commanding officer of the 790th company, the new law was no surprise.

"We have been expecting this for a long time," she commented, "and we're very glad it happened."

"I'm afraid some of us have felt we were stepchildren, so to speak," she continued. "There was one benefit in this situation, however, because it made every one of us strive to prove her worth to the army. The fact we are now a part of that army is in a sense a reward for this effort.

"Women are nothing if not practical and the benefits of being in the army are obvious. We now have the franking privilege, enabling us to send mail free, and government insurance is available to us at the same reduced rates as to men in the armed services."

It is understood also the new bill permits WACs to make salary allotments.

At Selman field WACs are now doing clerical, stenographic, and filing work and driving automobiles. They are to be found in the photographic section, the navigation reproduction section, the chaplain's office, in the post message center and personnel section, at the navigation school headquarters and, of course, at the motor pool. One is a teletype operator in the signal office. Another teaches in the special service section.

Requests for more WACs reveal the need for them as weather observors, librarians, radio repairmen and diverse other artisans.

Dice were used by North American Indians as early as 1636.

Ruston Professional Staff To Conduct Series Of Sessions

RUSTON, July 3, 1943—(Special)—A training course for USO volunteer workers is to be conducted by the Ruston USO professional staff. The course will consist of three sessions of one hour each, the first to be held on Wednesday afternoon, July 7 at 4:00 p.m. and subsequent sessions will be held on Friday, July 9, and Tuesday, July 13, at the same hour. Classes will be conducted at the USO club on Trenton street in Ruston.

The purpose of the course is to further educate all civilians, and USO volunteers in particular, to the full meaning of USO and its principles and to acquaint them with the policy and procedure of USO.

Miss Mary Rinehold, director of the USO club in Dallas, Texas, Mrs. Myrtle B. Strayhorn, director of the Ruston USO club; Miss Sylvia Dailey, associate director of the Ruston USO club and a military official will deliver the series of lectures.

The subjects to be discussed are: (1) History, philosophy and growth of USO and its services. (2) Meaning of a volunteer. (3) What USO means to a service man. (4) Specific duties of a volunteer worker.

All civilians, men and women, are invited and urged to attend the course.

The military situation in Ruston has changed considerably, inasmuch as the WAACs have been exacuated from Camp Ruston, and several hundred soldiers have arrived to assume duties at the Ruston Interment camp. Also many hundreds of navy men and marines are arriving at Louisiana Polytechnic institute to take a course of study. In view of this shift and the men to be served, the USO volunteer worker is necessarily going to have to play a more important part in this community than before.

Sixteen of the peaks in the Great Smoky Mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee are more than 6000 feet high.

PIANO TEACHERS TO GO TO BATON ROUGE

BATON ROUGE, La., July 3.—(AP)—Piano teachers from over the state will come here next Thursday for their fourth annual forum, Miss Polly Gibbs, member of the L. S. U. music faculty and chairman of the piano division of the Louisiana Music Education association, said today.

Ralph Squires, head of music at Centenary college, Shreveport, will be the principal speaker. He will also present a piano recital on Wednesday evening, preceding the forum.

Throughout the last war, only 241 tanks were used by American troops in combat areas, and those were made chiefly in England and France.

Juliana Guest At Outdoor Supper Here

The National Catholic Community Service committee of Monroe and West Monroe entertained recently at a supper at Bernstein Park in honor of Mr. Charles Juliana, departing director of the local USO.

The affair was delightfully informal and cleverly arranged in every detail.

Several members of the committee proposed toasts to Mr. Juliana, and impromptu talks were made by Rev. Henry Freiburg, Mrs. Ben Breard, chairman of the N. C. C. S. committee, Captain John P. Finke, chaplain at Selman field, Miss June Meredith, assistant director of the USO, and Mr. Juliana.

Rev. Henry Freiburg, on behalf of the committee, presented Mr. Juliana with a handsome leather bag, as a token of esteem and sincere friendship.

Guests other than Mr. and Mrs. Juliana and children, Marcia, Lenora, and Charlotte, were Captain John P. Fink, S. M., Rev. Berchman Serre, O. F. M., Rev. Humilis Soland, O. F. M., Miss Sylvia Daley, assistant director of the Ruston, Louisiana, USO club, Miss June Meredith, assistant director of the Monroe USO club.

Elsa Mae Moseley, Lieut. Pittman Wed

A wedding of charming simplicity and one in which the affectionate interest of friends in this section of the state was that of Miss Elsia Mae Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Moseley of this city to Lieutenant Edward Farrior Pittman of Tuscaloosa, Ala., on Saturday eve June 19 in the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. T. Hastings with Rev. Hastings reading the double ring ceremony. Preceding the ceremony prenuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Alma Woodward. She also accompanied Miss Ervie Lee Humble who sang, "Because."

The bride wore a beautiful white palm beach suit with white accessories and a corsage of American beauty roses. Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, sister of the bride who served as maid of honor wore a lovely two piece light blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of Peruvion lillies. Lieutenant Howard Peterman served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Hotel Virginia where the bride and groom are temporarily making their home. Lieutenant Pittman is with the United States Army Air Force and is stationed at Selman field. Miss Moseley was connected with the R. and A. Jewelry Co.

Miss Edith Goldstein Weds Cadet Zelnecker

A wedding characterized by charming simplicity took place in the Butterfly room of the Frances hotel, June 26, when Miss Edith Goldstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mendel Goldstein, became the bride of Cadet Edwin Zelnecker, son of Lieutenant and Mrs. Edwin Zelnecker of Mobile, Ala.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi F. K. Hirsch before an improvised altar placed against a background of palms and ferns and flanked by tall baskets filled with white gladioli and Peruvian lilies. White tapers in white candelabra burned in the background.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Raymond Shear of New Orleans. She wore a blue chiffon model with silver lace and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

The bride wore a beautiful wedding gown of magnolia satin fashioned along regal lines. The long skirt ended in a court train. The veil of imported rosepoint lace, worn by generations of brides in the Goldstein family was caught to the head with a Juliet cap of tulle. She carried an exquisite arm bouquet of butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at a beautifully appointed table banked with white roses and softly illuminated with myriad tapers burning in low silver candlesticks.

Toasts to the bride and bridegroom were drunk in champagne before the delicious four course supper was served.

The bride is a graduate of William and Mary college, Virginia, and the bridegroom, who is stationed at Selman field, is a graduate of Washington and Lee university.

Martha Olive Myatt, Edgar Bowlus Married

Former Monroe Girl And Mississippian Are Wed In Chapel At University

Of paramount social interest today is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morton Myatt of Baton Rouge, formerly of this city, of the marriage of their daughter, Martha Olive, to Mr. Robert Edgar Bowlus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar S. Bowlus of Greenwood, Miss., Thursday, June 24 at the Sessums Memorial chapel on the Louisiana State university campus. The ceremony was witnessed by members of the immediate families.

The bride, former popular member of the younger set of this city, wore a becoming two-piece model of natural shantung embroidered in brown with brown accessories and a corsage of brown orchids.

Following the ceremony the bride changed her attire for a smartly tailored steel-blue model with brown accessories and left with Mr. Bowlus for Washington, D. C., where he will be connected with the department of agriculture in the office of foreign agricultural relations.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High school, attended Northeast Junior college and Louisiana State university. She is a member of the H. H. H. club, Delta Beta Sigma and while attending the university was a pledge of Delta Delta Delta.

The groom is a graduate of Brookhaven High school, Brookhaven, Miss., Mississippi State college where he received his B. S. degree and Louisiana State university where he received his Masters degree in 1942. For the past year he has been a member of the faculty of Louisiana State university in the department of agricultural economics. He is a member of Kappa Sigma and of Omicron Delta Kappa honorary fraternity.

Altrusa Club Members Guests Of Dr. Hunter

The supper tables, adorned with magnolia blossoms from the old trees encircling the plantation, were placed along the margin of the bayou where the century old trees form a shadowy canopy overhead.

All food served on this occasion was produced on the plantation. Especially delectable were the crisp vegetables and the chickens served piping hot from the barbecue pit.

West Monroe Baptist Church Scene Of Rites

Rev. C. E. Autry Officiates At Wedding; Reception Follows At Bride's Home

A June wedding characterized by beauty of detail and impressive ceremony took place at the West Monroe Baptist church, Tuesday, June 29, when Miss Nellie Josephine Adcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherwood Adcock became the bride of Mr. Edley Walker Hixon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hixon of Alexandria, La.

The ceremony, witnessed by a large concourse of friends and relatives was performed by Reverend C. E. Autry at eight o'clock in the evening.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. Raymond Spence while the guests were being seated by the ushers, Mr. William Jones, Mr. James Swink, Dr. Clay Penninger and Lieutenant Alfred Wittermark. Mrs. Spence also accompanied the soloist, Miss Dorothy King who sang "Because" and "O Promise Me." Lohengrin's Wedding March was rendered for the processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the recessional.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Carolyn Salley, Miss Margery Tyler, Miss Ruth Anne Rich, Miss Marguerite Hixson and the maid of honor, Miss Christine Henry, all wore period gowns styled by Lenora of Hollywood. They all wore flattering chaplets of flowers and carried arm bouquets of pink and blue carnations. Miss Ella Paine Guest At Local O. E. S. Dinner

Mrs. Alvie Colvin entertained at luncheon complimentary to Miss Ella Paine, worthy grand matron of the O. E. S., who was a guest of the local order last week.

The luncheon table was overlaid with handsome pink and blue flowered damask cloth and florally adorned with a wide-spreading plaque of pink carnations.

A delicious four course luncheon with fried chicken, southern style the piece de resistance, was served to the hostess and the guest of honor and: Mrs. B. L. Mulhearn, Mrs. A. B. Gregory, Mrs. Leon Sutton, Mrs. H. O. Hartman, Mrs. H. B. Cannon, Mrs. O. E. Passman, Mrs. Fred Culver.

Sara Frances Strong Weds Raymond Bailey

A marriage of interest to friends took place at the First Presbyterian church parsonage June 27, when Miss Sara Frances Strong became the bride of Mr. Raymond V. Bailey. The ceremony, performed by Reverend Ernest Holloway, was witnessed by a few intimate friends and members of the family.

The bride wore a lovely white pique model with brown and white accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli.

The young couple will make their home in Ruston where they will complete their studies at Louisiana Tech.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Morris Observe 50th Anniversary

Friends will learn with interest that today is the fiftieth wedding anniversary of a highly esteemed Monroe couple, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Morris, whose marriage took place at Delta Point 50 years ago today. Mrs. Morris was the former Miss Lizzie Downs, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Downs who were among the early settlers in this section of the state.

Due to illness in the family Mr. and Mrs. Morris will not celebrate their anniversary as they had planned, but will spend the day quietly at home.

Al Fresco Lunches Are Vogue Over Holidays

Transportation restrictions and long working hours have put a crimp in picknicking at distant shores and woods for the Fourth of July but al fresco entertainment is definitely not out for the duration.

With the backyard picnic in mind for the family, the homemaker can plan a menu that carries easily from kitchen to garden. Or a regular dinner can be enjoyed in the yard with very little trouble.

Food cooked and carried out in a covered casserole keeps warm longer. Even top-of-stove cooked foods can be piled into a casserole, covered and given a 10-minute oven heating before going to the picnic table.

I have designed some special recipes for outdoor serving, with ration points, budget and nutrition standards in mind.

The Victory garden may contribute to this recipe for Salisbury meat and Vegetables en Casserole. It makes a little meat go a long way. To serve 5 or 6, make up 3 cups of well-seasoned regular white sauce, add 1 cup each cooked carrots, green beans and diced cooked celery. 1-4 cup chopped onions, 2 tablespoons each of chopped green peppers and minced parsley, 1-3 teaspoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon paprika. Pour into buttered, shallow casserole. Cover with the meat cakes, made like this:

Mix together 1 pound hamburger or ground boneless veal, pork or beef, 1 cup boiled rice, 1 egg or 2 yolks, 1-4 cup cream, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika and 1 tablespoon catsup. Shape into cakes about 1-2 inches in diameter and 1-2-inch thick. Sprinkle with flour and brush with melted bacon fat. Arrange on top the vegetables. Cover and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Uncover and bake 5 minutes to brown the top. With this serve a relish cabbage salad, hot biscuits and honey, with melon or fresh berries and cookies for dessert.

Garden style macaroni and cheese gives a filling main dish with plenty of zip and few ration points. Make up 3 cups of white sauce. Stir constantly while cooking, add 2-3 cup sliced cheese, 1-3 cup diced celery and 2 tablespoons minced onions. Cook slowly until cheese has melted. Add 3 cups cooked macaroni and pour over 1 1-2 cups cooked asparagus and 3 hard-cooked eggs, sprinkled with 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon paprika, and arranged in a buttered, shallow baking dish. Cover with 2-3 cup buttered crumbs and bake 35 minutes—or until brown—in a moderate oven.

Tossed green salad or sliced tomato and avocado ties in with this mainstay. With hard rolls or muffins and jam or jelly you have an easy, substantial main course. For dessert, fresh fruit with angel food cake or blueberry roll is "tops."

Creole fish steak with escalloped new potatoes and a green salad, whole wheat rolls and a jelled or frozen dessert (kept in refrigerator until time for serving) is another summer dinner menu with picnic possibilities.

Cold potato salad and broiled split "franks," buttered buns, crisp radishes and sliced tomatoes give a menu economical and quick to prepare. Fresh apple or peach pie will make a banner dessert.

You might like to split the franks halfway through, insert pickle relish and then bake until brown in a shallow pan, well greased.

School Children Urged To Get Library Cards

All school children in Ouachita parish were urged by their teachers to secure library cards this summer in order that they might borrow books at the public libraries. During the month of June, children have flocked to the libraries in order to take advantage of the attractive and interesting books available for them. The fact that a total of 2,300 books were checked out to children during the first month of their vacation, reveals that children appreciate more than ever before the worthwhile books which are now at their disposal.

Since its organization in 1916, the Monroe Public library has recognized the importance of fine children's books and has continually added to its juvenile collection.

Each year two outstanding awards are made in the field of juvenile literature—the Newberry and Caldecott awards. The Newberry award, given for the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children, was presented this year to Elizabeth Janet Gray for her book "Adam of the Road," a delightful story of 13th century England about a minstrel boy who loses both his father and his dog, and sets out along the great highways to find them. Ages nine to twelve will especially enjoy this book.

The Caldecott award, for the most beautiful picture book of the year, was won by Virginia Lee Burton for "The Little House," a lovely book which will have wide appeal for children from four to eight years.

In previous years "The Matchlock Gun," Walter D. Edmonds; "Call It Courage," Armstrong Sperry; "Daniel Boone," James Daugherty; "Caddie Woodlawn," Carol R. Brink; "Hitty, Her First Hundred Years," Rachel Field; "Smoky," Will James; "Dr. Doolittle," Hugh Lofting, and many others have been winners of the Caldecott Award.

Other attractive stories which will provide pleasure for school children during their summer vacation are:

Picture books for pre-school age and beginners: "Pito's House," Bryan and Madden; "Michael the Colt," Garbutt; "Peddler's Clock," Mabel Leigh Hunt; "Corporal Keeperupper," Katharine Milhous; "Five Golden Wrens," Hugh Troy; "Nicodemus Runs Away," Inez Hogan; "War Time Handbook for Young Americans," Munro Leaf; "Patrick Goes A-Hunting," Brann; and "Little Boy Lost in Brazil," Kurt Wiese.

From eight to twelve: "Spotlight for Danny," Beim; "Mischief in Fez," Hoffman; "Mounted Messenger," Cornelia Meigs; "Green Wagons," Seidlin and Rypins; "Those Happy Golden Years," Laura Ingalls Wilder; "Cabita's Rancho," Crespi and Gay; "Bright Midnight," Trumbull; "Plow Penny Mystery," Davis; and "Star Spangled Banner," Aulaire.

For older children: "Stand By, Mark!," Lieutenant Commander Gardner; "Vast Horizons," Lucas; "Here Is Alaska," Steffansson; "Walter Reed: Doctor in Uniform," Wood; "Patterns on the Wall," Elizabeth Yates; "Million Miler, the Story of an Air Pilot," John Tunis; "Stars and Stripes," Garrison; "Boy Scouts Year Book: Stories of Daring and Danger," Mathiews; "Top Kick, U. S. Army Horse," Watson; "Courage and the Glory," Floherty; and "For Love of Country," Harper.

MARRIED

Mrs. David J. Hammons, who was formerly Miss Dorothy Ramsey of Sterlington, La.

Miss Vivienne Busbice Weds J. W. Randall

Of interest to their many friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Vivienne Busbice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Busbice, of Eros, La., and Mr. J. W. Randall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Randall, of Sicily Island, La.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in the presence of only relatives and close friends, on Wednesday morning, June 16, at 10 o'clock in the home of the Rev. J. T. Hinke, pastor of Trinity Baptist church of Eros, who officiated. In the reception suite, florally adorned with beautiful gladioli and lilies, the couple stood before an improvised altar to exchange vows.

The bride was attired in a white eyelet embroidered model with soldier blue accessories and her flowers were a corsage of pink carnations.

After a short wedding trip, the couple came to Monroe where they will make their home.

The bride graduated from the Eros High school and Northeast Junior college where she was a popular student and active member of various organizations, including the Indianettes, women's pep squad, the Women's Athletic association and the Speech club.

The groom is a graduate of the Sicily Island High school and a radio school in Chicago. He now is an employe of the Missouri Pacific Transportation company of this city.

Mrs. Lee A. Pollack and daughter, Lois, Salina, Kans., are guests of Mrs. Pollack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Joseph and her sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Seymour Solomon.

Patriotic Exhibit Is Arranged At College

Copy Of Declaration Of Independence Included In Display For July Fourth

The patriotic thing to do on the Fourth of July would be to motor out to Northeast Junior college and view the copy of the Declaration of Independence and other interesting material now being exhibited. The exhibit in the college library was arranged by Miss Mary Clay, librarian.

A copy of the Declaration of Independence, presented to the college by Miro chapter of the D. A. R., occupies the center of the exhibit. Another copy of this famous document which shows the evolution of the text, comprises facsimiles of various drafts by its author. It was issued in conjunction with an exhibit of these drafts at the Library of Congress on the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson. Miss Clay was fortunate to secure one of the two thousand copies of this publication that were issued by the Congressional library, April 13, of this year.

One of the delightful and enlightening books on Jefferson is Hendrik Willem Van Loon's "Thomas Jefferson." The author depicts the serene citizen of Monticello who gave us an American way of thinking and who gained worldwide renown by his noble understanding of that most difficult of all arts, of living as he felt that it should be practiced in the republic of which he was one of the founders. Included in the volume are accounts of his childhood under happiest of circumstances until the sudden death of his father forced him to assume grave personal responsibilities at an age when most boys are just beginning to think of going to college and enjoying themselves. Then the writer shows how the force of circumstances, rather than choice, gradually made Jefferson drift into local politics.

One of the most interesting parts of the book describes how the Virginian statesman "with a pair of scissors, a pot of paste, a bottle of ink, a goose quill and a serene conscience does a bit of editing and gains for himself a ranking place among the immortals of history."

The book tells the story of the curious experiences which the Declaration of Independence had. During the first one hundred years after it had been written it enjoyed no permanent resting place. It was constantly a public curiosity and was forever on the run. The document traveled from one state to the next, and resided temporarily in at least ten different cities. Twice, first during the Revolutionary War and for a second time in 1812, it was almost captured by the enemy. After a century of such wanderings, the ink had been exposed to so much light that the writing had begun to grow very faint and the signatures from the constant rolling of the parchment had begun to curl and would have become entirely undecipherable. It was then decided to send it for safe keeping to the Department of State.

But the old edifice, should it have caught fire, would have burned like a haystack, and so finally, in 1921, is was removed to a specially constructed safe in the Library of Congress.

Here is the famous document as it was originally reported to the Continental Congress by Thomas Jefferson himself. A copy of the origina[illegible] to be found in Bernard Mayo's [illegible] excellent book entitled "Jeffe[illegible] Himself," which is included in [illegible] exhibit. It is entertaining and instru[illegible]tive. The reader will come to kn[illegible] Jefferson as he really was. The pa[illegible] of the document that were struck [illegible] by Congress during the debates ha[illegible] been placed in brackets. Those pa[illegible] which congress inserted are print[illegible] in italics.

The editor has used material fou[illegible] in the voluminous writings, especia[illegible] in the thousands of letters of Jeffe[illegible]son. These have been woven into [illegible] narrative account of the man, of [illegible] private and personal life, his vari[illegible] interests and achievements.

His was a militant democracy, an[illegible] he was well aware of that future gen[illegible]erations must struggle to transla[illegible] democratic faith into democratic prac[illegible]tice.

"Jefferson, The Road to Glory," b[illegible] Marie Kimball, is a wholly new pic[illegible]ture of Jefferson in his youth an[illegible] young manhood, down to his writin[illegible] at thirty-three, the Declaration of In[illegible]dependence. There is an abundance of new material in the book, mate[illegible] taken from original manuscripts. [illegible] freshly written volume first re[illegible] and interprets a period of his [illegible] which Jefferson himself and his [illegible]ious biographers have passed ove[illegible] too lightly.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Todd and yo[illegible] son, Chester Lee, have just retu[illegible] from a trip to Ballinger and Da[illegible] Tex., to visit Mr. Todd's father [illegible] mother.

West Monroe Baptist Church Scene Of Rites

Rev. C. E. Autry Officiates At Wedding; Reception Follows At Bride's Home

A June wedding characterized by beauty of detail and impressive ceremony took place at the West Monroe Baptist church, Tuesday, June 29, when Miss Nellie Josephine Adcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherwood Adcock became the bride of Mr. Edley Walker Hixon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hixon of Alexandria, La.

The ceremony, witnessed by a large concourse of friends and relatives was performed by Reverend C. E. Autry at eight o'clock in the evening.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. Raymond Spence while the guests were being seated by the ushers, Mr. William Jones, Mr. James Swink, Dr. Clay Penninger and Lieutenant Alfred Wittermark. Mrs. Spence also accompanied the soloist, Miss Dorothy King who sang "Because" and "O Promise Me." Lohengrin's Wedding March was rendered for the processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the recessional.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Carolyn Salley, Miss Margery Tyler, Miss Ruth Anne Rich, Miss Marguerite Hixson and the maid of honor, Miss Christine Henry, all wore period gowns styled by Lenora of Hollywood. They all wore flattering chaplets of flowers and carried arm bouquets of pink and blue carnations. Mrs. Salley and Miss Hixson wore blue marquisette and Miss Rich, Miss Tyler and Miss Henry wore peach colored marquisette.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the traditional white Duchess satin wedding gown. It was an Emily model with tight fitting basque embroidered in seed pearls. The skirt, long and full, ended in a court train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to the hair with a coronet of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white bride's roses and stephanotis. For something old she wore a handsome antique brooch that belonged to her great grandmother.

Mr. Hixson served his son as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Adcock home on Haynes street, West Monroe. The entire lower floor was adorned with pink gladioli placed at vantage points.

The bride's table in the dining room was overlaid with lace cloth and centrally adorned with a massive silver bowl overflowing with white roses, white carnations and Peruvian lilies. The beautifully embossed, three-tiered wedding cake was placed at one end of the table and cut by the bride and bridegroom before they departed for New Orleans, where they are spending their honeymoon.

The bride traveled in a navy blue polka dot chiffon ensemble with a small hat and shoulder length veil and white accessories. Following the honeymoon the young couple will be at home at 215 Vermillion boulevard, Lafayette, La.

Mrs. Hixson graduated with a B. S. degree from the Louisiana state university and Mr. Hixson graduated from Louisiana college with a B. A. degree.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hixson and his sister, Miss Marguerite Hixson of Alexandria, Dr. Cloyd Penninger of New Orleans, Lieutenant Alfred Wittermark of the U. S. N. Mrs. Joseph Merritt, Mrs. T. E. Covington, Mrs. J. E. Scaife, Miss Ruth Cruikshank, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cruikshank, Miss Jessie Taison, Mrs. T. A. Taison, Miss Ruth Rich, of Ruston.

Stir constantly while cooking, add 2-3 cup sliced cheese, 1-3 cup diced celery and 2 tablespoons minced onions. Cook slowly until cheese has melted. Add 3 cups cooked macaroni and pour over 1 1-2 cups cooked asparagus and 3 hard-cooked eggs, sprinkled with 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon paprika, and arranged in a buttered, shallow baking dish. Cover with 2-3 cup buttered crumbs and bake 35 minutes—or until brown—in a moderate oven.

Tossed green salad or sliced tomato and avocado ties in with this mainstay. With hard rolls or muffins and jam or jelly you have an easy, substantial main course. For dessert, fresh fruit with angel food cake or blueberry roll is "tops."

Creole fish steak with escalloped new potatoes and a green salad, whole wheat rolls and a jelled or frozen dessert (kept in refrigerator until time for serving) is another summer dinner menu with picnic possibilities.

Cold potato salad and broiled split "franks," buttered buns, crisp radishes and sliced tomatoes give a menu economical and quick to prepare. Fresh apple or peach pie will make a banner dessert.

You might like to split the franks halfway through, insert pickle relish and then bake until brown in a shallow pan, well greased.

School Children Urged To Get Library Cards

All school children in Ouachita parish were urged by their teachers to secure library cards this summer in order that they might borrow books at the public libraries. During the month of June, children have flocked to the libraries in order to take advantage of the attractive and interesting books available for them. The fact that a total of 2,300 books were checked out to children during the first month of their vacation, reveals that children appreciate more than ever before the worthwhile books which are now at their disposal.

Since its organization in 1916, the Monroe Public library has recognized the importance of fine children's books and has continually added to its juvenile collection.

Each year two outstanding awards are made in the field of juvenile literature—the Newberry and Caldecott awards. The Newberry award, given for the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children, was presented this year to Elizabeth Janet Gray for her book "Adam of the Road," a delightful story of 13th century England about a minstrel boy who loses both his father and his dog, and sets out along the great highways to find them. Ages nine to twelve will especially enjoy this book.

The Caldecott award, for the most beautiful picture book of the year, was won by Virginia Lee Burton for "The Little House," a lovely book which will have wide appeal for children from four to eight years.

In previous years "The Matchlock Gun," Walter D. Edmonds; "Call It Courage," Armstrong Sperry; "Daniel Boone," James Daugherty; "Caddie Woodlawn," Carol R. Brink; "Hitty, Her First Hundred Years," Rachel Field; "Smoky," Will James; "Dr. Doolittle," Hugh Lofting, and many others have been winners of the Caldecott Award.

Other attractive stories which will provide pleasure for school children during their summer vacation are:

Picture books for pre-school age and beginners: "Pito's House," Bryan and Madden; "Michael the Colt," Garbutt; "Peddler's Clock," Mabel Leigh Hunt; "Corporal Keeperupper," Katharine Milhous; "Five Golden Wrens," Hugh Troy; "Nicodemus Runs Away," Inez Hogan; "War Time Handbook for Young Americans," Munro Leaf; "Patrick Goes A-Hunting," Brann; and "Little Boy Lost in Brazil," Kurt Wiese.

From eight to twelve: "Spotlight for Danny," Beim; "Mischief in Fez," Hoffman; "Mounted Messenger," Cornelia Meigs; "Green Wagons," Seidlin and Rypins; "Those Happy Golden Years," Laura Ingalls Wilder; "Cabita's Rancho," Crespi and Gay; "Bright Midnight," Trumbull; "Plow Penny Mystery," Davis; and "Star Spangled Banner," Aulaire.

For older children: "Stand By, Mark!," Lieutenant Commander Gardner; "Vast Horizons," Lucas; "Here Is Alaska," Steffansson; "Walter Reed: Doctor in Uniform," Wood; "Patterns on the Wall," Elizabeth Yates; "Million Miler, the Story of an Air Pilot," John Tunis; "Stars and Stripes," Garrison; "Boy Scouts Year Book: Stories of Daring and Danger," Mathiews; "Top Kick, U. S. Army Horse," Watson; "Courage and the Glory," Floherty; and "For Love of Country," Harper.

MARRIED

Mrs. David J. Hammons, who was formerly Miss Dorothy Ramsey of Sterlington, La.

Miss Vivienne Busbice Weds J. W. Randall

Of interest to their many friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Vivienne Busbice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Busbice, of Eros, La., and Mr. J. W. Randall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Randall, of Sicily Island, La.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in the presence of only relatives and close friends, on Wednesday morning, June 16, at 10 o'clock in the home of the Rev. J. T. Hinke, pastor of Trinity Baptist church of Eros, who officiated. In the reception suite, florally adorned with beautiful gladioli and lilies, the couple stood before an improvised altar to exchange vows.

The bride was attired in a white eyelet embroidered model with soldier blue accessories and her flowers were a corsage of pink carnations.

After a short wedding trip, the couple came to Monroe where they will make their home.

The bride graduated from the Eros High school and Northeast Junior college where she was a popular student and active member of various organizations, including the Indianettes, women's pep squad, the Women's Athletic association and the Speech club.

The groom is a graduate of the Sicily Island High school and a radio school in Chicago. He now is an employe of the Missouri Pacific Transportation company of this city.

Mrs. Lee A. Pollack and daughter, Lois, Salina, Kans., are guests of Mrs. Pollack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Joseph and her sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Seymour Solomon.

Patriotic Exhibit Is Arranged At College

Copy Of Declaration Of Independence Included In Display For July Fourth

The patriotic thing to do on the Fourth of July would be to motor out to Northeast Junior college and view the copy of the Declaration of Independence and other interesting material now being exhibited. The exhibit in the college library was arranged by Miss Mary Clay, librarian.

A copy of the Declaration of Independence, presented to the college by Miro chapter of the D. A. R., occupies the center of the exhibit. Another copy of this famous document which shows the evolution of the text, comprises facsimiles of various drafts by its author. It was issued in conjunction with an exhibit of these drafts at the Library of Congress on the two-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson. Miss Clay was fortunate to secure one of the two thousand copies of this publication that were issued by the Congressional library, April 13, of this year.

One of the delightful and enlightening books on Jefferson is Hendrik Willem Van Loon's "Thomas Jefferson." The author depicts the serene citizen of Monticello who gave us an American way of thinking and who gained worldwide renown by his noble understanding of that most difficult of all arts, of living as he felt that it should be practiced in the republic of which he was one of the founders. Included in the volume are accounts of his childhood under happiest of circumstances until the sudden death of his father forced him to assume grave personal responsibilities at an age when most boys are just beginning to think of going to college and enjoying themselves. Then the writer shows how the force of circumstances, rather than choice, gradually made Jefferson drift into local politics.

One of the most interesting parts of the book describes how the Virginian statesman "with a pair of scissors, a pot of paste, a bottle of ink, a goose quill and a serene conscience does a bit of editing and gains for himself a ranking place among the immortals of history."

The book tells the story of the curious experiences which the Declaration of Independence had. During the first one hundred years after it had been written it enjoyed no permanent resting place. It was constantly a public curiosity and was forever on the run. The document traveled from one state to the next, and resided temporarily in at least ten different cities. Twice, first during the Revolutionary War and for a second time in 1812, it was almost captured by the enemy. After a century of such wanderings, the ink had been exposed to so much light that the writing had begun to grow very faint and the signatures from the constant rolling of the parchment had begun to curl and would have become entirely undecipherable. It was then decided to send it for safe keeping to the Department of State.

But the old edifice, should it have caught fire, would have burned like a haystack, and so finally, in 1921, is was removed to a specially constructed safe in the Library of Congress.

Here is the famous document as it was originally reported to the Continental Congress by Thomas Jefferson himself. A copy of the original [illegible] to be found in Bernard Mayo's [illegible] excellent book entitled "Jefferson Himself," which is included in [illegible] exhibit. It is entertaining and instructive. The reader will come to know Jefferson as he really was. The [illegible] of the document that were struck [illegible] by Congress during the debates ha[illegible] been placed in brackets. Those pa[illegible] which congress inserted are printed in italics.

The editor has used material fou[illegible] in the voluminous writings, especia[illegible] in the thousands of letters of Jeff[illegible]son. These have been woven into [illegible] narrative account of the man, of [illegible] private and personal life, his vari[illegible] interests and achievements.

His was a militant democracy, an[illegible] he was well aware of that future gen[illegible]erations must struggle to transla[illegible] democratic faith into democratic practice.

"Jefferson, The Road to Glory," [illegible] Marie Kimball, is a wholly new picture of Jefferson in his youth an[illegible] young manhood, down to his writin[illegible] at thirty-three, the Declaration of Independence. There is an abundance [illegible] new material in the book, materia[illegible] taken from original manuscripts. Th[illegible] freshly written volume first reve[illegible] and interprets a period of his li[illegible] which Jefferson himself and his pre[illegible]ious biographers have passed ove[illegible] too lightly.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Todd and yo[illegible] son, Chester Lee, have just retur[illegible] from a trip to Ballinger and Da[illegible] Tex., to visit Mr. Todd's father [illegible] mother.

Miss Marie Thompson Marries Jeff D. Wilkerson At Methodist Church Here

Ceremony Performed On Wednesday Night

Reception At Bride's Home Follows Marriage In Which Dr. Serex Officiates

The First Methodist church was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday night, June 30, when Miss Marie Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Thompson became the bride of Mr. Jeff D. Wilkerson, son of Mrs. India Wilkerson, with the pastor, Dr. A. M. Serex, officiating in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

While the guests were being seated the ushers, Mr. Jake Benton, Mr. Edwin Courtney and Mr. Rudson Wood, lighted the candles burning high on the altar against a background of English ivy and southern smilax Shasta daisies, white phlox and white gladioli overflowed from tall Princess baskets forming a semi-circle for the wedding party.

A nuptial concert featuring "Ave Maria" by Schubert was rendered by the organist, Mrs. Gates McHenry. The soloist, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, sang in splendid voice, "Because."

Miss Elizabeth Benton, the maid of honor, wore a peach colored model with lace bodice and long, full, marquisette skirt. She wore a small cap of peach colored lace with short veil and carried an arm bouquet of pastel tinted Marconi daisies with long lengths of pastel colored ribbons.

The matron of honor, Mrs. H. Watkins Ellerson, the bride's sister, wore a gown of aquamarine lace and marquisette fashioned similar to the one worn by the maid of honor. She also carried an arm bouquet of pastel tinted Marconi daisies.

The bride, walking with her father who gave her in marriage, wore a picturesque wedding gown of white marquisette. It was fashioned with a square neckline outlined with a ruffle of Brussel's lace that extended over the shoulders and down the back where a large bow of lace was placed at the waistline. A wide ruffle edged the long full skirt with sweeping train. The finger tip veil was caught to the hair with a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of gardenias and orchids. The pearls worn in her hair were worn by the bride's grandmother on her wedding day and by generations of brides in the family since the year 1811.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Norman Priest.

The reception at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony permitted friends to congratulate the bridegroom and to offer the bride their sincere felicitations.

Mrs. Thompson received the guests in a powder blue crepe evening model with corsage of white gladioli. Mrs. Wilkerson, the bridegroom's mother, wore a periwinkle blue eyelet embroidered model with white accessories and corsage of Marconi daisies.

The bride's table in the dining room was covered with Italian linen cut work and centrally adorned with a three-tiered wedding cake. Silver candelabra at the four corners supported tall white tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson will make their home in Cameron, Texas.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. L. F. Pace, Miss Winona Pace, Miss Martha Pace of Heflin, La., Mrs. C. P. Thompson, Mrs. Clifford Chapman of Columbia, La., Miss Barbara Courtney of Mt. Lebanon, Mrs. H. C. Willis of Doyline, Miss Mattie Levins of Homer and Miss Alma Levins of Shreveport.

Mrs. Pettit Honored At Shreveport Meeting

Mrs. O. E. Pettit of this city was elected president of the State Federation of Post Office Clerks auxiliary at the state convention in Shreveport last week. The meeting took place at the Washington-Youree hotel and was attended by delegates from New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Monroe.

Mrs. L. R. Morgan, Jr., of this city was elected secretary-treasurer.

Professor L. D. Huffstuttler and Miss Billie Miller, both of Dallas, Texas, are conducting a 10 day and night music school at the Assembly of God church, Cypress street, West Monroe. The school began Monday and will continue through next week, closing on Friday night. A good school and good interest is reported to be in progress. It is possible to still enroll with these two teachers if interested in studying music or piano.

Of interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Sara Frances Strong and Mr. Raymond V. Bailey of Bastrop, on Sunday, June 27, in the presence of relatives. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ernest Holloway at the Presbyterian parsonage.

EMBROIDERED PANEL

An appropriated design for the greatest of American holidays—the day commemorating the triumph of the men of 1776 who fought and secured this country for us, its citizens in 1943.

If your youngster does not have a patriotic panel or picture for his room, make him an embroidered panel which he can frame in an inexpensive wooden frame. Hang it over his desk.

The panel is 20 by 17 inches—can be embroidered in simple outline stitch on tan linen, sateen or a closely woven cotton material. Use Victory blue and scarlet, brown, gray and green cotton mercerized embroidery floss for the stitchery. The design works up handsomely but is simplicity itself to do—a school girl could manage it nicely and might like to embroider this panel as a present for her brother classmates.

To obtain transfer pattern for the Spirit of '76 panel (Pattern No. 5176) color chart for working, amounts of materials specified, send 10 cents in COIN, YOUR NAME and ADDRESS and the PATTERN NUMBERS to Anne Cabot, Monroe News-Star—World, 106 Seventh Avenue, New York City. Enclose 1 cent postage for each pattern ordered.

I saw the new bathing suits yesterday at the Woolnit Fashion Show at the Hotel Pierre . . . the lovely ballroom was air-conditioned so viewing next season's woolen garments was very pleasurable . . . the news on wool bathing suits is that they are now "wool-blends" of wool, cotton and celanese . . . and very handsome they are! A bright yellow knit suit has a half skirt and fitted top . . . a princess style suit in soft green has a shirred bust-line . . . a beauty which will certainly make it's appearance on beaches from Maine to California is a cherry red suit with gored half skirt. . . . I was more interested in the hand crocheted wool shawl hoods designed by the clever Greta Pattry who has made a name in sportswear fashions . . . these are for next winter, of course . . . pink and blue draped wool hoods, buttoned under the chin . . . the college girls will be wild about them when they appear in the shops about next September . . . one great square of white and green was called a "Russian Square" . . . worn doubled over into a triangle, babuska fashion, the green and white crocheted head shawl made one anxious for winter to arrive once more . . . the astonishing thing about this wool garment presentation was that there was so much 100 per cent wool shown . . . apparently women know that they really do the most for their money if they invest in and take good care of good wool garments.

The new SPRING Anne Cabot ALBUM is ready for mailing. Contains 32 pages of spring and summer accessories, ways to save money on home decoration, aids to helping the family clothes budget in wartime! The brand new album is priced 15 cents.

We hope to have 100 per cent or total in our next effort to cooperate in this important phase of the war effort.

Go to Church!

This slogan, sounding round the world, might well put an end to a good deal of the world's chaos.

You, Mr. Citizen, whether a stranger in Monroe, or a local resident, ought to be in Church on Independence Day, and you are hereby given an invitation to worship in Grace Church.

7:30 A. M.—The Holy Eucharist.

9:30 A. M.—Primary department of Church School. The main school is recessed until September.

11:00 A. M.—Holy Eucharist with hymns and sermon by the Rector. Subject: "The Episcopal Church in Colonial Times."

4:30 P. M.—St. David's, Rayville, Evensong and sermon by the Rector.

NOTE

Open House for men at Navigation School each Sunday in Parish House from 4 to 6 P. M. Bring your friends.

P. S.—Today, July 4th, is Independence Day. Good Citizens should attend Church on this day. Let us be good patriots.

P. S.—The individual, like the nation, must strive to do the will of God.

P. S.—Unless we can learn the supremacy of spiritual forces, the pallbearers that have carried out other dead civilizations wait at our door.

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Ceremony Performed On Wednesday Night

The First Methodist church was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday night, June 30, when Miss Marie Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Thompson became the bride of Mr. Jeff D. Wilkerson, son of Mrs. India Wilkerson, with the pastor, Dr. A. M. Serex, officiating in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

While the guests were being seated the ushers, Mr. Jake Benton, Mr. Edwin Courtney and Mr. Rudson Wood, lighted the candles burning high on the altar against a background of English ivy and southern smilax Shasta daisies, white phlox and white gladioli overflowed from tall Princess baskets forming a semi-circle for the wedding party.

A nuptial concert featuring "Ave Maria" by Schubert was rendered by the organist, Mrs. Gates McHenry. The soloist, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, sang in splendid voice, "Because."

Miss Elizabeth Benton, the maid of honor, wore a peach colored model with lace bodice and long, full, marquisette skirt. She wore a small cap of peach colored lace with short veil and carried an arm bouquet of pastel tinted Marconi daisies with long lengths of pastel colored ribbons.

The matron of honor, Mrs. H. Watkins Ellerson, the bride's sister, wore a gown of aquamarine lace and marquisette fashioned similar to the one worn by the maid of honor. She also carried an arm bouquet of pastel tinted Marconi daisies.

The bride, walking with her father who gave her in marriage, wore a picturesque wedding gown of white marquisette. It was fashioned with a square neckline outlined with a ruffle of Brussel's lace that extended over the shoulders and down the back where a large bow of lace was placed at the waistline. A wide ruffle edged the long full skirt with sweeping train. The finger tip veil was caught in the hair with a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of gardenias and orchids. The pearls worn in her hair were worn by the bride's grandmother on her wedding day and by generations of brides in the family since the year 1811.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Norman Priest.

The reception at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony permitted friends to congratulate the bridegroom and to offer the bride their sincere felicitations.

Mrs. Thompson received the guests in a powder blue crepe evening model with corsage of white gladioli. Mrs. Wilkerson, the bridegroom's mother, wore a periwinkle blue eyelet embroidered model with white accessories and corsage of Marconi daisies.

The bride's table in the dining room was covered with Italian linen cut work and centrally adorned with a three-tiered wedding cake. Silver candelabra at the four corners supported tall white tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson will make their home in Cameron, Texas.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. L. F. Pace, Miss Winona Pace, Miss Martha Pace of Heflin, La., Mrs. C. P. Thompson, Mrs. Clifford Chapman of Columbia, La., Miss Barbara Courtney of Mt. Lebanon, Mrs. H. C. Willis of Doyline, Miss Mattie Levins of Homer and Miss Alma Levins of Shreveport.

Mrs. Pettit Honored At Shreveport Meeting

Mrs. O. E. Pettit of this city was elected president of the State Federation of Post Office Clerks auxiliary at the state convention in Shreveport last week. The meeting took place at the Washington-Youree hotel and was attended by delegates from New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Monroe.

Mrs. L. R. Morgan, Jr., of this city was elected secretary-treasurer.

Professor L. D. Huffstuttler and Miss Billie Miller, both of Dallas, Texas, are conducting a 10 day and night music school at the Assembly of God church, Cypress street, West Monroe. The school began Monday and will continue through next week, closing on Friday night. A good school and good interest is reported to be in progress. It is possible to still enroll with these two teachers if interested in studying music or piano.

Of interest to a wide circle of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Sara Frances Strong and Mr. Raymond V. Bailey of Bastrop, on Sunday, June 27, in the presence of relatives. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ernest Holloway at the Presbyterian parsonage.

EMBROIDERED PANEL

An appropriated design for the greatest of American holidays—the day commemorating the triumph of the men of 1776 who fought and secured this country for us, its citizens in 1943.

If your youngster does not have a patriotic panel or picture for his room, make him an embroidered panel which he can frame in an inexpensive wooden frame. Hang it over his desk.

The panel is 20 by 17 inches—can be embroidered in simple outline stitch on tan linen, sateen or a closely woven cotton material. Use Victory blue and scarlet, brown, gray and green cotton mercerized embroidery floss for the stitchery. The design works up handsomely but is simplicity itself to do—a school girl could manage it nicely and might like to embroider this panel as a present for her brother classmates.

To obtain transfer pattern for the Spirit of '76 panel (Pattern No. 5176) color chart for working, amounts of materials specified, send 10 cents in COIN, YOUR NAME and ADDRESS and the PATTERN NUMBERS to Anne Cabot, Monroe News-Star—World, 106 Seventh Avenue, New York City. Enclose 1 cent postage for each pattern ordered.

I saw the new bathing suits yesterday at the Woolnit Fashion Show at the Hotel Pierre . . . the lovely ballroom was air-conditioned so viewing next season's woolen garments was very pleasurable . . . the news on wool bathing suits is that they are now "wool-blends" of wool, cotton and celanese . . . and very handsome they are! A bright yellow knit suit has a half skirt and fitted top . . . a princess style suit in soft green has a shirred bust-line . . . a beauty which will certainly make it's appearance on beaches from Maine to California is a cherry red suit with gored half skirt . . . I was more interested in the hand crocheted wool shawl hoods designed by the clever Greta Pattry who has made a name in sportswear fashions . . . these are for next winter, of course . . . pink and blue draped wool hoods, buttoned under the chin . . . the college girls will be wild about them when they appear in the shops about next September . . . one great square of white and green was called a "Russian Square" . . . worn doubled over into a triangle, babuska fashion, the green and white crocheted head shawl made one anxious for winter to arrive once more . . . the astonishing thing about this wool garment presentation was that there was so much 100 per cent wool shown . . . apparently women know that they really do the most for their money if they invest in and take good care of good wool garments.

The new SPRING Anne Cabot ALBUM is ready for mailing. Contains 32 pages of spring and summer accessories, ways to save money on home decoration, aids to helping the family clothes budget in wartime! The brand new album is priced 15 cents.

Go to Church!

This slogan, sounding round the world, might well put an end to a good deal of the world's chaos.

You, Mr. Citizen, whether a stranger in Monroe, or a local resident, ought to be in Church on Independence Day, and you are hereby given an invitation to worship in Grace Church.

7:30 A. M.—The Holy Eucharist.

9:30 A. M.—Primary department of Church School. The main school is recessed until September.

11:00 A. M.—Holy Eucharist with hymns and sermon by the Rector. Subject: "The Episcopal Church in Colonial Times."

4:30 P. M.—St. David's, Rayville. Evensong and sermon by the Rector.

NOTE

Open House for men at Navigation School each Sunday in Parish House from 4 to 6 P. M. Bring your friends.

P. S.—Today, July 4th, is Independence Day. Good Citizens should attend Church on this day. Let us be good patriots.

P. S.—The individual, like the nation, must strive to do the will of God.

P. S.—Unless we can learn the supremacy of spiritual forces, the pallbearers that have carried out other dead civilizations wait at our door.

Musical Is Slated At Paramount

Betty Grable, George Montgomery And Cesar Romero Head Cast

"CONEY Island," that technicolor musical, is due to open Wednesday at the Paramount theater.

Starring Betty Grable, George Montgomery and Cesar Romero, the picture is reputed to have everything! Songs—dances—an entertaining and lively story, and a top-notch cast headed by Charles Winninger and Phil Silvers.

Whether you like your music hot or sweet—Producer William Perlberg has included enough of each. The new numbers, dreamed up especially for Betty and "Coney Island" by those top tunesmiths, Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger, include "Take It From There," "Beautiful Coney Island" and "Miss Lulu From Louisville." According to priview reports, these numbers are nifty—especially the last one, which Betty sings in black-face!

To vie with these there are such nostalgic melodies as "Put Your Arms Around Me Honey," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "In My Harem" and "Cuddle Up a Little Closer." All of these are ensconced in appropriate production numbers, intricate dances and dazzling costumes—not forgetting, for a minute, the delectable presence of La Grable out in front most of the time!

You could stop right here, for that is enough to convince all movie-goers that in "Coney Island" the Paramount theater has entertainment par excellence!

But that is not all. The story is said to be one of the most original ever developed for a musical picture. George Seaton's screen play, from which Director Walter Lang worked, has taken the riotous play-ground of old New York with its breath-taking beauties and hurly-burly excitement and evolved a story as colorful as a side-show circus, and as thrilling as its dancing daughters.

FORMER DEPUTY IS FREE UNDER BOND

ST. BERNARD, La., July 3.—(AP)—Former Deputy Sheriff Joseph Nicosia, charged with the April 3 saloon killing of Fernando Alfonso, a fisherman, at Violet, was free today under $10,000 bond.

Nicosa's bond was signed by a local merchant within an hour after a jury yesterday failed to agree on a verdict and Disrict Court Judge Albert Estopinal ordered a mistrial. Judge Estopinal fixed bond over the protest of District Attorney Leander H. Perez, who had moved Nicosia be held pending a second trial.

Nicosia has been in prison here threa months.

'Crash Dive' Here Today At Capitol

Tyrone Power, Anne Baxter And Dana Andrews In Cast Of Film

The first picture of underseas fighting to be produced since America entered the war, the film is the thrill-packed story of the fighting men who in their "pig boats" are wreaking havoc and destruction on the enemy.

Starred in the film is Tyrone Power, in his farewell performance as a civilian. 20th Century-Fox has spared no expense in bringing all the thrils, adventure and excitement of life aboard the sub to the screen in technicolor. The film is slated to open today at the Capitol theater.

Out of a sea aflame with danger, Power, as a junior officer aboard a sub, leads his men on a bold commando raid. Again they face death aboard the depth-bombed steel fish. Operating from the great naval submarine base at New London, Conn., where much of the picture was made, these men strike ceaselessly at the enemy. They live up to their credo, as expressed by one of the men:

"* * * And with terror and flame we shall hit the enemy where it hurts most * * * until he doesn't know his bow from his stern!"

There is time, nevertheless, for those precious, stolen moments of love. And in this dynamic film, Anne Baxter plays opposite the dashing Power. Dana Andrews, who with Miss Baxter, heads the featured cast, is shown as the commander of the submarine—a two-fisted, hard-fighting sea dog who has worked his way up from the ranks.

That the film would pack authenticity from the start was assured when it became known that much of the film was to be made on location at the navy's great submarine base in New London, Conn.

With the express permission of the nacy, the gigantic technicolor cameras photographed the submarine Albacore, where much of the action takes place. A glass bell was placed on the deck of the sub, allowing for many unusual photographic effects. Commander M. K. Kirkpatrick, U. S. N., acted as technical adviser on the film which was produced by Milton Sperling. The featured cast includes James Gleason and Dame May Whitty. The screen play was by J Swerling, from an original story by W. R. Burnett.

D. F. C. AWARDED TO LOCAL YOUTH

First Lieutenant Mark Mayo Again Is Recorded High Honor

First Lieutenant Mark Mayo, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Mayo, of this city, and former student of Northeast Junior college, has been recommended for another honor, the distinguished flying cross. The award was recommended in May after he was credited with bagging two Japanese bombers.

Early in March Mayo received the combat missions. The Order of the Purple Heart was bestowed upon him after he had been wounded while he was in combat in the Southwest Pacific.

In a letter received by his parents last week, Lieutenant Mayo told of his having been made flight commander of his squadron. Among the honors which he has received this signal recognition, with its responsibilities, seems to have brought the greatest satisfaction of all.

Mayo graduated from Ouachita Parish High school then entered the local college where he received primary training in the CAA program and earned his private pilot's license. In September, 1941, he entered military service and was sent to Greenville, Miss., and Helena, Ark., for basic training. He received his "wings" at Craig Field, Ala., in April of the following year. Additional training was gained at Drew Field, Fla., and Myrtle Beach, S. C. It was the latter part of that year that he left for overseas duty, and when he reached Australia, he was assigned to his squadron.

Flying a P-38 Lieutenant Mayo has seen almost continuous action in New Guinea and other places in the southwes Pacific war theater. Except during the period in which he was convalescing from wounds, he had his first leave this May which he spent in Australia.

Despite the hardships experienced in living conditions, Mayo's letters include enthusiastic accounts of his work and experiences and generous admiration for General, MacArthur whom he alludes to as "a fine leader and a swell man." One of the difficulties of which he writes is the lack of fresh vegetables which is a handicap in providing a variety of foods. Fresh cocoanuts are considered quite a delicacy. Surmounting the difficulties of the aviator's life are the chiggers which practically drag him away, he writes. But the wonderful fishing helps to balance the score, according to the lieutenant. Hunting is strictly forbidden because of the probability of disturbing the natives, he explains.

REVIVAL WILL BE HELD IN BERNICE

BERNICE, La., July 3.—(Special)—A revival is to be in progress at the First Baptist church here starting Sunday and ending July 11, the pastor, Rev. R. P. Middleton, announces.

A. L. Kirkwood of New Orleans is the evangelist and Dallas Goss, of Monroe is to be the song leader.

The public is invited to all services.

Love in Africa against the background of the titanic struggle between the Allies and Rommel's Afrika Korps is portrayed in "Five Graves to Cairo" by Franchot Tone and Anne Baxter. The two are co-starred in the thrilling adventure romance which comes to the Paramount today through Tuesday with Akim Tamiroff, and Eric Von Stroheim as Field Marshal Rommel.

George Raft is "persuaded" by two strong-arm Gestapo agents to release some important plans which the Nazis, headed by Sydney "Fat Man" Greenstreet, are trying to recover in "Background to Danger" which is the Paramount's midnight show attraction July 10th.

Beth Carter, WAAC

BY LORETTE COOPER

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER XIV

The Japanese fired and Beth felt something pluck her left sleeve, as though someone had stuck a pointed instrument through that part of her uniform. The shot had come that close. If it had not been for the unsteady air, it might have been closer—and it couldn't have been very much closer and still left her unharmed or even alive.

She went over the top of the two plunging, rolling, fighting men in the center of the cabin. The plane was gettin gdifficult to control. The Jap turned momentarily to the controls, then back to Beth. He had delayed too long.

Beth was fighting with all her strength. She had heard of jujitsu and the supposed advantage it gives to a man who knows it—and she did not doubt that this Japanese naval officer was surpassingly expert. But if she could only keep him occupied until Brit could subdue Rick . . . If she could only do that, even if it cost her her life!

The plane was doing a number of crazy things now. The Jap, no longer was speaking English, he was talking excitedly in his native tongue.

Brit and Rick were rolling around again. Rick was snarling in a language Beth did not recognize. Now Brit was up. He held Rick's arms firmly. Rick kicked viciously. Brit swung him around toward the end of the cabin, away from Beth and the Jap.

As Rick and Brit neared the end of the cabin they gained momentum. Brit pulled Rick's body around so that when they hit Rick took the full impact of both of them on the top of his head. He crumpled to the floor, stunned. Brit yanked off his tie and made Rick's arms secure.

Then Brit turned to the battle for the seaplane's controls.

Had he not done so voluntarily, he would have involuntarily, for the plane was diving swiftly down.

The Jap fired again, and yet again. Then he was overwhelmed—not only by the two Americans but also by the weight of Rick's body, which had come pitching down onto them.

Brit grabbed the pistol from the Jap's hand and brought it down on his head. He wasted no extra strokes. The pistol blow did what was necessary—it was as quick and much safer than attempting to shoot in that mass of four tangled people.

Then Brit shoved the Jap from the pilot's seat and grasped the controls. At first it seemed they were jammed. Finally they responded. Just when it appeared that the seaplane was about to plunge to its destruction Brit got it out of its dive and under control.

"Tie up the Jap," he ordered.

Beth pulled herself from the place where she had been wedged between the two insensate bodies of their enemies. She yanked Rick Moth away from the Jap, then tied the Jap's hands in the same way that Brit had tied Rick's.

"He's tied, Brit," she reported.

"Check the back compartment door, Beth," Brit then said.

She did. Lita was cursing and screaming.

"Miss Danton doesn't like it back there," Beth said.

"It's more comfortable than the cell I'm going to take her to—or the firing squad all three of these spies ought to get," Brit said grimly. "Rick Moth is really Ulrich von Mothe, who disappeared in Mandalay about a year ago while doing a job for you know who. I don't know how Lita got tangled up with him, but I'll bet it wasn't because she wasn't willing."

"What do we do now?" Beth asked.

"We're going back. That's simple enough, isn't it?"

"That part is. Do you suppose our secret is safe?"

Brit thought quite a while.

"That's puzzling me," he said. "I haven't the slightest idea where this plane was headed. It's only by dead reckoning that I can figure out where we came from. We should get back in a couple of hours. But whether we're going to be able to land, or whether we're going to be merely the harbingers of a swarm of Jap planes after we do land, I can't say now."

He pulled a switch, and the interior of the plane was dark. Beth had forgotten completely that they had been traveling at night. Her eyes adjusted themselves, and she looked out onto the Pacific, as bright as it ever could be under the full moon.

"Can we spot the island in this light?" she asked.

"We can spot it all right, but maybe spotting it will just get us blown to bits by one of our own antiaircraft guns. You know, there are two sides to this spotting business . . . the airplane pilot's, and the ground gunner's. A plane this slow would be a clay-pigeon target."

Brit left the lights off, except for the instrument panel. They cruised for some time—Beth's watch said it was long after midnight. In another couple hours it would be dawn.

Her eyes wandered over the panel. She saw something and realized that Brit must have been looking at the panel and must have seen it, too; for he pointed to the gasoline indicator expressively.

"We've only got gas for three more hours," he said. "My navigation had better be correct and we'd better be awfully lucky."

FORMER DEPUTY IS FREE UNDER BOND

ST. BERNARD, La., July 3.—(AP)—Former Deputy Sheriff Joseph Nicosia, charged with the April 3 saloon killing of Fernando Alfonso, a fisherman, at Violet, was free today under $10,000 bond.

Nicosa's bond was signed by a local merchant within an hour after a jury yesterday failed to agree on a verdict and Disrict Court Judge Albert Estopinal ordered a mistrial. Judge Estopinal fixed bond over the protest of District Attorney Leander H. Perez, who had moved Nicosia be held pending a second trial.

Nicosia has been in prison here three months.

'Crash Dive' Here Today At Capitol

Tyrone Power, Anne Baxter And Dana Andrews In Cast Of Film

The first picture of underseas fighting to be produced since America entered the war, the film is the thrill-packed story of the fighting men who in their "pig boats" are wreaking havoc and destruction on the enemy.

Starred in the film is Tyrone Power, in his farewell performance as a civilian. 20th Century-Fox has spared no expense in bringing all the thrils, adventure and excitement of life aboard the sub to the screen in technicolor. The film is slated to open today at the Capitol theater.

Out of a sea aflame with danger, Power, as a junior officer aboard a sub, leads his men on a bold commando raid. Again they face death aboard the depth-bombed steel fish. Operating from the great naval submarine base at New London, Conn., where much of the picture was made, these men strike ceaselessly at the enemy. They live up to their credo, as expressed by one of the men:

"* * * And with terror and flame we shall hit the enemy where it hurts most * * * until he doesn't know his bow from his stern!"

There is time, nevertheless, for those precious, stolen moments of love. And in this dynamic film, Anne Baxter plays opposite the dashing Power. Dana Andrews, who with Miss Baxter, heads the featured cast, is shown as the commander of the submarine—a two-fisted, hard-fighting sea dog who has worked his way up from the ranks.

That the film would pack authenticity from the start was assured when it became known that much of the film was to be made on location at the navy's great submarine base in New London, Conn.

With the express permission of the nacy, the gigantic technicolor cameras photographed the submarine Albacore, where much of the action takes place. A glass bell was placed on the deck of the sub, allowing for many unusual photographic effects. Commander M. K. Kirkpatrick, U. S. N., acted as technical adviser on the film which was produced by Milton Sperling. The featured cast includes James Gleason and Dame May Whitty. The screen play was by J Swerling, from an original story by W. R. Burnett.

D. F. C. AWARDED TO LOCAL YOUTH

First Lieutenant Mark Mayo Again Is Recorded High Honor

First Lieutenant Mark Mayo, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Mayo, of this city, and former student of Northeast Junior college, has been recommended for another honor, the distinguished flying cross. The award was recommended in May after he was credited with bagging two Japanese bombers.

Early in March Mayo received the combat missions. The Order of the Purple Heart was bestowed upon him after he had been wounded while he was in combat in the Southwest Pacific.

In a letter received by his parents last week, Lieutenant Mayo told of his having been made flight commander of his squadron. Among the honors which he has received this signal recognition, with its responsibilities, seems to have brought the greatest satisfaction of all.

Mayo graduated from Ouachita Parish High school then entered the local college where he received primary training in the CAA program and earned his private pilot's license. In September, 1941, he entered military service and was sent to Greenville, Miss., and Helena, Ark., for basic training. He received his "wings" at Craig Field, Ala., in April of the following year. Additional training was gained at Drew Field, Fla., and Myrtle Beach, S. C. It was the latter part of that year that he left for overseas duty, and when he reached Australia, he was assigned to his squadron.

Flying a P-38 Lieutenant Mayo has seen almost continuous action in New Guinea and other places in the southwes Pacific war theater. Except during the period in which he was convalescing from wounds, he had his first leave this May which he spent in Australia.

Despite the hardships experienced in living conditions, Mayo's letters include enthusiastic accounts of his work and experiences and generous admiration for General, MacArthur whom he alludes to as "a fine leader and a swell man." One of the difficulties of which he writes is the lack of fresh vegetables which is a handicap in providing a variety of foods. Fresh cocoanuts are considered quite a delicacy. Surmounting the difficulties of the aviator's life are the chiggers which practically drag him away, he writes. But the wonderful fishing helps to balance the score, according to the lieutenant. Hunting is strictly forbidden because of the probability of disturbing the natives, he explains.

REVIVAL WILL BE HELD IN BERNICE

BERNICE, La., July 3.—(Special)—A revival is to be in progress at the First Baptist church here starting Sunday and ending July 11, the pastor, Rev. R. P. Middleton, announces.

A. L. Kirkwood of New Orleans is the evangelist and Dallas Goss, of Monroe is to be the song leader.

The public is invited to all services.

Love in Africa against the background of the titanic struggle between the Allies and Rommel's Afrika Korps is portrayed in "Five Graves to Cairo" by Franchot Tone and Anne Baxter. The two are co-starred in the thrilling adventure romance which comes to the Paramount today through Tuesday with Akim Tamiroff, and Eric Von Stroheim as Field Marshal Rommel.

George Raft is "persuaded" by two strong-arm Gestapo agents to release some important plans which the Nazis, headed by Sydney "Fat Man" Greenstreet, are trying to recover in "Background to Danger" which is the Paramount's midnight show attraction July 10th.

Beth Carter, WAAC

BY LORETTE COOPER

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER XIV

The Japanese fired and Beth felt something pluck her left sleeve, as though someone had stuck a pointed instrument through that part of her uniform. The shot had come that close. If it had not been for the unsteady air, it might have been closer—and it couldn't have been very much closer and still left her unharmed or even alive.

She went over the top of the two plunging, rolling, fighting men in the center of the cabin. The plane was gettin gdifficult to control. The Jap turned momentarily to the controls, then back to Beth. He had delayed too long.

Beth was fighting with all her strength. She had heard of jujitsu and the supposed advantage it gives to a man who knows it—and she did not doubt that this Japanese naval officer was surpassingly expert. But if she could only keep him occupied until Brit could subdue Rick . . . If she could only do that, even if it cost her her life!

The plane was doing a number of crazy things now. The Jap, no longer was speaking English, he was talking excitedly in his native tongue.

Brit and Rick were rolling around again. Rick was snarling in a language Beth did not recognize. Now Brit was up. He held Rick's arms firmly. Rick kicked viciously. Brit swung him around toward the end of the cabin, away from Beth and the Jap.

As Rick and Brit neared the end of the cabin they gained momentum. Brit pulled Rick's body around so that when they hit Rick took the full impact of both of them on the top of his head. He crumpled to the floor, stunned. Brit yanked off his tie and made Rick's arms secure.

Then Brit turned to the battle for the seaplane's controls.

Had he not done so voluntarily, he would have involuntarily, for the plane was diving swiftly down.

The Jap fired again, and yet again. Then he was overwhelmed—not only by the two Americans but also by the weight of Rick's body, which had come pitching down onto them.

Brit grabbed the pistol from the Jap's hand and brought it down on his head. He wasted no extra strokes. The pistol blow did what was necessary—it was as quick and much safer than attempting to shoot in that mass of four tangled people.

Then Brit shoved the Jap from the pilot's seat and grasped the controls. At first it seemed they were jammed. Finally they responded. Just when it appeared that the seaplane was about to plunge to its destruction Brit got it out of its dive and under control.

"Tie up the Jap," he ordered.

Beth pulled herself from the place where she had been wedged between the two insensate bodies of their enemies. She yanked Rick Moth away from the Jap, then tied the Jap's hands in the same way that Brit had tied Rick's.

"He's tied, Brit," she reported.

"Check the back compartment door, Beth," Brit then said.

She did. Lita was cursing and screaming.

"Miss Danton doesn't like it back there," Beth said.

"It's more comfortable than the cell I'm going to take her to—or the firing squad all three of these spies ought to get," Brit said grimly. "Rick Moth is really Ulrich von Mothe, who disappeared in Mandalay about a year ago while doing a job for you know who. I don't know how Lita got tangled up with him, but I'll bet it wasn't because she wasn't willing."

"What do we do now?" Beth asked.

"We're going back. That's simple enough, isn't it?"

Brit thought quite a while.

"That's puzzling me," he said. "I haven't the slightest idea where this plane was headed. It's only by dead reckoning that I can figure out where we came from. We should get back in a couple of hours. But whether we're going to be able to land, or whether we're going to be merely the harbingers of a swarm of Jap planes after we do land, I can't say now."

He pulled a switch, and the interior of the plane was dark. Beth had forgotten completely that they had been traveling at night. Her eyes adjusted themselves, and she looked out onto the Pacific, as bright as it ever could be under the full moon.

"Can we spot the island in this light?" she asked.

"We can spot it all right, but maybe spotting it will just get us blown to bits by one of our own antiaircraft guns. You know, there are two sides to this spotting business . . . the airplane pilot's, and the ground gunner's. A plane this slow would be a clay-pigeon target."

Brit left the lights off, except for the instrument panel. They cruised for some time—Beth's watch said it was long after midnight. In another couple hours it would be dawn.

Her eyes wandered over the panel. She saw something and realized that Brit must have been looking at the panel and must have seen it, too; for he pointed to the gasoline indicator expressively.

"We've only got gas for three more hours," he said. "My navigation had better be correct and we'd better be awfully lucky."

YANKS LOSE TWICE, BARELY HOLD LOOP LEAD

FALL TO DETROIT IN DOUBLE BILL

Washington Beats St. Louis To Press Leaders For First Place

DETROIT, July 3.—(AP)—The once ...ful New York Yankees blew a ...eheader to the Tigers today, ...nd 10 to 9, barely hanging onto ...st place before the onrushing Washington Senators.

Slaughtered 12 to 0 at Cleveland yesterday, the desperate Yanks took a three-run lead in the eighth inning of the opening game today, but couldn't hold it and lost in the 11th inning on Rudy York's ninth homer. In the afterpiece the Yanks boasted a six-run lead as late as the eighth inning, but it vanished in the heat of a Detroit rally that netted three runs in the eighth and four runs in the ninth with nobody out.

The two defeats extended the ...ks' losing streak to four in a row ...e the Tigers gained two full ...es and now are only 2½ games ...nd.

Prince Henry Oana, the Hawaiian ...ently acquired by the Tigers, ...ted the Tigers' victory march in ... nightcap by hitting a three-run ...ner off Atley Donald in the eighth. Murphy, who also relieved Spud Chandler during a three-run Detroit rally in the eighth inning of the opener, was charged with both defeats. ...thpaw Hal Newhouser went the ...te for the Tigers in the opener ... his sixth win.

SELMAN MISSIONS TO PLAY LAKE CHARLES HERE TODAY

Game Slated This Afternoon At Casino Park; Gill To Be Honored

Ranking as one of the outstanding events scheduled for Monroe's Fourth of July observance, Selman field's baseball team squares off with the Lake Charles army air base nine at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on the diamond at Casino park.

As an added feature, a homecoming reception has been planned for one of the local lights, Big George Gill, who is slated to do the mound duties for the Lake Charles Bombers this afternoon. Members of the Rodney J. Hobbs post of Veteran's of Foreign Wars, headed by N. O. Freeman, will be in charge of ceremonies to be held just prior to the game honoring the ex-mayor leaguer and former Monroe resident. As a feature of the pregame ceremonies to be conducted at home plate, H. M. James, past commander of the local post of V. F. W., wil make a presentation of a gift from Monroe friends to Gill. Big George started his baseball career by pitching for the old Monroe City High school team, from which school he graduated in 1928, and had built up an enviable record while hurling for the Detroit Tigers just before entering the army air force.

Return of "Orful Othel" Payne, slugging third sacker, to the Missions lineup assures Coach Buddy Blair of having the Selman club back to peak strength for the important Independence Day scrap. Max Bishop, who adds a powerful punch to the outfield, has also returned to the fold of the Missions, but he is not expected to be pushed into action today unless sorely needed because he hasn't been able to practice for such a lengthy period.

Indications point to another closely fought tilt between the heated rivals. In their last meeting at Lake Charles the Bombers had apparently salted away a victory only to have the Missions crack through with a six-run rally in the ninth to score a crushing win, 8 to 6.

Opposing Gill on the mound for the Missions will be the locals' ace righthander, William (Wild Red) Murry, who has received credit for three of Selman's four victories this season. Fred Dudgeon, ex-St. Louis Brownie, will do the receiving. The Bombers will boast a strong array paced by Russ Whatley, hard-hitting catcher, Leo (The Lip) LaConte, centerfielder, and their big gun, Mr. Gill himself.

WOMEN MATCHED ON MAT PROGRAM

Celia Blevins To Meet Jean Robear Wednesday In Twin Feature

Jean Robear, the truant woman wrestler who upset Gus Kallio so when she failed to keep a date with Celia Blevins here three weeks ago, will be back in Monroe to appear on a double main event card Wednesday night, Promoter Kallio said last night.

Miss Robear, French-Canadian tussler from Montreal, will be matched against Miss Blevins, the Cherokee Indian lass from Tulsa, Okla., and the other half of the double main card will feature Jack LaRue, former University of Iowa athlete, and Allen "Sailor" Parker, the Tennessee toughie who double-crossed LaRue in a tag match here the past week.

The announcement that Miss Robear would return to "make up" for her absence three weeks ago temporarily checks Promoter Kallio's moves toward suspension of the woman wrestler.

Miss Robear still hasn't explained her absence, but Promoter Kallio said she told him in a telephone conversation that it had been "impossible" for her to be here and that she had promised to explain the difficulty when she arrived here Wednesday night.

The Parker-LaRue brawl should be a "natural" after what happened last week when Parker turned his back on LaRue and let his Iowan take a beating alone from the tag team combination of Jack Swenson and Aldin "Butch" Martin.

Parker never explained his action in refusing to be "tagged" into action when LaRue needed help, but Promoter Kallio revealed that Parker "just don't like LaRue" and indicated that that may have been why the Nashville grappler let Swenson and Martin have free sailing.

But the fans didn't like what Parker did and neither did LaRue. The fans screamed, "yellow," as Parker was leaving at the end of the bout, and LaRue challenged him to come back to the ring "just a minute," but Parker wouldn't accommodate him.

Wednesday, however, LaRue can get his revenge if he's capable of handling the ex-sailor.

CARDS INCREASE NATIONAL LEAD

Defeat Dodgers, 5 To 3 In First Tilt Of Crucial Three-Game Series

BROOKLYN, July 3.—(AP)—Danny Litwhiler teamed with the Cooper brothers today to spark the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-to-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the first of their three-game crucial series for the National league leadership before 16,015.

Litwhiler struck out the first two times at bat, but singled in the seventh to drive in Lou Klein with what proved to be the winning run. Danny then raced all the way home on Walker Cooper's double—his third hit of the game. Mort Cooper turned in a neat pitching job for his 10th win of the season. In addition big Mort singled home Whitey Kurowski in the second.

Except for an eighth inning homer by Augie Galan—who altogether whacked out three hits—the slipping Dodgers couldn't do much against Cooper's slants. The Brooks now have lost three in a row and are two full games behind the Cards.

The Dodgers threatened in the fourth on singles by Galan and Dolph Camilli, but failed to score until the sixth. With two out, Galan and Camilli beat out infield hits. Billy Herman's pop fly fell in short right for a single, scoring Galan. Klein tossed out Bobby Bragan to end the threat.

SKYCRACKERS TO PLAY BULLDOGS

Butts Slates Grid Tilt With Tough Navy Pre-flight At Athens

ATHENS, Ga., July 3.—(AP)—Wally Butts swore he'd never do it—but the little round man of Georgia football has broken down and agreed to a back-fence football engagement with the team which shares his own campus, the United States navy pre-flight Skycrackers.

Butts and Lieutenant Commander Matty Bell, pre-flight physical training director, jointly announced today that the Skycrackers and Georgia's Bulldogs will meet on their communal home field, Sanford stadium, November 6.

Butts, who is head coach and athletic director for Georgia, declared when the navy pre-flight school came to Athens a year ago that he yearned for no athletic rivalry with the boys across the yard.

"I'll concede 'em the championship of Clarke county right now," he said.

On at least two occasions last season, Wally's bowl-bound team scrimmaged the navy—but the clashes were strictly unofficial, and off-the-record. In the regular season, both teams scored spectacularly. Georgia stormed through a 11-game schedule with only one defeat, gaining a Southeastern conference championship and a bid to the Rose Bowl where Frankie Sinkwich and company defeated U. C. L. A., 9-0.

The Skycrackers, playing many commissioned officers with previous collegiate and professional experience, defeated seven major opponents, tied the Chapel Hill (N. C.) pre-flighters, and lost a single game to Louisiana State university.

This year only cadets will play on the pre-flight varsity team, while Butts will depend on a group of subdraft 17-year-olds and one 4-F guard. Neither team will have a man left from last year's squad.

MONTGOMERY TO BATTLE REASONER IN ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, July 3.—(AP)—Rangy Bob Montgomery, holder of the New York and Philadelphia world's lightweight title, makes his Dixie bow here tomorrow afternoon in a ten-round non-title decision match with young Al Reasoner of Chicago.

It will be the first fight for the Philadelphia Bobcat since he lifted the crown from Beau Jack.

Montgomery's fine record makes him a favorite over the speedy Reasoner who has been fighting professionally less than two years.

Both fighters have been on the scrap scene for more than a week and are in good condition for the show.

DAVIS RETAINS PLACES ON STAR TRACK SQUAD

EVANSTON, Ill., July 3.—(AP)—Hal Davis, California's great sprinter, retains his two places on the All-American college track and field team, the only one of last year's double-event performers to do so the 1943 team, announced today by the National Collegiate Athletic association track rules committee.

Davis rated a spot in the 100 and 220 yard dashes while three other athletes also were doubly honored, for the first time.

William Cummins of Rice, listed in the 120 yard high hurdles in 1942, repeated there and also saw his name added in the 220 low hurdles. Howard Debus of Nebraska was cited in the discus and javelin, and Ralph Tate of Oklahoma Aggies was listed in the high hurdles and broad jump. Neither Debus nor Tate were on last year's honor roll.

The All-American team included 42 men from 27 schools, with the Big Ten and Pacific Coast conference having seven athletes honored.

FALL TO DETROIT IN DOUBLE BILL

Washington Beats St. Louis To Press Leaders For First Place

DETROIT, July 3.—(AP)—The once [po]werful New York Yankees blew a [dou]bleheader to the Tigers today, [.]5 and 10 to 9, barely hanging onto [fi]rst place before the onrushing Washington Senators.

Slaughtered 12 to 0 at Cleveland yesterday, the desperate Yanks took a three-run lead in the eighth inning of the opening game today, but couldn't hold it and lost in the 11th inning on Rudy York's ninth homer. In the afterpiece the Yanks boasted a six-run lead as late as the eighth inning, but it vanished in the heat of a Detroit rally that netted three runs [i]n the eighth and four runs in the [ni]nth with nobody out.

[T]he two defeats extended the [Yan]ks' losing streak to four in a row [whil]e the Tigers gained two full [gam]es and now are only 2½ games [behi]nd.

[P]rince Henry Oana, the Hawaiian [rece]ntly acquired by the Tigers, [star]ted the Tigers' victory march in [the] nightcap by hitting a three-run [ho]ner off Atley Donald in the eighth. [Johnny] Murphy, who also relieved Spud [C]handler during a three-run Detroit [ra]lly in the eighth inning of the op[en]er, was charged with both defeats. [Sou]thpaw Hal Newhouser went the [rou]te for the Tigers in the opener [for] his sixth win.

SELMAN MISSIONS TO PLAY LAKE CHARLES HERE TODAY

Ranking as one of the outstanding events scheduled for Monroe's Fourth of July observance, Selman field's baseball team squares off with the Lake Charles army air base nine at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on the diamond at Casino park.

As an added feature, a homecoming reception has been planned for one of the local lights, Big George Gill, who is slated to do the mound duties for the Lake Charles Bombers this afternoon. Members of the Rodney J. Hobbs post of Veteran's of Foreign Wars, headed by N. O. Freeman, will be in charge of ceremonies to be held just prior to the game honoring the ex-mayor leaguer and former Monroe resident. As a feature of the pre-game ceremonies to be conducted at home plate, H. M. James, past commander of the local post of V. F. W., wil make a presentation of a gift from Monroe friends to Gill. Big George started his baseball career by pitching for the old Monroe City High school team, from which school he graduated in 1928, and had built up an enviable record while hurling for the Detroit Tigers just before entering the army air force.

Return of "Orful Othel" Payne, slugging third sacker, to the Missions lineup assures Coach Buddy Blair of having the Selman club back to peak strength for the important Independence Day scrap. Max Bishop, who adds a powerful punch to the outfield, has also returned to the fold of the Missions, but he is not expected to be pushed into action today unless sorely needed because he hasn't been able to practice for such a lengthy period.

Indications point to another closely fought tilt between the heated rivals. In their last meeting at Lake Charles the Bombers had apparently salted away a victory only to have the Missions crack through with a six-run rally in the ninth to score a crushing win, 8 to 6.

Opposing Gill on the mound for the Missions will be the locals' ace righthander, William (Wild Red) Murry, who has received credit for three of Selman's four victories this season. Fred Dudgeon, ex-St. Louis Brownie, will do the receiving. The Bombers will boast a strong array peced by Russ Whatley, hard-hitting catcher, Leo (The Lip) LaConte, centerfielder, and their big gun, Mr. Gill himself.

WOMEN MATCHED ON MAT PROGRAM

Celia Blevins To Meet Jean Robear Wednesday In Twin Feature

Jean Robear, the truant woman wrestler who upset Gus Kallio so when she failed to keep a date with Celia Blevins here three weeks ago, will be back in Monroe to appear on a double main event card Wednesday night, Promoter Kallio said last night.

Miss Robear, French-Canadian tussler from Montreal, will be matched against Miss Blevins, the Cherokee Indian lass from Tulsa, Okla., and the other half of the double main card will feature Jack LaRue, former University of Iowa athlete, and Allen "Sailor" Parker, the Tennessee toughie who double-crossed LaRue in a tag match here the past week.

The announcement that Miss Robear would return to "make up" for her absence three weeks ago temporarily checks Promoter Kallio's moves toward suspension of the woman wrestler.

Miss Robear still hasn't explained her absence, but Promoter Kallio said she told him in a telephone conversation that it had been "impossible" for her to be here and that she had promised to explain the difficulty when she arrived here Wednesday night.

The Parker-LaRue brawl should be a "natural" after what happened last week when Parker turned his back on LaRue and let his Iowan take a beating alone from the tag team combination of Jack Swenson and Aldin "Butch" Martin.

Parker never explained his action in refusing to be "tagged" into action when LaRue needed help, but Promoter Kallio revealed that Parker "just don't like LaRue" and indicated that that may have been why the Nashville grappler let Swenson and Martin have free sailing.

But the fans didn't like what Parker did and neither did LaRue. The fans screamed, "yellow," as Parker was leaving at the end of the bout, and LaRue challenged him to come back to the ring "just a minute," but Parker wouldn't accommodate him.

Wednesday, however, LaRue can get his revenge if he's capable of handling the ex-sailor.

CARDS INCREASE NATIONAL LEAD

Defeat Dodgers, 5 To 3 In First Tilt Of Crucial Three-Game Series

BROOKLYN, July 3.—(AP)—Danny Litwhiler teamed with the Cooper brothers today to spark the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-to-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the first of their three-game crucial series for the National league leadership before 16,015.

Litwhiler struck out the first two times at bat, but singled in the seventh to drive in Lou Klein with what proved to be the winning run. Danny then raced all the way home on Walker Cooper's double—his third hit of the game. Mort Cooper turned in a neat pitching job for his 10th win of the season. In addition big Mort singled home Whitey Kurowski in the second.

Except for an eighth inning homer by Augie Galan—who altogether whacked out three hits—the slipping Dodgers couldn't do much against Cooper's slants. The Brooks now have lost three in a row and are two full games behind the Cards.

The Dodgers threatened in the fourth on singles by Galan and Dolph Camilli, but failed to score until the sixth. With two out, Galan and Camilli beat out infield hits. Billy Herman's pop fly fell in short right for a single, scoring Galan. Klein tossed out Bobby Bragan to end the threat.

We have always wanted you to have a full measure of both when you come in our store . . . now we want you to have them in even greater proportion.

Although we have planned extensively for our responsible job, there still may be times when certain things will be missing from our stock. This is no time for indifference and curtness, and if such an occasion arises, we will try to secure the wanted items for you. Failing in that attempt, we will direct you to any store we know of that may be able to help you.

This is our War-Time Pledge to you.

WE WILL BE CLOSED ALL DAY MONDAY, JULY 5, IN OBSERVANCE OF INDEPENDENCE DAY JULY 4.

TWILIGHT TEAR CHICAGO WINNER

Calumet Farm's Filly Takes Rich Lassie Stakes At Washington Park

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—The Chicago owned Calumet farm's pair, Twilight Tear and Miss Keeneland, dominated the $35,000 Arlington Lassie stakes for two-year-old fillies before 17,000 at Washington park today.

The entry, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago, went to the post an even money favorite and returned $4.00, $4.00 and $3.20. The show price on Music Hall was $10.80. The time for the six furlongs was 1:13 1-5.

The Calumet farm picked up a net of $30,840 through the accomplishments of the two fillies. Twilight Tear picked up $26,460, largest Lassie purse in history, and Miss Keeneland earned $4,380 for finishing second.

The Lassie lured the finest field of juveniles in the nation. L. B. Mayer's Iron Maiden, who showed some speed in her recent bow, went winging at the start. She was a 30-1 shot. It was a ragged start. Lazy F. ranch's Cocopet, 6-1 shot, broke from outside the stall gate and was practically left at the post.

Turning into the stretch Twilight Tear quickly overhauled Iron Maiden and swept to the lead. Miss Keeneland also moved up the extreme outside.

John M. Rasch's Occupation won the $5,000 Glencoe handicap for 3-year-olds, whipping Busyridge by three quarters of a length. Burnt Cork was third and Slide Rule fourth.

Occupation, winning his third race in as many starts this season, scored in his usual manner. He broke in front and dared the rest of them to catch him.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—Time was when July 4 was the favorite date for big fights, but in his later years George Lewis Rickard shied away from holidays and, with rare exceptions, that has been the rule since.

The massacre of Jess Willard at the murderous fists of Jack Dempsey in the stifling heat of Toledo, July 4, 1919, was the first tipoff to Tex Rickard. The master promoter pitched a huge arena on the shore of Maumee bay, and the gate, $452,522, was a terrific disappointment.

Rickard stuck to the July Fourth week-end for the first million-dollar gate, however, grossed $1,789,238 with the Dempsey-Carpentier obvious mismatch at Boyle's thirty acres in 1921. That one had the war hero angle, international flavor and was accessible to metropolitan centers.

Subsequent events convinced Rickard people wanted to get away and enjoy themselves on holidays in other ways than watching fights. By that time, the glamour, color and mad enthusiasm had passed with the old days. And Old Tedge's sober, orderly commercialism had added another word to "Battle of the Century." The word was "Notes."

Rickard chuckled—and didn't even go to see it—when Jack Kearns took Dempsey to the oil town of Shelby, Mont., and failed to collect the Manassa Mauler's full guarantee as the match with Tom Gibbons drew no more than $201,488.

William F. Carey and those in charge of boxing at Madison Square Garden failed to learn from Rickard, and on July 3, 1931, took Young Stribling and Max Schmeling to Cleveland and drew no more than $349,415.

It was on that same day that a lithe brown boy made his professional bow by flattening one Jack Kracken in a round in Chicago. Joe Louis was destined to go on to restore the game to its most golden days since the fabulous Dempsey.

The principal point of this piece is that July Fourth would this year have been revived as a fight date had talent been available. With restrictions on gas, rubber and transportation in general, Billy Conn and Joe Louis, fighting for the army, would have drawn a billion in war bonds. Freddie Mills of England and Louis would have done the same thing.

There isn't a fight card in civilian life worthy of the great outdoors and the billing.

Auburn Quits Sports For Duration; Only Five Grid Teams Still In Loop

AUBURN, Ala., July 3.—(AP)—Alabama Polytechnic institute, long a football power of the deep south, abandoned intercollegiate athletics today for the duration.

Withdrawal of the school—known athletically as Auburn—from further competition was announced by President L. N. Duncan after a conference of the faculty committee on athletics. Auburn thus became the 71st southern college, and the seventh member of the 12-school Southeastern conference, to drop out of the football picture since the start of the war.

Auburn's action followed by less than 24 hours the announcement by the University of Tennessee that it would not compete this fall in intercollegiate football. Tennessee, however, will continue particiapation in basketball.

Previously the University of Kentucky announced a similar policy, and earlier withdrawals ended all athletic competition at Florida, the University of Mississippi, and Mississippi State.

Auburn, which played a powerful football team last autumn was the only one to defeat Georgia's Rose Bowl champions. It lost its head coach last spring when Jack Meagher was commissioned in the naval reserve. Call of assistant coaches on reserve commissions previously had left Auburn with only a skeleton staff, and when Meagher departed the only remaining member were the track coach and trainer, Wilbur Hutsell, and Jeff Beard. Most of Auburn's scholarship athletes, enlisted in the marine reserve, were called for active service before July 1.

Five members of the Southeastern conference now remain as probable football contenders next autumn. They are Alabama, Georgia Tech, Georgia, Louisiana State, and Tulane. All have announced plans to carry on with whatever coaches and athletes are available.

CARDS

Cardinals, the last place Giants bounced back today to sweep a doubleheader from the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 3 and 2 to 1.

Home runs by Mel Ott and Sid Gordon sparked the Giants in the opener to give Johnny Witting his fifth win of the year although he needed help from Ace Adams in the eighth. Ott's round tripper was his tenth and tied him with Charley Keller of the Yanks for the major league leadership.

Bucky Walters pitched four-hit ball for the Reds in the nightcap, but the Giants bunched two of their hits with two walks in the second inning for both their runs. Dick Bartell's single with the bases loaded was the winning blow. Rube Fischer gave up 10 hits and was in trouble often, but was too tough in the pinches.

BUCS BEAT BRAVES

The Pirates came in too late for batting practice, but they piled up 17 hits off three Boston pitchers.

The Braves' Al Javery was knocked out in the first inning after he had pitched five balls, with the Pirates collecting three doubles and a single. From that point on Kirby Farrell and Manny Salvo took over.

Johnny Gee, a tall left hander, made his 1943 debut as a starting pitcher for the Pirates.

CUBS DOWN PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs made it five wins in a row today, beating the Phillies, 6 to 1, before 3,984 fans in a game that started at 1:30 p.m. (E.W.T.)

Henry Wyse, limiting the Phillies to six scattered hits, won his first game of the season against three defeats.

Chicago took advantage of two errors by Newt Kimball and one by Charley Brewster to score two runs in the first and two in the second.

Kimball, who went eight innings, was the losing pitcher. He allowed six hits while Dale Mathewson, pitching in the ninth, allowed none.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—George Strickler, the National football league drumbeater, reports that during the recent meeting at Chicago a gent who frequently had put the touch on Buffalo's Charley Murray for meal money turned up for the first time in two years. . . . He had heard the league had awarded Murray the Buffalo franchise and he wanted to bargain for a piece of it. . . "He had $10,000 in his pocket and the unconscious body of Murray on his hands," says George, "and when Murray recovered from the shock, he redoubled his efforts to get the franchise."

Sportpourri

Eddie Arcaro, still under suspension at the New York tracks, keeps in the pink by exercising nags in the early morning hours and keeps out of the red by spending his afternoons at baseball parks instead of those places with mutuel windows. . . . The women's international bowling congress, which bought a bomber and "adopted" its crew last spring, now plans to purchase one or more $30,000 ambulance planes during the coming year. . . . Jinx item: The Giants are the only National league club that hasn't been victim of at least two no-hit shutouts since 1900. Only one against the New Yorkers in the 20th century was tossed by Jimmy Lavender of the Cubs, August 31, 1915. . . . Tom Maher, Jamaica track superintendent, talks Market Wise's 1:38 3-5 final prep for Monday's Massachusetts handicap as the fastest mile workout over his track in 20 years. . . . Dorothy Germain, the Philadelphia girl golfer who reached the semi-finals of the women's western open, is the daughter of a glue manufacturer. . . . No wonder she struck around so long.

Today's Guest Star

Nixon Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star: "The university of Kentucky, which dropped football yesterday for the duration of the war, is different from a lot of schools. You wouldn't find many colleges complaining about a manpower shortage if, like U. K., they had the striking coal miners of Breathitt and Harlan counties where they could put their fingers on them."

Service Dept.

Johnny Blood, the famous wandering halfback of the pro football league, has wandered clear to Delhi, India, where he's stationed with the U. S. forces. . . . Private Johnny Greco, who put the Canadian army into the boxing business, has been shipped off to St. John's, Quebec, to begin his basic training and doesn't expect to do any more punching until after the war. . . . Private Adam Kmak, former White Sox bat boy who is training at Keesler Field, Miss., to become an aerial gunner, says he hopes to shoot for a pro baseball career after the war. . . TEN ENTRIES IN BAY STATE RACE

9th Running Of Massachusetts Handicap Is Scheduled For Monday

BOSTON, July 3.—(AP)—Six "invaders" from New York and four regulars of the New England season will meet Monday in the ninth running of Suffolk Downs' $50,000 added Massachusetts handicap—highlight of the Independence day card and richest stake of the New England turf season.

Ten horses have been named to start overnight and top weight will be shared equally by Louis Tufano's Market Wise and Greentree Stable's Shut Out, each under 126 pounds.

The consensus today was that the mile and an eighth event was between those two for it was over the Downs strip a year ago that Shut Out broke the track record as he won the $25,000 added Yankee handicap.

Close to Market Wise and Shut Out is William Helis' $55,000 purchase, Attention, which will run coupled with Salto as entry. In with 118 pounds, Attention figures to give the pair a deal battle. Salto will carry 103 pounds.

Binglin Stock farm's Don Bingo, a surprise winner of the suburban a few weeks ago, and Townsend B. Martin's Bankrupt complete the New York sextet. Under 114 pounds, Don Bingo may be difficult to catch in the stretch. Bankrupt will carry 107.

Pitted against those six will be Mrs. Hazel M. Babylon's Abbe Pierce, double stake winner at the Downs meeting, carrying 111 pounds; Mrs. Ray Feinberg's Firebrown, carrying 108; Albert F. Plock's Woodford Lad, winner of a sprint stake here and the only three-year-old in the field, at 102 pounds, and Lawrence B. Sheppard's Kansas, which will carry 101.

If all 10 horses start, the handicap will have a net value of $43,600. All appear certain starters if a fast track prevails, but Shut Out is unlikely to go if the track is muddy.

CHISOX DEFEAT A'S

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—Guy Curtright, whose 26-game hitting streak was ended yesterday, hit a home run in the first inning tonight to provide the first two runs in the Chicago White Sox' 6-to-4 defeat of the Philadelphia Athletics in a twilight game before 10,577 at Comiskey park. The night game portion of the double-header was postponed.

Curtright, the major leagues' leading hitter, connected for his circuit blow after Wally Moses had singled. The two runs erased a 2-to-0 lead the Athletics had taken in the first half of the inning when Buck Ross walked four batters.

But Ross steadied down thereafter, alowing only eight hits in gaining his fifth victory. The White Sox bunched singles by Jimmy Grant, Don Kolloway, Joe Kuhel and Thurman Tucker with two Philadelphia errors for four runs in the fourth inning that decided the game. Roger Wolff was the losing pitcher.

The A's were batting in the third inning of the second game and had a 3-to-1 lead when the contest was halted.

Sideshow

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—The army came to the aid of the marines today when Ruth Domke and Marine Sergeant William Hoffman got married.

Bill's buddy was denied a furlough to officiate as best man, and Ruth, reviewing her list of male acquaintances, found they were all in service. So she called the Chicago service men's center, which sent Technician Thomas Carter, Whiteville, N. C., to the rescue. The ceremony went off with the army having the situation well in hand.

SUFFERN, N. Y., July 3.—(AP)—Farmer Andrew Zachmann had a 10-acre patch of string beans ready for the picking but no help to gather the crop.

He brought his woe to the village last night and said he would sell the beans to anyone who picked them for 75 cents a bushel. The wholesale market price here is $2 a bushel.

RESUME PLAY IN SOUTHERN MEET

Tennis Tournament Matches Again Start After Two Days Of Delay

ATLANTA, July 3.—(AP)—Favorites, accompanied by dark-horse Bob Dickinson of Charleston, S. C., resumed their march in the southern tennis tournament today after two days of postponements.

Dickson, a coast guardsman who already had eliminated first-seeded Earl Bartlett, added seventh-rated Lieutenant L. W. Shippey to his victims with a straight-set victory, 6-1 6-1. That put Dickson in the men's semi-finals.

Lieutenant Shippey, of the Atlanta naval air base and formerly of Jacksonville, had beaten Commander W. L. Maloney of Charleston, 6-3, 6-1, earlier in the day.

Second-seeded Jack Tuero of New Orleans and fourth-ranked Jack Teagle of Atlanta advanced into the semi-finals of the upper bracket. Tuero came from behind to stop Lieutenant Walter Pettit of the Atlanta naval base, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Pettit, former Princeton star, was seeded fifth. Teagle breezed through Johnny Dennis of St. Petersburg, Fla., 6-1, 6-3.

In the lower bracket, Atlanta's third-seeded Donald Floyd reached the quarter-finals by defeating Lade Herren, former national boys champion from Birmingham, in a prolonged battle, 4-6, 9-7, 9-7.

Action in men's doubles finally got under way when the St. Petersburg pair of Niles Millsaps and Dennis turned back Herren and William Watts, the latter of St. Petersburg also, 6-2, 6-3.

WAITING FOR A BUMP

SUFFOLK, Va.—(AP)—This could be called another one of those fish stories—but to be exact, it's really about a bird that eats fish. A Florence, S. C., fish truck passing through Suffolk recently, was accompanied by a large heron, which flew low over the truck and flapped along at an estimated 25-mile-per-hour clip.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—Pre-Holiday apathy dominated the stock market today and, while specialized strength was in evidence, lower tendencies prevailed from the start for the majority of leaders.

There was some further trimming of commitments as insurance against untoward happenings over Monday when principal exchanges will recess for the celebration of Independence day. Numerous customers, brokers and clerks remained away from the financial sector and virtually all commission houses were manned by skeleton staffs. The result was one of the slow sessions of the year, with only about 350,000 shares changing hands.

TWILIGHT TEAR CHICAGO WINNER

Calumet Farm's Filly Takes Rich Lassie Stakes At Washington Park

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—The Chicago owned Calumet farm's pair, Twilight Tear and Miss Keeneland, dominated the $35,000 Arlington Lassie stakes for two-year-old fillies before 17,000 at Washington park today.

The entry, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago, went to the post an even money favorite and returned $4.00, $4.00 and $3.20. The show price on Music Hall was $10.80. The time for the six furlongs was 1:13 1-5.

The Calumet farm picked up a net of $30,840 through the accomplishments of the two fillies. Twilight Tear picked up $26,460, largest Lassie purse in history, and Miss Keeneland earned $4,380 for finishing second.

The Lassie lured the finest field of juveniles in the nation. L. B. Mayer's Iron Maiden, who showed some speed in her recent bow, went winging at the start. She was a 30-1 shot. It was a ragged start. Lazy F. ranch's Cocopet, 6-1 shot, broke from outside the stall gate and was practically left at the post.

Turning into the stretch Twilight Tear quickly overhauled Iron Maiden and swept to the lead. Miss Keeneland also moved up the extreme outside.

John M. Rasch's Occupation won the $5,000 Glencoe handicap for 3-year-olds, whipping Busyridge by three quarters of a length. Burnt Cork was third and Slide Rule fourth.

Occupation, winning his third race in as many starts this season, scored in his usual manner. He broke in front and dared the rest of them to catch him.

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—Time was when July 4 was the favorite date for big fights, but in his later years George Lewis Rickard shied away from holidays and, with rare exceptions, that has been the rule since.

The massacre of Jess Willard at the murderous fists of Jack Dempsey in the stifling heat of Toledo, July 4, 1919, was the first tipoff to Tex Rickard. The master promoter pitched a huge arena on the shore of Maumee bay, and the gate, $452,522, was a terrific disappointment.

Rickard stuck to the July Fourth week-end for the first million-dollar gate, however, grossed $1,789,238 with the Dempsey-Carpentier obvious mismatch at Boyle's thirty acres in 1921. That one had the war hero angle, international flavor and was accessible to metropolitan centers.

Subsequent events convinced Rickard people wanted to get away and enjoy themselves on holidays in other ways than watching fights. By that time, the glamour, color and mad enthusiasm had passed with the old days. And Old Tedge's sober, orderly commercialism had added another word to "Battle of the Century." The word was "Notes."

Rickard chuckled—and didn't even go to see it—when Jack Kearns took Dempsey to the oil town of Shelby, Mont., and failed to collect the Manassa Mauler's full guarantee as the match with Tom Gibbons drew no more than $201,488.

William F. Carey and those in charge of boxing at Madison Square Garden failed to learn from Rickard, and on July 3, 1931, took Young Stribling and Max Schmeling to Cleveland and drew no more than $349,415.

It was on that same day that a lithe brown boy made his professional bow by flattening one Jack Kracken in a round in Chicago. Joe Louis was destined to go on to restore the game to its most golden days since the fabulous Dempsey.

The principal point of this piece is that July Fourth would this year have been revived as a fight date had talent been available. With restrictions on gas, rubber and transportation in general, Billy Conn and Joe Louis, fighting for the army, would have drawn a billion in war bonds. Freddie Mills of England and Louis would have done the same thing.

There isn't a fight card in civilian life worthy of the great outdoors and the billing.

Auburn Quits Sports For Duration; Only Five Grid Teams Still In Loop

AUBURN, Ala., July 3.—(AP)—Alabama Polytechnic institute, long a football power of the deep south, abandoned intercollegiate athletics today for the duration.

Withdrawal of the school—known athletically as Auburn—from further competition was announced by President L. N. Duncan after a conference of the faculty committee on athletics. Auburn thus became the 71st southern college, and the seventh member of the 12-school Southeastern conference, to drop out of the football picture since the start of the war.

Auburn's action followed by less than 24 hours the announcement by the University of Tennessee that it would not compete this fall in intercollegiate football. Tennessee, however, will continue particiapation in basketball.

Previously the University of Kentucky announced a similar policy, and earlier withdrawals ended all athletic competition at Florida, the University of Mississippi, and Mississippi State.

Auburn, whch always fielded a powerful football team last autumn was the only one to defeat Georgia's Rose Bowl champions. It lost its head coach last spring when Jack Meagher was commissioned in the naval reserve. Call of assistant coaches on reserve commissions previously had left Auburn with only a skeleton staff, and when Meagher departed the only remaining member were the track coach and trainer, Wilbur Hutsell, and Jeff Beard. Most of Auburn's scholarship athletes, enlisted in the marine reserve, were called for active service before July 1.

Five members of the Southeastern conference now remain as probable football contenders next autumn. They are Alabama, Georgia Tech, Georgia, Louisiana State, and Tulane. All have announced plans to carry on with whatever coaches and athletes are available.

Cardinals, the last place Giants bounced back today to sweep a doubleheader from the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 3 and 2 to 1.

Home runs by Mel Ott and Sid Gordon sparked the Giants in the opener to give Johnny Witting his fifth win of the year although he needed help from Ace Adams in the eighth. Ott's round tripper was his tenth and tied him with Charley Keller of the Yanks for the major league leadership.

Bucky Walters pitched four-hit ball for the Reds in the nightcap, but the Giants bunched two of their hits with two walks in the second inning for both their runs. Dick Bartell's single with the bases loaded was the winning blow. Rube Fischer gave up 10 hits and was in trouble often, but was too tough in the pinches.

BUCS BEAT BRAVES

The Pirates came in too late for batting practice, but they piled up 17 hits off three Boston pitchers.

The Braves' Al Javery was knocked out in the first inning after he had pitched five balls, with the Pirates collecting three doubles and a single. From that point on Kirby Farrell and Manny Salvo took over.

Johnny Gee, a tall left hander, made his 1943 debut as a starting pitcher for the Pirates.

CUBS DOWN PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs made it five wins in a row today, beating the Phillies, 6 to 1, before 3,984 fans in a game that started at 1:30 p.m. (E.W.T.).

Henry Wyse, limiting the Phillies to six scattered hits, won his first game of the season against three defeats.

Chicago took advantage of two errors by Newt Kimball and one by Charley Brewster to score two runs in the first and two in the second.

Kimball, who went eight innings, was the losing pitcher. He allowed six hits while Dale Mathewson, pitching in the ninth, allowed none.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—George Strickler, the National football league drumbeater, reports that during the recent meeting at Chicago a gent who frequently had put the touch on Buffalo's Charley Murray for meal money turned up for the first time in two years. . . . He had heard the league had awarded Murray the Buffalo franchise and he wanted to bargain for a piece of it. . . . "He had $10,000 in his pocket and the unconscious body of Murray on his hands," says George, "and when Murray recovered from the shock, he redoubled his efforts to get the franchise."

Sportpourri

Eddie Arcaro, still under suspension at the hoss tracks, keeps in the pink by exercising nags in the early morning hours and keeps out of the red by spending his afternoons at baseball parks instead of those places with mutuel windows. . . . The women's international bowling congress, which bought a bomber and "adopted" its crew last spring, now plans to purchase one or more $80,000 ambulance planes during the coming year. . . . Jinx item: The Giants are the only National league club that hasn't been victim of at least two no-hit shutouts since 1900. Only one against the New Yorkers in the 20th century was tossed by Jimmy Lavender of the Cubs, August 31, 1915. . . . Tom Maher, Jamaica track superintendent, tabs Market Wise's 1:38 3-5 final prep for Monday's Massachusetts handicap as the fastest mile workout over his track in 20 years. . . . Dorothy Germain, the Philadelphia girl golfer who reached the semi-finals of the women's western open, is the daughter of a glue manufacturer. . . . No wonder she struck around so long.

Today's Guest Star

Nixon Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star: "The university of Kentucky, which dropped football Wednesday for the duration of the war, is different from a lot of schools. You wouldn't find many colleges complaining about a player shortage if, like U. K., they had the striking coal miners of Breathitt and Harlan counties where they could put their fingers on them."

Service Dept.

Johnny Blood, the famous wandering halfback of the pro football league, has wandered clear to Delhi, India, where he's stationed with the U. S. forces. . . . Private Johnny Greco, who put the Canadian army into the boxing business, has been shipped off to St. John's Quebec, to begin his basic training and doesn't expect to do any more punching until after the war. . . . Private Adam Kmak, former White Sox bat boy who is training at Keesler Field, Miss., to become an aerial gunner, says he hopes to shoot for a pro baseball career after the war. . . . Billy Meagher, eldest son of Lieutenant Commander Jack Meagher, former Auburn grid coach, recently enlisted in the navy. . . . Jack also has four younger boys at home awaiting their turns to join up. . . . Just Meagher and Meagher of them.

TEN ENTRIES IN BAY STATE RACE

9th Running Of Massachusetts Handicap Is Scheduled For Monday

BOSTON, July 3.—(AP)—Six "invaders" from New York and frour regularsof the New England season will meet Monday in the ninth running of Suffolk Down's $50,000 added Manssachusetts handicap—highlight of the Independence day card and richest stake of the New England turf season.

Ten horses have been named to start overnight and top weight will be shared equally by Louis Tufano's Market Wise and Greentree Stable's Shut Out, each under 126 pounds.

The consensus today was that the mile and an eighth event was between those two for it was over the Downs strip a year ago that Shut Out broke the track record as he won the $25,000 added Yankee handicap.

Close to Market Wise and Shut Out is William Helis' $55,000 purchase, Attention, which will run coupled with Salto as entry. In with 118 pounds, Attention figures to give the pair a deal battle. Salto will carry 103 pounds.

Binglin Stock farm's Don Bingo, a surprise winner of the suburban a few weeks ago, and Townsend B. Martin's Bankrupt complete the New York sextet. Under 114 pounds, Don Bingo may be difficult to catch in the stretch. Bankrupt will carry 107.

Fitted against those six will be Mrs. Hazel M. Babylon's Abbe Pierre, double stake winner at the Downs meeting, carrying 111 pounds; Mrs. Ray Feinberg's Firebroom, carrying 108; Albert F. Plock's Woodford Lad, winner of a sprint stake here and the only three-year-old in the field, at 102 pounds, and Lawrence B. Sheppard's Kansas, which will carry 101.

If all 10 horses start, the handicap will have a net value of $43,600. All appear certain starters if a fast track prevails, but Shut Out is unlikely to go if the track is muddy.

CHISOX DEFEAT A'S

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—Guy Curtright, whose 26-game hitting streak was ended yesterday, hit a home run in the first inning tonight to provide the first two runs in the Chicago White Sox' 6-to-4 defeat of the Philadelphia Athletics in a twilight game before 10,577 at Comiskey park.

The night game portion of the double-header was postponed.

Curtright, the major leagues' leading hitter, connected for his circuit blow after Wally Moses had singled. The two runs erased a 2-to-0 lead the Athletics had taken in the first half of the inning when Buck Ross walked four batters.

But Ross steadied down thereafter, alowing only eight hits in gaining his fifth victory. The White Sox bunched singles by Jimmy Grant, Don Kolloway, Joe Kuhel and Thurman Tucker with two Philadelphia errors for four runs in the fourth inning that decided the game. Roger Wolff was the losing pitcher.

The A's were batting in the third inning of the second game and had a 3-to-1 lead when the contest was halted.

Sideshow

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—The army came to the aid of the marines today when Ruth Domke and Marine Sergeant William Hoffman got married.

Bill's buddy was denied a furlough to officiate as best man, and Ruth, reviewing her list of male acquaintances, found they were all in service. So she called the Chicago service men's center, which sent Technician Thomas Carter, Whiteville, N. C., to the rescue. The ceremony went off with the army having the situation well in hand.

SUFFERN, N. Y., July 3.—(AP)—Farmer Andrew Zachmann had a 10-acre patch of string beans ready for the picking but no help to gather the crop.

He brought his woe to the village last night and said he would sell the beans to anyone who picked them for 75 cents a bushel. The wholesale market price here is $2 a bushel.

RESUME PLAY IN SOUTHERN MEET

Tennis Tournament Matches Again Start After Two Days Of Delay

ATLANTA, July 3.—(AP)—Favorites, accompanied by dark-horse Bob Dickinson of Charleston, S. C., resumed their march in the southern tennis tournament today after two days of postponements.

Dickson, a coast guardsman who already had eliminated first-seeded Earl Bartlett, added seventh-rated Lieutenant L. W. Shippey to his victims with a straight-set victory, 6-1 6-1. That put Dickson in the men's semi-finals.

Lieutenant Shippey, of the Atlanta naval air base and formerly of Jacksonville, had beaten Commander W. L. Maloney of Charleston, 6-3, 6-1, earlier in the day.

Second-seeded Jack Tuero of New Orleans and fourth-ranked Jack Teagle of Atlanta advanced into the semi-finals of the upper bracket. Tuero came from behind to stop Lieutenant Walter Pettit of the Atlanta naval base, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Pettit, former Princeton star, was seeded fifth. Teagle breezed through Johnny Dennis of St. Petersburg, Fla., 6-1, 6-3.

In the lower bracket, Atlanta's third-seeded Donald Floyd reached the quarter-finals by defeating Lade Herren, former national boys champion from Birmingham, in a prolonged battle, 4-6, 9-7, 9-7.

Action in men's doubles finally got under way when the St. Petersburg pair of Niles Millsaps and Dennis turned back Herren and William Watts, the latter of St. Petersburg also, 6-2, 6-3.

WAITING FOR A BUMP

SUFFOLK, Va.—(AP)—This could be called another one of those fish stories—but to be exact, it's really about a bird that eats fish. A Florence, S. C., fish truck passing through Suffolk recently, was accompanied by a large heron, which flew low over the truck and flapped along at an estimated 25-mile-per-hour clip.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—Pre-holi[day] day apathy dominated the stock mar[ket] today and, while specialize[d] strength was in evidence, lower ten[dencies] prevailed from the start fo[r] the majority of leaders.

There was some further trimming o[f] commitments as insurance against un[toward] happenings over Monday whe[n] principal exchanges will recess for th[e] celebration of Independence day. Numerous customers, brokers an[d] clerks remained away from the fin[ancial] sector and virtually all commission houses were manned by skele[ton] staffs. The result was one of th[e] slow sessions of the year, with onl[y] about 350,000 shares changing hands.

In Memoriam

MEMORY OF MR. LEE A. ELLIS

Lee A. Ellis, 59, died Saturday, June 1943. He was in the city of Shreveport, Louisiana, on business, seeking materials with which to complete a job which he had secured. The fatal attack came suddenly, and while en route to a hospital he passed on. And thus ended the earthly life of a man of this community, who had the esteem and confidence of all who knew him.

He was quiet, unassuming, and reticent. He was not disposed to be talkative, nor did he seek to push himself. There was something about him that gained the respect of his fellow men.

His genius lay in his building gifts, which he utilized in the contracting business to a good advantage. Many of the buildings of the community were erected under his masterly supervision, among which are the Ouachita parish gymnasium, and the remodeled building in which are now located the Morgan and Lindsay store.

His honor was unquestioned. A man, an associate of one of the architect firms of the city, said one day: "It is not necessary for me to keep on the job, when Mr. Lee Ellis is the contractor. He is the soul of honor, and whatever the contract calls for, you may be sure that the materials will be according to specifications, and I have known him to even exceed the specifications for the sake of the building's stability."

He was a patriot, and when war came he associated himself with Mr. Salley, and they builded for the government many buildings. Among these buildings are the ones at Camp Polk, Leesville.

He retired from the building profession because of his health, and spent the last few months of his life in comparative quite, although at the time of his decease he had two small contracts.

He was a man among men. He believed in the golden rule. He treated his fellow workmen as brothers, and from them he had their respect, confidence, and affection.

Instead of mourning, let us look up and address him in the words of the poet:

Thy day has come, not gone;
Thy sun has risen, not set;
Thy life is now beyond
The reach of death or change,
Not ended—but begun.
O noble soul! O, gentle heart— Hail, and farewell!

WOMEN'S ARMY CORPS AIDING

Feminine Group Gives Assistance To Men Seeking Combat Duty

"Women in the women's army corps are playing important roles in today's warfare, helping to get important army messages through by operating radios, teletypewriters, and telephones. The nimble hands of carefully trained WAC technicians aid in getting the messages through to our armies in the field," Sergeant William D. Waldrip of 307 postoffice building states.

The women's army corps maintains schools where WACs are taught radio repairing and operating, motor transport, army administration, music (to become WAC band leaders), and other useful and interesting duties. Upon completion of their course, the WACs go to active duty at army posts and stations, where they relieve soldiers needed for front line duty.

"It would be difficult to overestimate the importance of WACs and the army's needs for them," Sergeant Waldrip said. "They are working full time with the army at more than 100 different tasks, and requests for more WACs are pouring in from many different branches of the service.

"WACs are doing work with the army that formerly was done by men, work that they are proving themselves capable of doing as well as men, and often better. Today at army posts there are WAC aircraft mechanics, WAC radio operators and repairmen, automotive mechanics, librarians, secretaries, bookkeepers, cooks and bakers, photographers, chemists, cryptanalysts, and many others, all working for victory in the women's army corps."

To be eligible for enrollment in the WAC, one must be an American citizen between the ages of 21 and 44, inclusive, with two years of high school training, and with no dependents under fourteen years of age, Sergeant Waldrip said, inviting women who wish further information about joining the WAC to call at his office at 307 postoffice building, where they may obtain a copy of the new WAC picture booklet, entitled, "Back of the Fighting Front."

Georgia ranks second only to Vermont in the value of its quarried marble.

In Memoriam

MEMORY OF MR. LEE A. ELLIS

Lee A. Ellis, 59, died Saturday, June 1943. He was in the city of Shreveport, ouisiana, on business, seeking materiels ith which to complete a job which he ad secured. The fatal attack came sudenly, and while en route to a hospital he passed on. And thus ended the earthly life of a man of this community, who had the esteem and confidence of all who knew him.

e was quiet, unassuming, and reticent. He was not disposed to be talkative, nor did he seek to push himself. There was something about him that gained the respect of his fellow men.

is genius lay in his building gifts, which he utilized in the contracting business to a good advantage. Many of the buildings of the community were erected under his masterly supervision, among which are the Ouachita parish gymnasium, and the remodeled building in which are now located the Morgan and Lindsay store.

H:s honor was unquestioned. A man, an associate of one of the architect firms of the city, said one day: "It is not necessary for me to keep on the job, when Mr. Lee Ellis is the contractor. He is the soul of honor, and whatever the contract calls for, you may be sure that the materiels will be according to specifications, and I have known him to even exceed the specifications for the sake of the building's stability."

He was a patriot, and when war came he associated himself with Mr. Salley, and they builded for the government many buildings. Among these buildings are the ones at Camp Polk, Leesville.

He retired from the building profession because of his health, and spent the last few months of his life in comparative quite, although at the time of his decease he had two small contracts.

was a man among men. He believed in e golden rule. He treated his fellow orkmen as brothers, and from them he d their respect, confidence, and afction.

ead of mourning, let us look up and ddress him in the words of the poet:

Thy day has come, not gone;
Thy sun has risen, not set;
Thy life is now beyond
The reach of death or change,
Not ended—but begun.
O noble soul! O, gentle heart— Hail, and farewell.

WOMEN'S ARMY CORPS AIDING

Feminine Group Gives Assistance To Men Seeking Combat Duty

"Women in the women's army corps are playing important roles in today's warfare, helping to get important army messages through by operating radios, teletypewriters, and telephones. The nimble hands of carefully trained WAC technicians aid in getting the messages through to our armies in the field," Sergeant William D. Waldrip of 307 postoffice building states.

The women's army corps maintains schools where WACs are taught radio repairing and operating, motor transport, army administration, music (to become WAC band leaders), and other useful and interesting duties. Upon completion of their course, the WACs go to active duty at army posts and stations, where they relieve soldiers needed for front line duty.

"It would be difficult to overestimate the importance of WACs and the army's needs for them," Sergeant Waldrip said. "They are working full time with the army at more than 100 different tasks, and requests for more WACs are pouring in from many different branches of the service.

"WACs are doing work with the army that formerly was done by men, work that they are proving themselves capable of doing as well as men, and often better. Today at army posts there are WAC aircraft mechanics, WAC radio operators and repairmen, automotive mechanics, librarians, secretaries, bookkeepers, cooks and bakers, photographers, chemists, cryptanalysts, and many others, all working for victory in the women's army corps."

To be eligible for enrollment in the WAC, one must be an American citizen between the ages of 21 and 44, inclusive, with two years of high school training, and with no dependents under fourteen years of age, Sergeant Waldrip said, inviting women who wish further information about joining the WAC to call at his office at 307 postoffice building, where they may obtain a copy of the new WAC picture booklet, entitled, "Back of the Fighting Front."

Georgia ranks second only to Vermont in the value of its quarried marble.

KI-RO-LI WILL OPEN JULY 18

Boys From 15 Parishes Will Have Summer Outing Here

Boy Scout Camp Ki-Ro-Li will open on July 18 and will be in charge of Camp Director Charles B. Cook, and E. J. Brown, assistant director. The following eagle scouts will serve as camp counselors: Benja Smith, John Kelso, J. W. Webster, Jr., Floynn Oliver, and John Jenkins. A water front director is yet to be named.

The camp will accommodate 75 boys a week and registrations are being received at the scout office rapidly, and it is stated that the first come will be the first to be served.

Ki-Ro-Li is in better shape than ever to take care of the needs of the boys, it is stated. Huts have been improved, screened and provided with new mattresses. The pool has been cleaned and put in the best of condition. New plumbing has been installed. The improvements have been installed under the direction of A. J. Jones, camp committee chairman.

Present plans contemplate keeping the camp open for three weeks, but it may be decided to open it for a longer period of time. Some of the boys will arrange to stay longer than the one week period, that is the usual time for camping.

Merit badges and tests will mark the outcome of instruction to be given the scouts.

No ration books will be required as the ration board has arranged so as to obviate any difficulty through this source.

Boys from 15 parishes will attend.

GET INQUIRY ON BABY PEACOCKS

More Than 15,000 Other Questions Asked Of Library Commission

BATON ROUGE, La., July 3.—(AP)—Do you want to know what to feed baby peacocks, how to repair centrifugal pumps or the intricacies of flying an airplane.

These and 15,146 other requests for information have been received by the Louisiana Library Commission from residents of the state during the first six months of 1943.

Miss Essae M. Culver, executive secretary, said today the library commission was sometimes hard put to find the answers and called on the library of congress or other state libraries.

The questions, sent by mail, generally were of a practical nature and reflected the changing conditions of wartime, Miss Culver said. For example, the library has been deluged with requests for information about countries where fighting is in progress, soldiers have asked for data leading to officer's commission and defense workers have obtained material on marine engineering, electrical welding, steam fitting and a variety of other topics.

But home front problems have not been neglected. There have been numerous pleas for information on victory gardens, canning, dehydration of foods, inflation, poultry raising, raising of ducks, raising of rabbits, and housing.

There has been a marked increase, Miss Culver said, in the requests for aid in studying foreign languages. The commission has supplied Louisianians with Arabian primers and books in Russian and Czechslovakian language within the past few days.

A soldier wrote in for information on Heraldic designs; he was faced with the problem of designing insignia for a Louisiana bombardment squadron.

The commission was able to help a soldier's wife find out where her officer husband was stationed when they told her the location of Robert Louis Stevenson's grave, the husband having written that he had visited this shrine.

The request about the baby peacocks came from Pointe Coupee and the answer to that particular question is to feed the fowls nothing.

War Girl Of The Week

JEAN BOYCE

Jean attended the Ouachita Parish Grammar school and high school and was elected best all-around girl in her graduating class. Throughout her four years in high school she represented her school on the tennis team and during her senior year won the north Louisiana championship, singles and doubles.

In September of 1935 she entered Northeast Junior college, Monroe, where she majored in commerce.

After completing two years at Northeast Junior college she worked as acreage computer for the AAA and later was employed by the Ferd-Levi Stationery company.

Feeling that she would like to contribute to the war effort, Jean enrolled in the Ouachita Valley Trade school, West Monroe, on July 1, 1942, where she completed 480 hours in sheet metal work.

On August 28, 1942 she went to work for the 78th Sub-Depot, Selman field, as a general mechanic-helper. She now has the rating of junior aircraft mechanic and is an able assistant to W. C. Disheroon in the inspection department, Sub-Depot engineering. She is doing a swell job and is well liked by her fellow employes.

A. N. JONES IS TO LEAVE CITY

Popular Store Manager Will Receive Promotion; Now In Arkansas

A. N. Jones, for the past five and one-half years manager of the Monroe W. T. Grant store, has resigned and has already left for Little Rock, where he will be given a 11-week course of training which will be preparatory to accepting management of a large retail chain store.

The wide circle of friends of Mr. Jones in Monroe and throughout this section are expressing regret at his leaving but are pleased to know of his advancement. During his management here, the store has greatly expanded and its volume of business has been much increased.

He is a native of Norfolk, Va., where he attended high school and his first business connection was with the United Cigar stores.

When he left this company's employ he entered service with the W. T. Grant chain stores, and was successively employed by them in New Orleans, Dallas, Atlanta, Scranton, Memphis, Asheville and then came to Monroe to manage the store here.

Mr. Jones will work during his instruction period in Little Rock under H. G. Barham, former manager of a chain store in Monroe.

He is married and his wife as well as he himself has many friends in Monroe.

While not affiliated with any club here, Mr. Jones is a member of Grace Episcopal church.

He will be succeeded here by M. R. Graeser, of Concord, N. C., and the Monroe assignment will prove a promotion for him.

RADIO PROGRAM TO HONOR BOY SCOUTS

The public relations service of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America announces that coast-to-coast on the Blue network Sunday, July 4, at 3:15 p.m., eastern war time, the popular radio program, "Wake Up, America" will salute the Boy Scouts.

This radio forum is sponsored by the American Economic Foundation and the scouts will be honored for their war work, particularly the 100 mililon hours of farm work they are doing this year.

Honorable Herbert Hoover, ex-president of the United States, will speak on "The Food Situation."

The public and local scouts are urged to tune in to the program which promises to be highly interesting, educational and entertaining.

NEW RULING IS GIVEN LANDLORD

Rent Control Office Issues Regulation As To Housing

"Landlords and tenants are informed that, as a result of a recent amendment to the maximum rent regulations for housing, if a change is made henceforth in the rent unit from unfurnished to completely furnished, the landlord fixes his own rent for the fully furnished accommodations and is required to register same with the area rent control office within 30 days after the change. This rent may be decreased if the rent director finds it higher than rents for comparable furnished accommodations on March 1, 1942. If the landlord neglects to register the accommodations after first renting on a furnished basis, he may be required to refund to the tenant all excess rent charged since the change.

"The procedure and requirements are more complex in changes from completely furnished to unfurnished accommodations, and landlords are urged to secure information on the subject from the area rent control office before removing furniture or equipment from accommodations that have been rented on a furnished basis. Generally speaking, the change can be approved only in case the accommodations have become vacant or it is impossible longer to provide such furniture. Within ten days after the change, the landlord must file a petition with the area rent control office, and if the removal of furniture is authorized, the maximum rent will then be fixed for the accommodations on an unfurnished basis.

"If the landlord is renting, either furnished or unfurnished accommodations, for the first time, he fixes his own rent but must register same with the area rent control office within 30 days after first renting. If the first rent is higher than the rents generally prevailing in this defense-rental area for comparable accommodations on March 1, 1942, the rent director is authorized to reduce the first rent to the comparative level of rents for like-type accommodations on March 1, 1942."

NEW ORLEANS IS NEW OPA OFFICE

OPA Representative To Visit Monroe Every Other Tuesday In The Future

The priority information service furnished by the Shreveport district WPB office which brought a priority expert to the Chamber of Commerce office here each Friday for the past year has been discontinued due to the closing of the Shreveport office June 30.

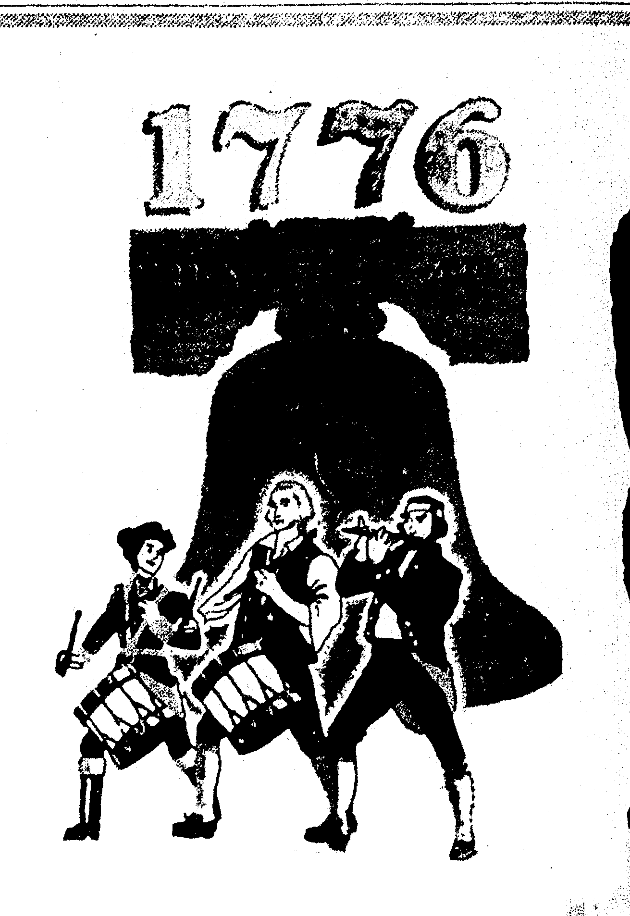
All applications for priorities which formerly were addressed to the Shreveport district office must now be addressed to the war production board district office, 412 Canal building, New Orleans. All of Louisiana is under the supervsion of the New Orleans WPB office now.

It has been announced that the New Orleans office will send a representative to the Chamber of Commerce office in Monroe on Tuesday, July 6 and every other Tuesday thereafter.

It has also been announced that a representative of the wage and hour division of the United States department of labor from the New Orleans district office of that department will spend every other Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce office and give information on the wage stabilization directives.

This representative will be in the Chamber of Commerce office on Wednesday, July 7, and every other Wednesday thereafter. This wage stabilization directive controls salary increases and decreases. Anyone interested in securing lists of essential industries and copies of statements of rules which employers must use in granting permission to employees who wish to move from one essential industry to another may be secured at the Chamber of Commerce office.

John Adams was the first United States president to occupy the White House. He moved in during November of 1800.



THIS July 4th the drums of war roll out their battle cry again, and Freedom . . . the spirit of '76 is the undiminished spirit of '43! But, it takes more than battle cries to win the war—and the peace . . . it takes the dollars you put into War Bonds and Stamps. Make this Independence Day another Bond Day in honor of the fighting sons of freedom on all the far flung battlefronts of the world. If you can't get into the Big Parade . . . let your dollars march!

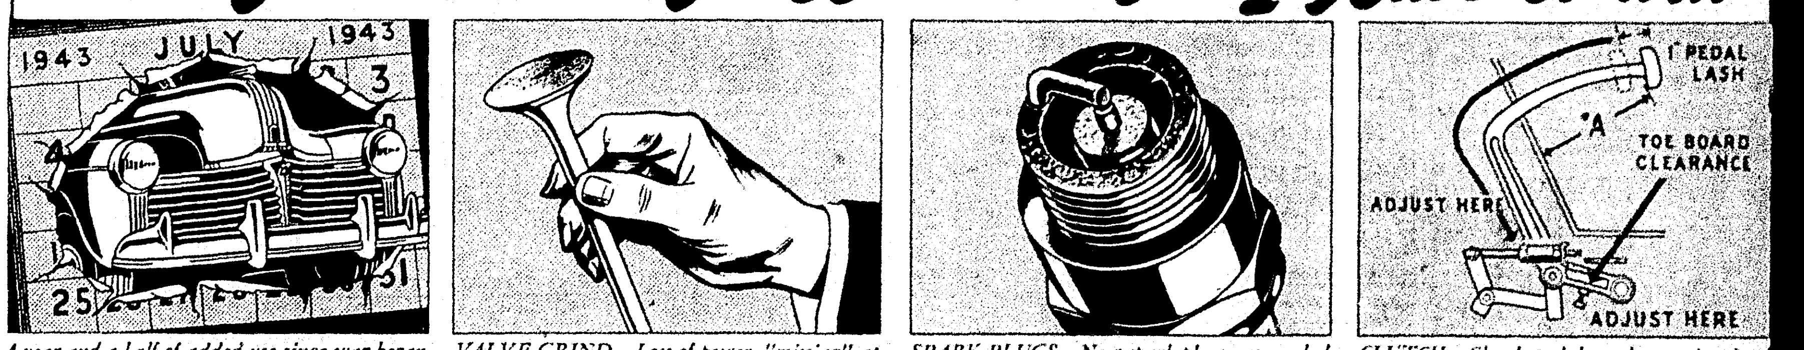
What your car may need.. after 1½ years of war



A year and a half of added use since war began—and an uncertain period of use ahead—mean that your car may now need some special repairs or parts replacements to keep it running properly. Some signs of trouble to expect and to be on the look-out for are—

VALVE GRIND—Loss of power, "missing" at various speeds or a rough idle may indicate need of valve grinding. Other conditions, however, may cause these same symptoms. Pontiac dealers' scientific testing equipment can determine when and if valves should be ground.

SPARK PLUGS—New spark plugs are needed if porcelain is cracked or when mileage or time has worn electrodes to a point where adjustment no longer assures proper sparking. Ask your Pontiac dealer to examine your spark plugs and advise you on necessary steps to be taken.

CLUTCH—Clutch pedal needs occasional adjustment to regulate the "free travel" which saves wear. After long service, clutch or clutch facings may need to be replaced. Before investing in this replacement, however, get free advice from your Pontiac dealer.

Pontiac Service*

*In the Service of the Nation

Essential transportation is vital to the war effort. That's why we, as Pontiac dealers, are devoting our entire energy and all of our skill, facilities and equipment to the all-American job of keeping your Pontiac and all makes of cars rolling efficiently for the duration. Pontiac dealers and their service facilities are in the service of a nation at war.

Many motorists today are facing new service problems. Cars are getting older, wartime driving restrictions necessitate special care, worn-out parts may need to be replaced.

When it is so important to keep your car in good running condition, you will want to know the best source for service and for replacement parts.

As authorized Pontiac dealers—with factory trained mechanics, efficient tools and equipment and available stocks of high quality parts—we can give you the help and advice which will solve your service problems.

Our service, our advice and our full cooperation are available to owners of all makes of cars.

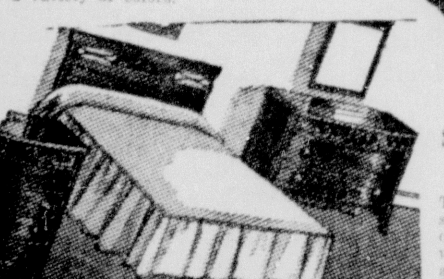
Now that the family is spending more time at home, eye-appealing, comfortable furniture is the order of these war time days! You may select sturdy, attractive pieces here in complete room sets or individually, to reflect your own good taste.

STUDIO COUCH

Just the thing for a war time home. These sturdy, well built, couches are attractive, and take up very little room yet they can be unfolded to make a wide, comfortable bed. The cushions are well padded, durable, and come in a variety of colors.



SOLID MAHOGANY BEDROOM SUITE

This complete bedroom suite consists of a full size double bed, chest of drawers, dresser and vanity, both with oval mirrors attached, chairs and a bed lamp. Each piece is made with superb craftsmanship and will retain its smartness many years from now.

MODERN DINING ROOM SUITE

A combination of smart, contrasting wood veneers that take a high polish and give an expensive look when it is years old. These lustrous mahogany suites are complete with a large table, 4 chairs, and buffet.

A safe place to store your precious possessions. These large, cedar-lined chests are the answer to your problem for more room. The top tray enables you to store things you need daily while the roomy bottom drawer offers a permanent storing place that is moth free.

KI-RO-LI WILL OPEN JULY 18

Boys From 15 Parishes Will Have Summer Outing Here

Boy Scout Camp Ki-Ro-Li will open on July 18 and will be in charge of Camp Director Charles B. Cook, and E. J. Brown, assistant director. The following eagle scouts will serve as camp counselors: Benja Smith, John Kelso, J. W. Webster, Jr., Floynn Oliver, and John Jenkins. A water front director is yet to be named.

The camp will accommodate 75 boys a week and registrations are being received at the scout office rapidly, and it is stated that the first come will be the first to be served.

Ki-Ro-Li is in better shape than ever to take care of the needs of the boys, it is stated. Huts have been improved, screened and provided with new mattresses. The pool has been cleaned and put in the best of condition. New plumbing has been installed. The improvements have been installed under the direction of A. J. Jones, camp committee chairman.

Present plans contemplate keeping the camp open for three weeks, but it may be decided to open it for a longer period of time. Some of the boys will arrange to stay longer than the one week period, that is the usual time for camping.

Merit badges and tests will mark the outcome of instruction to be given the scouts.

No ration books will be required as the ration board has arranged so as to obviate any difficulty through this source.

Boys from 15 parishes will attend.

GET INQUIRY ON BABY PEACOCKS

More Than 15,000 Other Questions Asked Of Library Commission

BATON ROUGE, La., July 3.—(AP)—Do you want to know what to feed baby peacocks, how to repair centrifugal pumps or the intricacies of flying an airplane.

These and 15,146 other requests for information have been received by the Louisiana Library Commission from residents of the state during the first six months of 1943.

Miss Essae M. Culver, executive secretary, said today the library commission was sometimes hard put to find the answers and called on the library of congress or other state libraries.

The questions, sent by mail, generally were of a practical nature and reflected the changing conditions of wartime, Miss Culver said. For example, the library has been deluged with requests for information about countries where fighting is in progress, soldiers have asked for data leading to officer's commission and defense workers have obtained material on marine engineering, electrical welding, steam fitting and a variety of other topics.

But home front problems have not been neglected. There have been numerous pleas for information on victory gardens, canning, dehydration of foods, inflation, poultry raising, raising of ducks, raising of rabbits, and housing.

There has been a marked increase, Miss Culver said, in the requests for aid in studying foreign languages. The commission has supplied Louisianians with Arabian primers and books in Russian and Czechslovakian language within the past few days.

A soldier wrote in for information on Heraldic designs; he was faced with the problem of designing insignia for a Louisiana bombardment squadron.

The commission was able to help a soldier's wife find out where her officer husband was stationed when they told her the location of Robert Louis Stevenson's grave, the husband having written that he had visited this shrine.

The request about the baby peacocks came from Pointe Coupee and the answer to that particular question is to feed the fowls nothing.

War Girl Of The Week

JEAN BOYCE

Jean attended the Ouachita Parish Grammar school and high school and was elected best all-around girl in her graduating class. Throughout her four years in high school she represented her school on the tennis team and during her senior year won the north Louisiana championship, singles and doubles.

In September of 1935 she entered Northeast Junior college, Monroe, where she majored in commerce.

After completing two years at Northeast Junior college she worked as acreage computer for the AAA and later was employed by the Ferd-Levi Stationery company.

Feeling that she would like to contribute to the war effort, Jean enrolled in the Ouachita Valley Trade school, West Monroe, on July 1, 1942, where she completed 480 hours in sheet metal work.

On August 28, 1942 she went to work for the 78th Sub-Depot, Selman field, as a general mechanic-helper. She now has the rating of junior aircraft mechanic and is an able assistant to W. C. Disheroon in the inspection department, Sub-Depot engineering. She is doing a swell job and is well liked by her fellow employes.

A. N. JONES IS TO LEAVE CITY

Popular Store Manager Will Receive Promotion; Now In Arkansas

A. N. Jones, for the past five and one-half years manager of the Monroe W. T. Grant store, has resigned and has already left for Little Rock, where he will be given a 11-week course of training which will be preparatory to accepting management of a large retail chain store.

The wide circle of friends of Mr. Jones in Monroe and throughout this section are expressing regret at his leaving but are pleased to know of his advancement. During his management here, the store has greatly expanded and its volume of business has been much increased.

He is a native of Norfolk, Va., where he attended high school and his first business connection was with the United Cigar stores.

When he left this company's employ he entered service with the W. T. Grant chain stores, and was successively employed by them in New Orleans, Dallas, Atlanta, Scranton, Memphis, Asheville and then came to Monroe to manage the store here.

Mr. Jones will work during his instruction period in Little Rock under H. G. Barham, former manager of a chain store in Monroe.

He is married and his wife as well as he himself has many friends in Monroe.

While not affiliated with any club here, Mr. Jones is a member of Grace Episcopal church.

He will be succeeded here by M. R. Graeser, of Concord, N. C., and the Monroe assignment will prove a promotion for him.

SAVE BY 'STAMPING' GUNS

RADIO PROGRAM TO HONOR BOY SCOUTS

The public relations service of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America announces that coast-to-coast on the Blue network Sunday, July 4, at 3:15 p.m., eastern war time, the popular radio program, "Wake Up, America" will salute the Boy Scouts.

This radio forum is sponsored by the American Economic Foundation and the scouts will be honored for their war work, particularly the 100 mililon hours of farm work they are doing this year.

Honorable Herbert Hoover, ex-president of the United States, will speak on "The Food Situation."

The public and local scouts are urged to tune in to the program which promises to be highly interesting, educational and entertaining.

NEW RULING IS GIVEN LANDLORD

Rent Control Office Issues Regulation As To Housing

"Landlords and tenants are informed that, as a result of a recent amendment to the maximum rent regulations for housing, if a change is made henceforth in the rent unit from unfurnished to completely furnished, the landlord fixes his own rent for the fully furnished accommodations and is required to register same with the area rent control office within 30 days after the change. This rent may be decreased if the rent director finds it higher than rents for comparable furnished accommodations on March 1, 1942. If the landlord neglects to register the accommodations after first renting on a furnished basis, he may be required to refund to the tenant all excess rent charged since the change.

"The procedure and requirements are more complex in changes from completely furnished to unfurnished accommodations, and landlords are urged to secure information on the subject from the area rent control office before removing furniture or equipment from accommodations that have been rented on a furnished basis. Generally speaking, the change can be approved only in case the accommodations have become vacant or it is impossible longer to provide such furniture. Within ten days after the change, the landlord must file a petition with the area rent control office, and if the removal of furniture is authorized, the maximum rent will then be fixed for the accommodations on an unfurnished basis.

"If the landlord is renting, either furnished or unfurnished accommodations, for the first time, he fixes his own rent but must register same with the area rent control office within 30 days after first renting. If the first rent is higher than the rents generally prevailing in this defense-rental area for comparable accommodations on March 1, 1942, the rent director is authorized to reduce the first rent to the comparative level of rents for like-type accommodations on March 1, 1942."

NEW ORLEANS IS NEW OPA OFFICE

OPA Representative To Visit Monroe Every Other Tuesday In The Future

The priority information service furnished by the Shreveport district WPB office which brought a priority expert to the Chamber of Commerce office here each Friday for the past year has been discontinued due to the closing of the Shreveport office June 30.

All applications for priorities which formerly were addressed to the Shreveport district office must now be addressed to the war production board district office, 412 Canal building, New Orleans. All of Louisiana is under the supervsion of the New Orleans WPB office now.

It has been announced that the New Orleans office will send [illegible] sentative to the Chamber of [illegible] merce office in Monroe on T[illegible] July 6 and every other Tuesday [illegible] after.

It has also been announced [illegible] representative of the wage an[illegible] division of the United States [illegible] ment of labor from the New [illegible] district office of that departme[illegible] spend every other Wednesday [illegible] Chamber of Commerce office an[illegible] information on the wage sta[illegible] tion directives.

THIS July 4th the drums of war roll out their battle cry again, and Freedom . . . the spirit of '76 is the undiminished spirit of '43! But, it takes more than battle cries to win the war—and the peace . . . it takes the dollars you put into War Bonds and Stamps. Make this Independence Day another Bond Day in honor of the fighting sons of freedom on all the far flung battlefronts of the world. If you can't get into the Big Parade . . . let your dollars march!

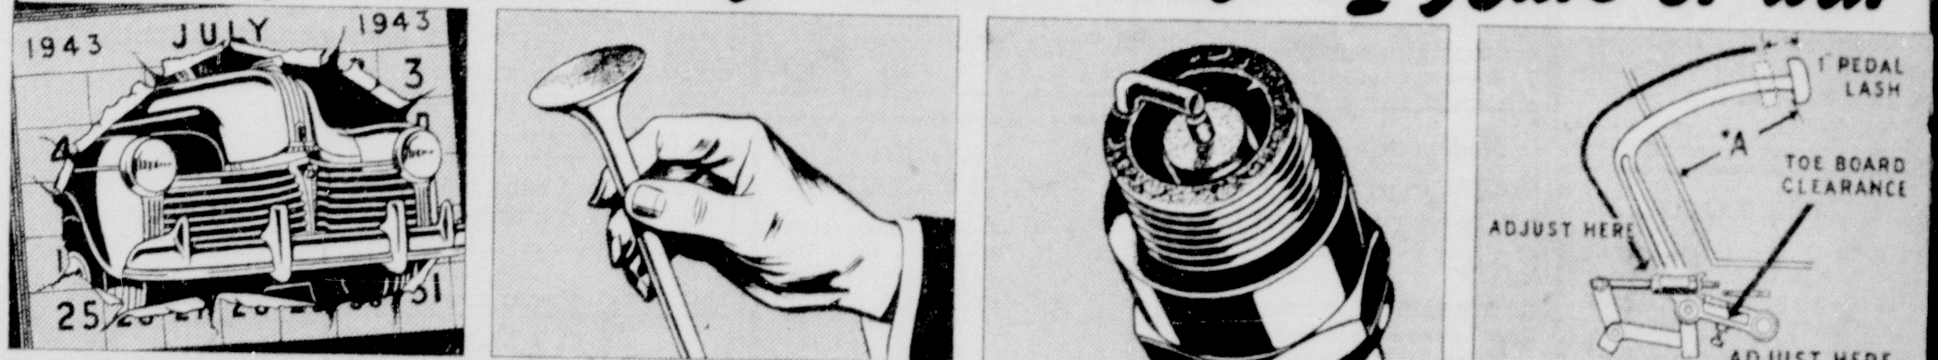
What your car may need.. after 1½ years of war



A year and a half of added use since war began—and an uncertain period of use ahead—mean that your car may now need some special repairs or parts replacements to keep it running properly. Some signs of trouble to expect and to be on the look-out for are—

VALVE GRIND—Loss of power, "missing" at various speeds or a rough idle may indicate need of valve grinding. Other conditions, however, may cause these same symptoms. Pontiac dealers' scientific testing equipment can determine when and if valves should be ground.

SPARK PLUGS—New spark plugs are needed if porcelain is cracked or when mileage or time has worn electrodes to a point where adjustment no longer assures proper sparking. Ask your Pontiac dealer to examine your spark plugs and advise you on necessary steps to be taken.

CLUTCH—Clutch pedal needs occasional adjustment to regulate the "free travel" which saves wear. After long service, clutch or clutch facings may need to be replaced. Before investing in this replacement, however, get free advice from your Pontiac dealer.

Pontiac Service*

*In the Service of the Nation

Essential transportation is vital to the war effort. That's why we, as Pontiac dealers, are devoting our entire energy and all of our skill, facilities and equipment to the all-American job of keeping your Pontiac and all makes of cars rolling efficiently for the duration. Pontiac dealers and their service facilities are in the service of a nation at war.

Many motorists today are facing new service problems. Cars are getting older, wartime driving restrictions necessitate special care, worn-out parts may need to be replaced.

When it is so important to keep your car in good running condition, you will want to know the best source for service and for replacement parts.

As authorized Pontiac dealers—with factory trained mechanics, efficient tools and equipment and available stocks of high quality parts—we can give you the help and advice which will solve your service problems.

Our service, our advice and our full cooperation are available to owners of all makes of cars.

THE GUMPS
SO YOU'RE MRS. GUMP'S BOY? COME IN, SON- I'M MRS. MARY HUBBARD- BUT EVERY ONE CALLS ME "OLD MOTHER HUBBARD"-
MOTHER HUBBARD? LIKE IN THE NURSERY RHYME?
NOT EXACTLY, CHESTER- BECAUSE SWEET LADIES, LIKE YOUR MOTHER, KEEP MY CUPBOARD WELL FILLED--
NOT HAVING ANY FAMILY OF MY OWN, I ADOPTED ALL THE FAMILIES IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD- EVERYBODY FOR MILES AROUND CALLS ME MOTHER HUBBARD-
GOLLY!! THEY'RE LUCKY-
NO- I'M THE LUCKY ONE- TO HAVE SO MANY FINE FOLKS TO LOVE AND LOOK AFTER- 'SPECIALLY NOW WHEN THERE'S SO MUCH HATE IN THE WORLD-
DO YOU COOK FOOD FOR ALL THOSE PEOPLE, MOTHER HUBBARD?
FOR ALL THOSE WHO NEED IT-
THERE'S LOTS OF CHILDREN THAT NEED LOOKING AFTER THESE DAYS- SO MANY OF THEIR MEN FOLKS HAVE GONE INTO SERVICE OR INTO WAR PLANTS- AND MANY OF THE MOTHERS AS WELL-
GEE, MOTHER HUBBARD- DO YOU THINK I COULD HELP?
BLESS YOUR HEART CHESTER- MAYBE SO- I'M NOT AS SPRY AS I USED TO BE- IF YOU COULD SPARE ABOUT AN HOUR EACH AFTERNOON-- SURE! WHEN CAN I START? TODAY? RIGHT NOW?!
GUS EDSON
THERE'S HOPE FOR THIS OLD WORLD WITH FINE BOYS LIKE YOU GROWING UP IN IT- YES- YOU MAY START RIGHT NOW-
TAKE THIS HOT BROTH TO A LITTLE GIRL WHO IS AILING- SHE LIVES IN THE GREEN HOUSE UP THE STREET-IS THAT YOU, MOTHER HUBBARD? COME IN-ROSE BUDD!
CHESTER GUMP!! I'M SO GLAD TO SEE YOU!
YES, CHESTER- I DON'T KNOW WHAT I'D DO WITHOUT MOTHER HUBBARD- MY FATHER WORKS EVERY DAY IN A MUNITIONS FACTORY--
HURRY UP AND GET WELL, ROSE-
BECAUSE I'VE GOT A GREAT IDEA- AND I NEED YOUR HELP-
